North Viet Response Leaves D. C. Puzzled

WASHINGTON (AP) — North Vietnam said today in a broadcast monitored here it is ready to send representatives to meet with U.S. representatives to decide about an unconditional halt of the bombing of the North so that peace talks could begin.

A State Department spokesman had no immediate comment on the Hanoi announcement and it was not immediately clear whether the United States would regard the North Vienamese statement as responding to President Johnson's newest offer.

The radio broadcast, in the Vietnamese language, said as translated here:

"It is clear that the U.S. government has not correctly and fully responded to the just demand of DRV (North Vietnamese) government, of U.S. progressive opinion, and of world opinion.

"However, on its part, the DRV government declares its readiness to send its representatives to make contact with U.S. representatives to decide with the U.S. side the unconditional cessation of bombing and all other war acts against the DRV so that talks could begin."

The North Vietnamese language broadcast arrived more than an hour ahead of a scheduled 11:15 a.m. EST announcement that Radio Hanoi had said it was going to make.

Johnson said Sunday night he had ordered air and naval attacks on North Vietnam stopped "except in the area north of the Demilitarized Zone where the continuing enemy build-up directly threatens allied forward positions and where movements of troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

Help on Way For Khe Sanh

SAIGON (AP) — U. S. and South Vietnamese troops have opened a drive to lift the North Vietnamese siege of the Marine base at Khe Sanh and have met no resistance, the American command said today.

The relief force was expected to push through soon to the battered fortress in the northwest, where 6,000 Marines and 1,000 South Vietnamese have been encircled since January by from 16,000 to 20,000 North Vietnamese regulars.

As this drive, which kicked off Monday, was announced, informed sources said that a Cambodian navy boat shot down a U.S. Navy plane on patrol off the west coast of South Vietnam.

The patrol plane was looking for gun-running Viet Cong trawlers in the Gulf of Siam. Its 10-man crew was missing.

In the advance on Khe Sanh, U.S. 1st Cavalry Division troopers were cooperating with Marines and South Vietnamese troops. In all, 8,000 troops were engaged in the drive.

The advance is west over National Highway 9 from Ca Lu to Khe Sanh, and the relief force has covered about one- third of the distance, the report said.

The Al Brown Center, Mayor's Veto Beaten

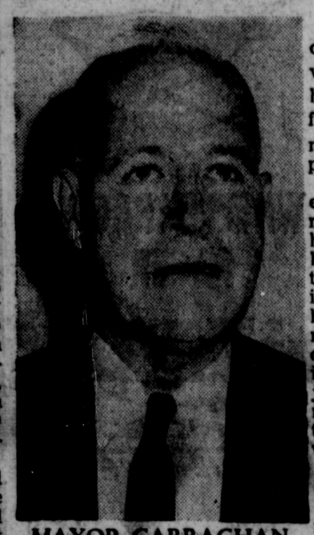
By HUGH REYNOLDS

The Common Council overrode Mayor Raymond W. Garraghan's veto of the proposed Albert Brown Memorial Recreation Center in Rondout last night by a 10-2 vote. The center has now been officially named.

A poll was also taken among the aldermen concerning a letter from the mayor in which Garraghan wrote that he had called four councilmen March 6 and (Garraghan wrote) "they could not give an answer" as to why they voted for the Brown Memorial. When asked if Garraghan had, in fact, called them, 11 aldermen said no. Alderman Joseph Epstein (D-Sixth Ward) was the only one who said Garraghan had called him.

The mayor today said he still felt the aldermen passed the Brown legislation "for political reasons." When asked about the vote on his telephone calls, Garraghan said, "I called four of them and in their hearts they know who they are."

Action came swiftly on the mayor's veto with Epstein making the motion to override it and Clifford Sinsabaugh (D-Fifth Ward) seconding. The two votes against it were from John Naccarato (R-Third Ward) and Frank Jablonski (R-Fourth Ward).



MAYOR GARRAGHAN

Naccarato said he didn't understand the resolution when he voted for it in March. He said he thought the resolution called for the placing of a plaque in memory of Brown in the proposed building.

Jablonski, one of the strongest supporters of the Brown resolution last month, said he had polled "200" residents of his ward and found "135 against the resolution, 40 neutral and 25 in favor." He said the people had nothing against Brown, former city policeman and Rondout community organizer killed in a car accident last year, they just didn't want the building named after one man. This was the reason Garraghan said he vetoed the measure.

Sinsabaugh considered the mayor's letter a "direct insult." "When I have to vote on any measure because of political reason's, I'll resign," he said.

Epstein termed Jablonski's survey "poppycock" and said that by voting against the resolution to override the veto the alderman would be upholding the mayor's charge that they didn't know what they were doing in March.

ALBERT BROWN

Edward Norton (D-Seventh Ward) said basically the same thing. "Somebody got to them and now they're voting against it. They're upholding the mayor," he said.

Machione Votes 'Yes'

John Machione (R-12th Ward) recalling Council action on the Hess Apartment issue in his ward, said "one hundred-seventy five people from my ward didn't even get a tumble from these guys (the Council) but I'm a better man. I'll vote for it."

In other action, the Council moved to accept a $720,493 grant from New York State as its share of the Uptown Urban Renewal Project. The other urban renewal business, approval of a parking garage on North Front Street, did not come up.

The Council also approved a $29,000 bond request by the Recreation Department to build bath houses at Kingston Point and a new cage for the bear at Forsyth Park along with equipment for other city parks. A rider was attached to that bill calling for the repair of storm sewers on North Street.

An agreement between IBM and the Kingston Lab for cooperation on research conducted by the lab with IBM's facility was officially approved. Three aldermen, Robert Schantz (R-Second Ward), Joseph Conlin (D-11th Ward) and Machione, asked to be excused from voting since they are employes of IBM. There is no money involved between the lab and IBM.

Approval Granted

The Kingston Housing Authority request for approval of its $700,000 contract to construct 32 units of senior citizen housing on Flatbush Avenue was approved. The original estimate had been $524,000. Once again, no city funds are involved.

A request from the police department for more than $9,000 in equipment, including two new police cars, was referred to the Finance, Ways and Means Committee.

Ulster Street was returned to its former status as a two-way street as was North Wilbur Avenue.

Mrs. Florence Shea Ludlow (D-First Ward) requested benches at the bus stops Uptown for senior citizens and a fountain in Academy Green. That was also referred to committee.

McCarthy, Nixon--New Trophies

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) — Democrat Eugene J. McCarthy, triumphant with 57 per cent of the vote in Wisconsin's prelude to battle, turned today toward the arenas which pose the real test of his claim that he can win the White House.

And Richard M. Nixon added another trophy in his march toward the Republican presidential nomination.

"We have demonstrated here in Wisconsin the ability to win in November," McCarthy told his corps of youthful volunteers after he trounced retiring President Johnson Tuesday in the season's second presidential primary.

Johnson got 35 per cent of the vote, but had announced Sunday he is not a candidate.

"As you know, this is only a preliminary victory," the Minnesota senator said. "We have to go on to primaries in other states— some of them perhaps more difficult than this one." For in those other states, McCarthy will be matched against New York Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Nixon built a towering 80 per cent of the Republican vote to match his showing in New Hampshire's opening primary three weeks ago. He had no real opposition in either race.

The former vice president said his showing proved that Wisconsin will be in the Republican column when the White House votes are counted next Nov. 5.

With 3,112 of 3,291 precincts counted, this was the Democratic picture:

McCarthy 390,204 votes for 57 per cent of the party turnout; Johnson 241,866 or 35 per cent.

Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, the rival McCarthy will have to overcome if he is to be nominated, drew 6 per cent of the votes. But those were write-in votes, for his name was not on the ballot. And Kennedy had urged that people who favor him vote for McCarthy in Wisconsin.

Nixon's Republican landslide read this way, with 3,094 precincts counted:

Nixon 371,432, or 80 per cent; California Gov. Ronald Reagan 48,968, or 11 per cent, habitual candidate Harold E. Stassen 27,281, or 6 per cent.

With that victory, Nixon captured 30 Wisconsin votes at the Republican national convention.

McCarthy won 17 Democratic votes with his state-wide victory, and another 32 by carrying eight congressional districts.

Johnson won eight votes—for the nomination he said he will not seek or accept—by running ahead in two Milwaukee districts including the predominantly Negro sections of the state's biggest city.

Rocky Dismayed

State Budget Settlement Facing Veto

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The Assembly voted its approval early today of a plan to end the state's budget crisis, but its achievement was clouded by the implied threat of a veto by an irate Gov. Rockefeller.

The Republican governor attacked the budget settlement as "so fiscally irresponsible that I could not go along with it."

Persons close to Rockefeller said he was "disturbed" and "dismayed" by the legislature's decision to balance his $5 - billion-plus budget largely by postponing $199 million in state-aid payments.

It was ratified during an Assembly session that ran until 4:40 a.m.

Defies Governor

The GOP - controlled Senate had approved the bulk of the spending and revenue plan last week and was expected to finish the job — in defiance of the governor — at today's session.

The budget solution, drafted by Republican and Democratic leaders of the politically split Legislature, would make it possible to cut back drastically the $494-million tax increase Rockefeller sought to help finance his spending proposals.

Specifically, the Legislature would scrap his request for a 20 - per - cent surcharge on the state income tax, as well as his demands for increases in the gasoline and liquor taxes.

They approved, however, his proposals for a variety of business-tax increases totaling $182 million.

The agreement was reached late Tuesday afternoon, as the state floundered through the second day of is new fiscal year without an approved budget to finance government operations.

Represents Compromise

It represented a compromise between rival Democratic and Republican plans to finance state expenditures through an additional levy on high-income tax payers or a 5-cent-a-pack boost in the cigarette tax. Both of these ideas were abandoned in the final settlement.

But Rockefeller objected to the arrangement under which the legislature would balance his fiscal program through spending cuts and economies totaling $117 million, plus the delayed-aid payment device.

He did not say directly that he would wield his veto power to block the settlement, but observers agreed this was implied in the critical statement he issued after confering with legislative leaders of both parties.

The governor may not use his veto on appropriation bills, except to delete spending additions. He may do so, however, on revenue measures or on special bills added to the budget package he sent to the Legislature.

The proposals to delay aid payments were contained in special bills.

The Assembly action transformed his appropriation measures into law, since the Senate already had approved them, and the governor's signature was not required.

Weeks of Wrangling

The budget settlement emerged sudenly after weeks of wrangling over ways of cutting back his tax increase plan. Republicans and Democrats agreed it would be highly desirable to minimize tax increases — especially to avoid the income-tax surcharge — in this election year, but they disagreed over how to do it.

The Republican - controlled Senate acted first, last Saturday, by approving a complete spending and revenue plan, largely substituting the cigarette-tax increase for the income-tax surcharge.

But the Democratic-ruled Assembly, under the leadership of Anthony J. Travia, was bent on replacing the across-the-board income tax increase with a levy on high-income tax payers only.

The final accord made these basic provisions:

Basic Provisions

— Rockefeller's original $5.5 billion spending plan was reduced by $117 million through spending cuts and other economies worked out on a bi-partisan basis. The agreement was to cut $141 million altogether, but the compromise plan restored $24 million for special education programs for urban areas.

—The 20-per-cent income tax surcharge was deleted from the revenue plan. It was designed to yield to $270 million in the present fiscal year.

— Also stricken were Rockefeller's requests for a cent - a - gallon increase in the gasoline tax and a dime-a-fifth boost in the liquor tax, estimated to yield a total of $36 million.

—In place of these tax measures, the lawmakers agreed to postpone to the following fiscal year a $148-million payment of school aid a $50-million of per capita aid, which may be used for any purpose. While communities will experience a slight delay in receiving the money, they will not suffer any loss in aid.

— To placate school districts that might be irritated by the delay the Legislature increased their assistance by $30 million beyond the $60-million boost proposed by Rockefeller in the state fiscal year.

Other Provisions

—Another $7 million in school aid was voted for districts with high tax rates and those with special problems caused by rapid growth.

—Additional cash — to apply against the need for tax increases — would be realized by calling in $95 million in loans for transportation, State University and mental hygiene projects. The working capital would be replaced with bond borrowings.

—The state will take over the mortgage transfer tax that the federal government is abandoning. The tax, levied on new mortgages at the rate of 55 cents per 100 of value, is expected to yield $4 million.

Something for Everyone at 21st Lions Club Exposition

Opening night for this years Kingston Lions Club Exposition is just three weeks away. The Exposition, which will be held at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue, opens Tuesday night, April 23 and runs through Saturday night April 27.

This is the 21st consecutive year of the Lions Exposition and it will feature some of the regular features as well as several new added attractions.

Advertised originally as a Home-Auto-Health Show, it was announced last week that a new feature, a Sports-a-Rama, would be added this year.

The Home Show portion each year features many of the latest in appliances and furnishings for the home. Some of the participating exhibitors this year will include Wallace's, Kingston Garden Center, Montgomery Ward, Scholar's Appliances and Markle's.

One of the highlights each year is the display of the latest automobiles by the participating dealers of the Kingston Automobile Dealers Association.

A new feature this year is the Health Clinic. Participating along with the Lions Club to provide a health screening clinic are the Ulster County Health Department and the New York State Department of Health. The following tests will be offered this year — glaucoma detection, electrocardiogram, breathing tests, blood pressure, diabetes, chest X-ray, and height and weight.

The other new section this year will be the Sports-a-Rama. In addition to featuring the latest in camping, boating and trailer equipment it is also planned to have a trout pond where people can angle for their own trout.

Each year the Exposition attracts large crowds to see the latest in automobiles and home furnishings as well as industrial and scientific displays. With this years new features, there promises to be something for everyone.

The ancient Greeks first called them "planets." Planet means "wanderer" in their language.

PAUL G. MERCIER

Reelected By Town Road Unit

Paul G. Mercier, Town of Esopus Highway Superintendent, was reelected president of the Ulster County Association of Town Superintendents of Highways at the annual business meeting of the association held last week at the Capri Restaurant, Port Ewen.

Mercier will be serving his third term as head of the county organization. The association was formed in the mid-1950's to provide a medium of exchange for ideas and discussion of problems common to town highway superintendents. Both present and former town superintendents of Ulster County townships are members of the organization.

Elected with Mercier were Lewis Denton of the Town of Gardiner as first vice president, Peter Anella of the Town of Lloyd as second vice president, Walter Maier of Glenford as secretary and Calvin Staples of Marlboro as treasurer. Maier is presently with the New York Thruway Authority and Staples is with the Ulster County Highway Department.

Mercier is now serving his 16th year as highway superintendent of the Town of Esopus. A well known and popular figure in township affairs, Mercier is a formidable vote getter. In last November's election, he received more votes than any other candidate appearing on the ballot in the Town of Esopus.

Service Award To Guardsmen From 156th

The commanding officer of the recently reorganized 156th Artillery, Lt. Col. Frank B. Aceto, presented the New York State Medal for long and faithful service to three of his officers and one enlisted man at recent ceremonies held at the State Armory.

The first award was made to Captain James H. Fiore, Kingston, Headquarters and Headquarters Battery commander, for 15 years of service. Something for Everyone at 21st Lions Club Exposition

Opening night for this years Kingston Lions Club Exposition is just three weeks away. The Exposition, which will be held at the New York State Armory on Manor Avenue, opens Tuesday night, April 23 and runs through Saturday night April 27.

This is the 21st consecutive year of the Lions Exposition and it will feature some of the regular features as well as several new added attractions.

Advertised originally as a Home-Auto-Health Show, it was announced last week that a new feature, a Sports-a-Rama, would be added this year.

The Home Show portion each year features many of the latest in appliances and furnishings for the home. Some of the participating exhibitors this year will include Wallace's, Kingston Garden Center, Montgomery Ward, Scholar's Appliances and Markle's.

One of the highlights each year is the display of the latest automobiles by the participating dealers of the Kingston Automobile Dealers Association.

A new feature this year is the Health Clinic. Participating along with the Lions Club to provide a health screening clinic are the Ulster County Health Department and the New York State Department of Health. The following tests will be offered this year — glaucoma detection, electrocardiogram, breathing tests, blood pressure, diabetes, chest X-ray, and height and weight.

The other new section this year will be the Sports-a-Rama. In addition to featuring the latest in camping, boating and trailer equipment it is also planned to have a trout pond where people can angle for their own trout.

Each year the Exposition attracts large crowds to see the latest in automobiles and home furnishings as well as industrial and scientific displays. With this years new features, there promises to be something for everyone.

The ancient Greeks first called them "planets." Planet means "wanderer" in their language.

PAUL G. MERCIER

Reelected By Town Road Unit

Paul G. Mercier, Town of Esopus Highway Superintendent, was reelected president of the Ulster County Association of Town Superintendents of Highways at the annual business meeting of the association held last week at the Capri Restaurant, Port Ewen.

Mercier will be serving his third term as head of the county organization. The association was formed in the mid-1950's to provide a medium of exchange for ideas and discussion of problems common to town highway superintendents. Both present and former town superintendents of Ulster County townships are members of the organization.

Elected with Mercier were Lewis Denton of the Town of Gardiner as first vice president, Peter Anella of the Town of Lloyd as second vice president, Walter Maier of Glenford as secretary and Calvin Staples of Marlboro as treasurer. Maier is presently with the New York Thruway Authority and Staples is with the Ulster County Highway Department.

Mercier is now serving his 16th year as highway superintendent of the Town of Esopus. A well known and popular figure in township affairs, Mercier is a formidable vote getter. In last November's election, he received more votes than any other candidate appearing on the ballot in the Town of Esopus.

'Gutter Politics,' Is Mayone's Charge

Republican City Chairman John Ray Mayone said today that the supporters of H. Clark Bell for the state assembly have stooped to "gutter politics" by having "unleashed a bitter personal attack upon myself and my family."

The GOP leader also replied to charges by Bell, in which the young attorney has questioned Mayone's method of appointing city committeemen just prior to the nominating convention, by saying "I filled these vacancies in strict compliance with the rules governing the Republican county organization, which rules were drafted by none other than (Bell) himself."

The Mayone-appointed committeemen, seven in all, voted for Peter J. Savago, the party's disignee for the assembly post now held by outgoing Kenneth L. Wilson.

The city chairman, speaking out on the alleged personal attacks, declared, "I take exception to this type of vendetta oppose those who stoop to gutter politics.

Not a Candidate

"I remind Mr. Bell and all concerned that I am not a candidate for assemblyman or any other post. But, let it be clearly understood, that if his team wishes to cause this situation to degenerate into a personal confrontation, I gladly accept the challenge and will fight this battle along the lines they choose.

Bell and his supporters are currently preparing for a primary fight to win the assemblyman nomination away from Savago.

Meanwhile, Robert L. Harp, chairman of the Peter Savago campaign committee, today announced plans for a "campaign count-down dinner" to be held at the Granit Hotel on Wednesday, May 1, at 7 p. m.

The purpose of the dinner will be to "meet with Pete" and other Republican candidates.

Serving as chairman for the event will be Paul M. Benson of New Paltz, with co-chairmen being Mrs. Lillian Salipatis, Melvin Mones and Thomas W. Roach.

JOHN RAY MAYONE

Enthusiastic Response

According to Harp, "The positive response to Mr. Savago's nomination has been enthusiastic throughout the assembly district. The campaign is already rolling in high gear and more Republicans are daily rallying behind the convention nominee."

City Chairman Mayone said, "I very much fear that the general tone of this primary contest has already been established by the Bell forces.

"Obviously, it is not to be conducted upon the issues and qualifications of the men seeking this high office. Instead it promises to quickly be reduced to a level which can only be detrimental to the candidates involved and the Republican Party."

State Police Job

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Col. Louis C. Viehl was selected today to succeed the retired John A. Roche as commander of the State Police field forces.

Superintendent William E. Kirwan said Viehl would take over the $23,000-a-year post on April 11 with the title of deputy superintendent. He has been serving an assistant deputy superintendent in the administration section.

Viehl, 55, a 28-year veteran of the State police force, lives in nearby Latham.

Dutchess Woman Perishes in Fire

By WALTER S. CLARK JR.

A third fire fatality to occur in this area in the last three days took the life of a 71-year-old Dutchess County woman late Tuesday, when her clothing ignited as she attempted to extinguish flames that burned a rug in her second floor bedroom.

95 Pct. Burns of Body

Dr. Michael Badeen, of Millerton, an assistant Dutchess county medical examiner, who investigated the death with Dover Plains State Police, said Mrs. Marjorie Helen Allen, of South Street, Amenia, suffered first, second and third degree burns of 95 percent of her body.

Dr. Badeen, who pronounced the woman dead at her home, said an autopsy would be performed today to determine whether Mrs. Allen died of smoke inhalation or burns. The body was removed to the hospital in Sharon, Conn.

Mrs. Allen was the third victim of fires this week.

On Sunday, Thomas Edward Williams Sr., 57, of Route 9W in Milton, was burned to death when his clothing caught fire after a can of gasoline he reportedly threw on a bonfire in his backyard exploded and sent sheets of flames at the man turning him into a human torch.

Early Monday morning, 3-year-old Evelyn Johnson died in St. Luke's Hospital in Newburgh of third degree burns of most of her body. Authorities said the child suffered the burns on March 27 after burning leaves ignited her clothes as she was watching a fire reportedly started by her mother, Margaret, in the back yard of the Johnson home on Route 3, in Wallkill, Town of Plattekill.

Flames Ignited Dress

Shortly before 6 p. m. yesterday, Mrs. Allen was sitting in her second floor bedroom when she attempted to light a cigarette, authorities said. Either the burning match or lighted cigarette dropped to the floor and set fire to the rug. The woman apparently tried to put the fire out and the flames ignited her dress.

Dr. Badeen said Mrs. Allen's son, Dean returned from work and told other members of the family he was going upstairs to see his mother. As he reached the second floor he saw smoke coming through the bedroom door. He rushed inside and discovered the flames. He quickly put out the fire that burned the clothing of his mother. A physician was summoned, the woman was pronounced dead.

State police said the fire damage was confined to the rug and bedding.

Fire Destroys Farmhouse In Plattekill

Eighty firefighters from three departments today battled flames that heavily damaged a three-story frame farmhouse on the Alex Dombroski farm on North Road at South Street in Plattekill. The property was formerly known as the Villa Madrid.

Plattekill fire units in command of Chief John Hoppenstedt Jr., responded to an alarm at 4:15 a. m. after occupants of the house discovered the fire and notified authorities. Through mutual aid fire units from Modena and Cronomer Valley in the Town of Newburgh were dispatched to the scene.

Gardiner and Wallkill fire companies were put on standby alert, according to a dispatcher at the Ulster County Fire Control Center.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex Dombroski, occupants of the large house, escaped scantily clothed without incident before firemen arrived. Firemen were at the scene more than five hours and later the local company returned to wet down smoldering timbers.

Reports from the area said no one was injured.

Tax Doesn't Pay

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — City Clerk Miles House noted that the first payment he received under the city's new sales and use tax isn't going to raise any revenue. A man sent in a penny to pay the tax on a soft drink he had bought. House had to spend six cents for a stamp to mail him a receipt.

Still Behind Eugene

Coalition for a Democratic Alternative forces in Ulster and Dutchess Counties were echoing today the victorious words of the man they're backing for the Presidency, Sen. Eugene McCarthy. Said CDA groups from both counties in a joint statement: "We have demonstrated in Wisconsin the ability to win the election in November."

In the wake of Wisconsin and the earlier withdrawal of President Lyndon Johnson from the campaign, the CDA in the 28th Congressional District pledged to continue its movement as before while strengthening its purposes.

Members of the Coalition, through chapters in Kingston, Woodstock, New Paltz, Ellenville, Poughkeepsie and Columbia County, plan to enter a slate of pro-McCarthy delegates to the Democratic National Convention in the June primary in the 28th District.

Training sessions in obtaining signatures for the petitions necessary to put the delegates on the primary ballot are slated this week in all communities where such petitions will be carried. Dutchess holds its session tonight at 7:30 at the Unitarian Fellowship; New Paltz canvassers meet tonight at 8 p. m. in the Town Hall; Woodstock's petitions committee met last night and will meet again Friday evening. All groups involved will begin circulating petitions immediately.

Vowing to solidify the movement and present a strong front, CDA groups throughout the 28th District said they would proceed according to present policy, in spite of the fact that many of its members feel Vice-President Hubert Humphrey will enter the Presidential sweepstakes before the week's end. Said CDA, "We will maintain the strength and operation of our organization and, with the political scene changing so rapidly, we choose to proceed with the circulation of petitions."

Big Viet Question

There was a curious tone to President Johnson's address to the nation on Vietnam, something that would have gone unremarked had he not concluded with his surprise announcement that he would not seek nor accept his party's nomination for a second term.

In the light of that startling decision, a re-reading of his words discloses a significant emphasis on the past tense—on what we "have done," on what our national goals "have been."

"The larger purpose of our involvement (in Vietnam) has always been to help the nations of Southeast Asia become independent, self-sustaining members of the world community," said the President. "We have done all we could" to bring that desired result about.

"A peaceful Asia is far nearer to reality because of what America has done in Vietnam . . ."

"Let it never be forgotten: Peace will come also because America sent her sons to help secure it."

Although the President restated what he has said before, that peace will come only "when Hanoi understands that our common resolve is unshakeable and our common strength is invincible," and although he warned that "the United States will not accept a fake solution to this long and arduous struggle and call it peace," there was a notable absence of the fire that characterized all his previous speeches.

There was no promise that "we shall persevere, we shall prevail," no pledge to bring home a coonskin to nail to the wall.

On the contrary, we are de-escalating—insofar as is consistent with the safety and security of our armed forces and those of South Vietnam.

Clearly, the immediate course of the war is up to Hanoi. And, by inference, failing any peace initiatives on the Communists' part, its ultimate course will be up to whoever succeeds Johnson in November.

If peace has not come by then, it will be up to the new president, reflecting the will of American people, to decide what next to do—whether to continue to pursue this nation's unilateral de-escalation, to reverse it or to try for some other solution.

In the meantime, President Johnson, obviously deeply conscious of the suffering, pain and misgivings the war has brought in its train, will devote his remaining months in office to a full-time endeavor to secure the just and honorable peace that has been so elusive for so many years. He has designated representatives who are ready for talks, at any suitable place, "just as soon as Hanoi agrees to a conference."

The big question is whether this latest offer from the President, even coupled with the announcement of his coming retirement, will inspire any kind of hopeful response from the men in Hanoi, or whether we are merely witnessing the beginning of a strange new chapter in a struggle that seems to have no end.

It comes as a shock to learn that the government has set aside $10 million to fight starvation and malnutrition. Half this money will be used immediately for food and medical attention in 256 deprived counties in 21 states. The half-starved young fashion-followers and dieters in the affluent counties need this help too. Or some stiff lectures on health.

Senator Russell B. Long, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, predicts a general tax rise, not just a surcharge tax this year. He said the surcharge idea makes you mad twice—once when you have to calculate it, and second when you see the result. Also, it hits all alike, whereas the general tax would be graduated according to means.

President's Move Basis For Real Negotiations

WASHINGTON — President Johnson has put principle above personal ambition. In a magnificent display of patriotism, he has asked the American people to unite behind a constructive policy to save not only Vietnam but the other nations of the world as well as the United States from the threats of Communist imperialism.

Whether the Hanoi Government and its sponsors—the Soviet Union and Red China — accept right away Mr. Johnson's sincere proposals for a peace negotiation, the air at least has been cleared. The world knows that the United States genuinely wants an end to the war but also that it does not intend to seek "peace at any price."

By withdrawing from the presidential race, Mr. Johnson, in effect, puts the American people as well as all the candidates of both parties on the spot. The President's peace plan now will be considered on its merits and will be separated from the political campaign—a fortunate devvelopment at a critical time in American history.

Why did the President announce that he would not accept re-nomination? He probably was influenced by a variety of reasons. Five years and two months in the Presidency is a long time for any man to bear the burdens of the White House nowadays, especially with his health record. Also, no matter how earnest he might have been in his campaigning, he would have been handicapped in discussing the Vietnam war. Much of what he would be saying would be discounted as having a political motivation.

If Bobby Kennedy had defeated Mr. Johnson for the nomination, it would have been humiliating for LBJ. If both Senator McCarthy and Senator Kennedy were deprived of the nomination after a bitter contest with the President, the disunity in the party would have hurt Lyndon Johnson's chances of re-election. If Vice President Humphrey becomes the presidential nominee is elected, it will be a vindication for Lyndon Johnson. So, all in all, the President decided on a course of self-denial—and one which will give him a distinguished place in history.

There are people on Capitol Hill who are still skeptical. They think that the president — if he has a lucky break and the war in Vietnam is ended — will change his mind and accept a "draft" at the Democratic convention in August. But the chances are that LBJ, while flattered by such a development, would really prefer after 37 years of public service to retire.

Who will win at the two national conventions? Assuming that the Johnson proposals on Vietnam meet with public approval, it is likely that Vice President Humphrey will be the beneficiary, and he undoubtedly will have the support of the Johnson wing of the Democratic party.

As for the Republican nomination, former Vice President Nixon now will find himself moving more and more toward the Johnson position on the Vietnam question and will have to concentrate on domestic issues in order to win the election. Governor Rockefeller could be "drafted." He, however, would also have to come up with programs in internal problems that are better than those of Mr. Nixon. For hereafter, so far as politics is concerned, the debate on international questions may become secondary.

The Hanoi government will seem for awhile to be negative about the President's proposals. But pressure from Great Britain and other countries will be exerted in a determined attempt to line up Moscow on the side of some kind of peace negotiation — perhaps like the parleys which ended the Korean war.

Meanwhile, America's policy in Vietnam will gradually be focused on strengthening the Vitenamese army so that fewer and fewer American troops will be involvd. If this is done and it begins to look like a prolonged conflict, North Vietnam may have second thoughts about ignoring the Johnson peace plan.

Certainly President Johnson has made a wise move in centering world attention on ways of settling the Vietnam War. Peoples everywhere will soon learn that America is not presenting barriers to peace in southeast Asia. It is the consequence of aggression that must be faced not only by the nations in Asia but by the other powers around the globe if progress is to be made toward world peace.

President Johnson's speech on Sunday night will be widely supported by world opinion. It could furnish the basis at last for a real negotiation between the adversaries in the Vietnam War.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A good world heavyweight champion has no wife, no children to speak of, a comic strip mentality, and a hard left hook. There is a young man in Louisville, Ky., named James Albert Ellis, and he is none of these things and is lazy besides. In a month I think he will be the new champ.

All he has to do is to win one more fight. The man is Jerry Quarry. In a world of cockeyed ironies, Quarry is the white hope in this battle. Jerry's faint edge is that it will be staged in his state, at Oakland, Cal. Jimmy Ellis's edge is that he has a wife and six children who live in an old rented house at 1346 South 12th St., in Louisville. The rent is $75 a month and they would like to see it there every month.

Ellis is a good-looking tan smiler. He's 6 feet one, weighs 195 and slinks in a chair over a cup of coffee like he's 5 feet 6 and 145. His father, Walter H. Ellis, a concrete worker from Quill Street, had 11 children. Jimmy was sixth, not old enough to protect the little ones, and not young enough to be protected by the big ones.

Walter Ellis is a Baptist minister. He and Mrs. Ellis know the Good Book. They had one lesson for all 11 children: "Never, never talk back." It worked. Jimmy said: "Yes, ma'am' and "No, sir" so much Louisville thought he was in a semantic rut. He wanted to be a baseball player, but his father said he could get the boy a dollar an hour lifting cement blocks, so Jimmy said "Yes, sir."

Ten years ago, when he was 18, he was shooting baskets and the breeze in back of a friend's house and he wondered what ever happened to that nice polite quiet girl named Mary Etta Williams, the girl he knew in the sixth grade. He went out to Tellersville to find out, and married her on Christmas Day. "She was quiet," he said. "I liked her right away."

They laced their fingers together forever. Now they have Jamesetta, 10, a wished-for girl who turned out to be a boy; James Jr., 7; Inez 6; Mary Bess Elizabeth 4; Sonya 2; and Jeffrey Lamont, 1 month old. Jimmy Ellis was training for the Quarry fight when the new slugger was born. He had to get permission from his manager, Angelo Dundee, to fly home to see the baby. Jimmy thinks he looks great. "Still," he says, stirring the coffee slowly, "I think I should slow up now on babies and go back to shooting pool."

It's a thought. A thought requires time and energy, so Jimmy gave it up. He was thinking about 10 years ago, when WAVE-TV in Louisville staged amateur bouts called "Tomorrow's Champions." One night Ellis saw a friend of his get beaten by another Louisville kid named Cassius Clay. "How'd you ever let that guy beat you?" Ellis said to his friend Donny Hall. "I don't know' is hardly the response of the intellectual. I can beat him," said Ellis who never fought in his life.

Ellis trained at the Young Youth Gym, on 22nd and Magizine Street. He weighed 149, fought in trousers and leather shoes. The gym had one punching bag and a stove. Jimmy was always an easy-going boy, and he surprised himself by knocking out a sparring partner per day. His parents opposed fisticuffs, but the boy said he just wanted to try it.

In his first bout he knocked out Conrad Winters in 43 seconds. He won the second fight on points; the third by a knockout. He and Cassius Clay fought in the American Legion Club as amateurs. Clay weighed 172; Ellis 155. Clay won on points. Jimmy felt bad because he had no excuse.

They fought again in 1959 at the East End Optimists Club, and Ellis shook Clay until his ego rattled. Jimmy won. Both trained in the same gymnasium, and became friends. Both turned professional in 1960. Ellis had some growing to do. He lost five fights as a middleweight, none as a heavyweight. A year ago, Cassius degraded himself by choosing Uncle Sam as his opponent and he lost his fans.

There has been an elimination tourney for Clay's heavyweight title. The last two victors are Jerry Quarry, the tomato surprise, and Jimmy Ellis, the poverty program. I have seen both men fight, and now and then I go with Chris Dundee to see Ellis work out. He is sharp, swift and can take a good punch.

He is not a nightclub dandy and he writes letters to his wife ending with the same word: "Help!" I asked him if he has saved any money and he said he has Gordon Davidson, who used to be Cassius Clay's mentor, investing some money in stocks. I asked what kind of stocks and he gave it grave thought.

"I'm not sure," said Jimmy, "but I think I have some U. S. Internal Revenue Funds." Don't we all?

Senate Cabal Tries to Fix Textile, Steel Import Quotas

WASHINGTON — Three key Senators last week formed a backstage, high-powered log-rolling team to fix import quotas on textiles, steel and oil before the American public woke up to what was happening.

The three Senators were: Ernest Hollings, freshman Democrat from South Carolina; Vance Hartke, the dovish Democrat from Indiana; and Russell Long, the ebullient Democrat from Louisiana, whose family owns several million dollars' worth of offshore oil leases in the Gulf of Mexico.

Together they formed a cabal which threatens to repeat the old log-rolling fiasco of the Hoover administration when the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act was put across on an unsuspecting public. This ended in demolishing American trade. It was one important factor which brought on the Great Depression.

The handsome Hollings, representing Southern textile manufacturers, suddenly tacked the textile import quota provision on the fiscal bill continuing telephone and automobile excise taxes. Hollings had done a lot of advance spadework. The bill shot through the Senate 55 to 31.

Administration Senators were taken completely by surprise.

The textile industry has suffered no pain in recent years. Between 1961 and 1966, its sales jumped from $13.4 billion to $19.5 billion. Its profits zoomed from $280 million to $700 million in the same period.

During the two-year period from 1965 to 1967 there was an increase in textiles employment despite greatly increased automation.

Nevertheless, Senate log-rollers had their way.

Other Log-Rollers

Sitting in the Senate wings was adroit, able Eddie McCormack, nephew of Speaker John McCormack, and former Attorney General of Massachusetts. He is the No. 1 mastermind of the steel lobby. Working with him was Senator Hartke, who has contributed constructive ideas toward peace and usually has been a champion of the consumers.

Howere, big steel — Bethlehem, Inland, U. S. Steel—has plants and loading facilities on the Lake Michigan shore of Indiana. Hartke has become the spearhead of the lobby to put quotas on steel imports.

Simutaneously, Sen. Russell Long spearheads the lobby for oil. Russell's family is the chief stockholder in the Winor-Lose Oil Company with millions invested in Louisiana oil.

These three Senators have corralled engough votes among oil, steel and textile Senators to override the fact that today the United States exports $4 billion more than it imports, and the warning that American farmers would be seriously hurt first if import quotas are placed on textiles, steel and oil. Foreign countries would retaliate immediately.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler has also warned that the import quotas would jeopardize our balance of trade and further hurt the dollar.

The National Retail Merchants Association has warned that the quotas would lead to substantial price increases for the American public.

Nevertheless, the log-rolling combine in Congress so far has got its way.

Quiet Canadian Democracy

In contrast to the barnstorming and ballyhoo over choosing the next U. S. President, Canada will select a new Prime Minister next weekend in comparative quiet.

Technically, the Liberal party will simply replace its retiring leader, Prime Minister Lester Pearson, with a new party chieftain. Because the Liberal party is in power, the successor will automatically take over as Prime Minister without the fuss of a national election.

The voters, however, aren't being ignored. The party will choose a leader who seems most likely to win the next official election, which probably will be called sometime in the summer.

Thus the Canadian candidates, like their American counterparts, are out beating the bushes to demonstrate their voter appeal. The liberals even have their Bobby Kennedy—Pierre - Elliot Trudeau, a flamboyant, 44-year-old newcomer to politics—who has shaken up the party hierarchy.

Just as Bobby broke into the government as Attorney General, Trudeau is Minister of Justice. Like Bobby, Trudeau is too impatient to wait for an orderly advance up the political ladder. His greatest appeal like Bobby's, is with youth. But like Bobby, he may need more seasoning before he is qualified to take over the government.

Therefore, the Liberals are more likely to turn to the veteran, scholarly Minister of External Affairs, Paul Martin, who has a greater claim on the party. Trudeau's headline appeal and Martin's solid party base make them the front runners.

By tradition, it is also a French-Canadian's turn at leadership. Both Trudeau and Martin are bilingual and come from French-Canadian stock.

Two Anglo-Saxons, Minister of Transport Paul Hellyer and Minister of Trade Robert Winters, also have large followings. Winters, a former businessman, preaches "fiscal integrity," which appeals to the conservatives in his party.

There are seven other candidates, all well qualified.

Best guess is that the quietly able Martin will come out of the Ottawa convention this weekend as Canada's new leader. His selection would be reassuring to Washington, for Martin has lived most of his life in Windsor, opposite Detroit, and has had many conferences with the State Department. The White House will be watching the Canadian choice closely.

It's Kennedy, Not Humphrey

By BRUCE BIOSATT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Johnson's lightning-stroke announcement of his intent not to run in 1968 gives the supreme advantage to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination. This does not presage a wholly new fight with Vice President Humphrey as the President's stand-in.

A quick check of key Democratic sources discloses little serious talk of Humphrey as a 1968 prospect.

His once-broad support in the party's potent liberal wing has been heavily eroded during his year's as faithful-spokesman for the President.

Humphrey is a vivid symbol of the very Johnson policies on the Vietnam war which the President himself acknowledges have been gravely divisive. At the heart of his decision not to run was the expressed wish to see this divisiveness ended. To promote and advocate Humphrey would be to continue it.

As he made his historic declaration, matched only by President Truman's similar statement in the early spring of 1952, the President had a clear reading from his political advisers on how serious a threat Robert Kennedy's candidacy represented to his renomination.

That threat was large from the outset of Kennedy's entry into the race on March 16. Kennedy's impressive campaign swath through 15 states in 2½ weeks magnified the threat many times.

Thus the President could have had no illusions, upon the occasion of his announcement, that he was doing anything but clearing the road for Kennedy.

Some Democrats queried after the Johnson announcement insisted that he will "do everything he can" to prevent Kennedy's nomination.

But, the indications are heavily against them.

Not only does his announcement posture make an effort for Humphrey unlikely, but had he wanted to aid Kennedy's chief active rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, the President obviously would have waited until after the Wisconsin primary results.

McCarthy's showing against noncandidate Johnson will now be discounted. Some of the shine is rubbed off. It hardly seems a presidential tactic designed to assist Kennedy's only presently visible competition.

The President is fully aware, of course, of opinion polls which show McCarthy running a weak third in the crucial California race, where 172 delegates (two others are already chosen) are up as the prize in the June 4 primary. Nor are McCarthy's prospect materially brighter in such other upcoming primary tests as those in Indiana, Nebraska and Oregon.

Key Democratic figures in the big states with huge delegate votes have shown slight interest in McCarthy's candidacy., Many in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and elsewhere, have stayed firmly loyal to the President. They are now released from that bond, and all signs suggest that—with varying degrees of speed—they will move toward Kennedy as the candidate most likely to move the electorate and win the November election.

A top Republican politician, whose judgments are highly regarded, greeted the Johnson pull-out with his own flat declaration:

"The choice will now be Kennedy."

With the President confiding in so few persons, it may be a considerable time before anyone will know with full authority what processes of reasoning and feeling took him to his dramatic decision. Until then, only speculation can fill the gap.

Whatever weariness and trauma he may have felt as the result of the pounding given him by clamoring critics of his Vietnam policies, it is also plain that he has never felt at home in the politics of the presidency, did little to master it, and was discovering in these last weeks that the cost of this neglect was immense even among such committed supporters as those he had in large number in the ranks of labor.

At this moment of greatest personal trial, he was getting lip service loyalty from many quarters, but heartfelt backing almost nowhere in the nation.

Editor, The Freeman

People frequently ask me rather pessimistically, "What is the younger generation coming to?"

I found one thrilling answer to this question on Saturday when I spent an hour or two visiting the Scouting Spectacular at the armory. Truly an American phenomenon, this event was a powerful example of what free men and women are doing in service to youth.

Display after display, event after event, gave evidence of thousands of hours spent by volunteer workers with Explorer posts, Scout troops and Cub packs. Scouts and Cubs swarmed over the great drill-hall doing a hundred and one things that some dedicated leader had taught them and encouraged them to do.

Herein lies America's greatness, and the security of her future. As long as these leaders, both men and women, week after week, indoors and out, in sunshine and rain or snow, work to build character, self-reliance, the development of a cooperative as well as a competitive spirit; as long as parents join hands with other parents in home and neighborhood cooperation so that boys may grow into strong purposeful manhood, America is not lost.

A Scout salute to every volunteer from commissioner to junior leader and den chief for a job well done.

Sincerely yours,
David C. Gaise, D.D.

Urban Renewal

Editor, The Freeman:

I consider the present situation of the Downtown urban renewal area a disgrace to Kingston and we should think twice before we also devastate the Uptown area.

In order to attract builders to the Downtown area, the city should turn the blighted place into a large, grassy park. With federal and state aid a park setting would finally do the trick.

Also, allowing Hess and Comany to construct an apartment complex Uptown would tend to create an abundance of apartments and thus keep out any intended new and very necessary buildings in the Downtown urban renewal area. It is odd that the aldermen would allow this to happen as it did, especially when more than 100 residents of the 12th Ward opposed it and since it will eventually cost the taxpayers of the city more than $200,000. It will cost $140,000 for additional sewage facilities and $60,000 for a new road. Since Hes is planning to construct only half his complex at first, with his own men and materials, his meager $12,500 in taxes won't pay for beans.

If we're going to go for higher taxes, why is it kept quiet? Is anyone going to do anything about it? Just like no one does anything about the other great tragedy in Kingston, the lack of proper recreational facilities for young and old, can we really expect the mess Downtown to be corrected?

And let's not forget that higher city taxes mean higher rents as well for all those people whose aldermen don't mind going to meetings every night to push a measure through. It'd be nice if they cared as much for other things such as devastation and recreation.

The Hanoi government will seem for awhile to be negative about the President's proposals. But pressure from Great Britain and other countries will be exerted in a determined attempt to line up Moscow on the side of some kind of peace negotiation — perhaps like the parleys which ended the Korean war.

Meanwhile, America's policy in Vietnam will gradually be focused on strengthening the Vitenamese army so that fewer and fewer American troops will be involvd. If this is done and it begins to look like a prolonged conflict, North Vietnam may have second thoughts about ignoring the Johnson peace plan.

Certainly President Johnson has made a wise move in centering world attention on ways of settling the Vietnam War. Peoples everywhere will soon learn that America is not presenting barriers to peace in southeast Asia. It is the consequence of aggression that must be faced not only by the nations in Asia but by the other powers around the globe if progress is to be made toward world peace.

President Johnson's speech on Sunday night will be widely supported by world opinion. It could furnish the basis at last for a real negotiation between the adversaries in the Vietnam War.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

A good world heavyweight champion has no wife, no children to speak of, a comic strip mentality, and a hard left hook. There is a young man in Louisville, Ky., named James Albert Ellis, and he is none of these things and is lazy besides. In a month I think he will be the new champ.

All he has to do is to win one more fight. The man is Jerry Quarry. In a world of cockeyed ironies, Quarry is the white hope in this battle. Jerry's faint edge is that it will be staged in his state, at Oakland, Cal. Jimmy Ellis's edge is that he has a wife and six children who live in an old rented house at 1346 South 12th St., in Louisville. The rent is $75 a month and they would like to see it there every month.

Ellis is a good-looking tan smiler. He's 6 feet one, weighs 195 and slinks in a chair over a cup of coffee like he's 5 feet 6 and 145. His father, Walter H. Ellis, a concrete worker from Quill Street, had 11 children. Jimmy was sixth, not old enough to protect the little ones, and not young enough to be protected by the big ones.

Walter Ellis is a Baptist minister. He and Mrs. Ellis know the Good Book. They had one lesson for all 11 children: "Never, never talk back." It worked. Jimmy said: "Yes, ma'am' and "No, sir" so much Louisville thought he was in a semantic rut. He wanted to be a baseball player, but his father said he could get the boy a dollar an hour lifting cement blocks, so Jimmy said "Yes, sir."

Ten years ago, when he was 18, he was shooting baskets and the breeze in back of a friend's house and he wondered what ever happened to that nice polite quiet girl named Mary Etta Williams, the girl he knew in the sixth grade. He went out to Tellersville to find out, and married her on Christmas Day. "She was quiet," he said. "I liked her right away."

They laced their fingers together forever. Now they have Jamesetta, 10, a wished-for girl who turned out to be a boy; James Jr., 7; Inez 6; Mary Bess Elizabeth 4; Sonya 2; and Jeffrey Lamont, 1 month old. Jimmy Ellis was training for the Quarry fight when the new slugger was born. He had to get permission from his manager, Angelo Dundee, to fly home to see the baby. Jimmy thinks he looks great. "Still," he says, stirring the coffee slowly, "I think I should slow up now on babies and go back to shooting pool."

It's a thought. A thought requires time and energy, so Jimmy gave it up. He was thinking about 10 years ago, when WAVE-TV in Louisville staged amateur bouts called "Tomorrow's Champions." One night Ellis saw a friend of his get beaten by another Louisville kid named Cassius Clay. "How'd you ever let that guy beat you?" Ellis said to his friend Donny Hall. "I don't know' is hardly the response of the intellectual. I can beat him," said Ellis who never fought in his life.

Ellis trained at the Young Youth Gym, on 22nd and Magizine Street. He weighed 149, fought in trousers and leather shoes. The gym had one punching bag and a stove. Jimmy was always an easy-going boy, and he surprised himself by knocking out a sparring partner per day. His parents opposed fisticuffs, but the boy said he just wanted to try it.

In his first bout he knocked out Conrad Winters in 43 seconds. He won the second fight on points; the third by a knockout. He and Cassius Clay fought in the American Legion Club as amateurs. Clay weighed 172; Ellis 155. Clay won on points. Jimmy felt bad because he had no excuse.

They fought again in 1959 at the East End Optimists Club, and Ellis shook Clay until his ego rattled. Jimmy won. Both trained in the same gymnasium, and became friends. Both turned professional in 1960. Ellis had some growing to do. He lost five fights as a middleweight, none as a heavyweight. A year ago, Cassius degraded himself by choosing Uncle Sam as his opponent and he lost his fans.

There has been an elimination tourney for Clay's heavyweight title. The last two victors are Jerry Quarry, the tomato surprise, and Jimmy Ellis, the poverty program. I have seen both men fight, and now and then I go with Chris Dundee to see Ellis work out. He is sharp, swift and can take a good punch.

He is not a nightclub dandy and he writes letters to his wife ending with the same word: "Help!" I asked him if he has saved any money and he said he has Gordon Davidson, who used to be Cassius Clay's mentor, investing some money in stocks. I asked what kind of stocks and he gave it grave thought.

"I'm not sure," said Jimmy, "but I think I have some U. S. Internal Revenue Funds." Don't we all?

Senate Cabal Tries to Fix Textile, Steel Import Quotas

WASHINGTON — Three key Senators last week formed a backstage, high-powered log-rolling team to fix import quotas on textiles, steel and oil before the American public woke up to what was happening.

The three Senators were: Ernest Hollings, freshman Democrat from South Carolina; Vance Hartke, the dovish Democrat from Indiana; and Russell Long, the ebullient Democrat from Louisiana, whose family owns several million dollars' worth of offshore oil leases in the Gulf of Mexico.

Together they formed a cabal which threatens to repeat the old log-rolling fiasco of the Hoover administration when the Smoot-Hawley Tariff Act was put across on an unsuspecting public. This ended in demolishing American trade. It was one important factor which brought on the Great Depression.

The handsome Hollings, representing Southern textile manufacturers, suddenly tacked the textile import quota provision on the fiscal bill continuing telephone and automobile excise taxes. Hollings had done a lot of advance spadework. The bill shot through the Senate 55 to 31.

Administration Senators were taken completely by surprise.

The textile industry has suffered no pain in recent years. Between 1961 and 1966, its sales jumped from $13.4 billion to $19.5 billion. Its profits zoomed from $280 million to $700 million in the same period.

During the two-year period from 1965 to 1967 there was an increase in textiles employment despite greatly increased automation.

Nevertheless, Senate log-rollers had their way.

Other Log-Rollers

Sitting in the Senate wings was adroit, able Eddie McCormack, nephew of Speaker John McCormack, and former Attorney General of Massachusetts. He is the No. 1 mastermind of the steel lobby. Working with him was Senator Hartke, who has contributed constructive ideas toward peace and usually has been a champion of the consumers.

Howere, big steel — Bethlehem, Inland, U. S. Steel—has plants and loading facilities on the Lake Michigan shore of Indiana. Hartke has become the spearhead of the lobby to put quotas on steel imports.

Simutaneously, Sen. Russell Long spearheads the lobby for oil. Russell's family is the chief stockholder in the Winor-Lose Oil Company with millions invested in Louisiana oil.

These three Senators have corralled engough votes among oil, steel and textile Senators to override the fact that today the United States exports $4 billion more than it imports, and the warning that American farmers would be seriously hurt first if import quotas are placed on textiles, steel and oil. Foreign countries would retaliate immediately.

Secretary of the Treasury Henry Fowler has also warned that the import quotas would jeopardize our balance of trade and further hurt the dollar.

The National Retail Merchants Association has warned that the quotas would lead to substantial price increases for the American public.

Nevertheless, the log-rolling combine in Congress so far has got its way.

Quiet Canadian Democracy

In contrast to the barnstorming and ballyhoo over choosing the next U. S. President, Canada will select a new Prime Minister next weekend in comparative quiet.

Technically, the Liberal party will simply replace its retiring leader, Prime Minister Lester Pearson, with a new party chieftain. Because the Liberal party is in power, the successor will automatically take over as Prime Minister without the fuss of a national election.

The voters, however, aren't being ignored. The party will choose a leader who seems most likely to win the next official election, which probably will be called sometime in the summer.

Thus the Canadian candidates, like their American counterparts, are out beating the bushes to demonstrate their voter appeal. The liberals even have their Bobby Kennedy—Pierre - Elliot Trudeau, a flamboyant, 44-year-old newcomer to politics—who has shaken up the party hierarchy.

Just as Bobby broke into the government as Attorney General, Trudeau is Minister of Justice. Like Bobby, Trudeau is too impatient to wait for an orderly advance up the political ladder. His greatest appeal like Bobby's, is with youth. But like Bobby, he may need more seasoning before he is qualified to take over the government.

Therefore, the Liberals are more likely to turn to the veteran, scholarly Minister of External Affairs, Paul Martin, who has a greater claim on the party. Trudeau's headline appeal and Martin's solid party base make them the front runners.

By tradition, it is also a French-Canadian's turn at leadership. Both Trudeau and Martin are bilingual and come from French-Canadian stock.

Two Anglo-Saxons, Minister of Transport Paul Hellyer and Minister of Trade Robert Winters, also have large followings. Winters, a former businessman, preaches "fiscal integrity," which appeals to the conservatives in his party.

There are seven other candidates, all well qualified.

Best guess is that the quietly able Martin will come out of the Ottawa convention this weekend as Canada's new leader. His selection would be reassuring to Washington, for Martin has lived most of his life in Windsor, opposite Detroit, and has had many conferences with the State Department. The White House will be watching the Canadian choice closely.

It's Kennedy, Not Humphrey

By BRUCE BIOSATT
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Johnson's lightning-stroke announcement of his intent not to run in 1968 gives the supreme advantage to Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic nomination. This does not presage a wholly new fight with Vice President Humphrey as the President's stand-in.

A quick check of key Democratic sources discloses little serious talk of Humphrey as a 1968 prospect.

His once-broad support in the party's potent liberal wing has been heavily eroded during his year's as faithful spokesman for the President.

Humphrey is a vivid symbol of the very Johnson policies on the Vietnam war which the President himself acknowledges have been gravely divisive. At the heart of his decision not to run was the expressed wish to see this divisiveness ended. To promote and advocate Humphrey would be to continue it.

As he made his historic declaration, matched only by President Truman's similar statement in the early spring of 1952, the President had a clear reading from his political advisers on how serious a threat Robert Kennedy's candidacy represented to his renomination.

That threat was large from the outset of Kennedy's entry into the race on March 16. Kennedy's impressive campaign swath through 15 states in 2½ weeks magnified the threat many times.

Thus the President could have had no illusions, upon the occasion of his announcement, that he was doing anything but clearing the road for Kennedy.

Some Democrats queried after the Johnson announcement insisted that he will "do everything he can" to prevent Kennedy's nomination.

But, the indications are heavily against them.

Not only does his announcement posture make an effort for Humphrey unlikely, but had he wanted to aid Kennedy's chief active rival, Sen. Eugene McCarthy of Minnesota, the President obviously would have waited until after the Wisconsin primary results.

McCarthy's showing against noncandidate Johnson will now be discounted. Some of the shine is rubbed off. It hardly seems a presidential tactic designed to assist Kennedy's only presently visible competition.

The President is fully aware, of course, of opinion polls which show McCarthy running a weak third in the crucial California race, where 172 delegates (two others are already chosen) are up as the prize in the June 4 primary. Nor are McCarthy's prospect materially brighter in such other upcoming primary tests as those in Indiana, Nebraska and Oregon.

Key Democratic figures in the big states with huge delegate votes have shown slight interest in McCarthy's candidacy., Many in Pennsylvania, Ohio, Illinois and elsewhere, have stayed firmly loyal to the President. They are now released from that bond, and all signs suggest that—with varying degrees of speed—they will move toward Kennedy as the candidate most likely to move the electorate and win the November election.

A top Republican politician, whose judgments are highly regarded, greeted the Johnson pull-out with his own flat declaration:

"The choice will now be Kennedy."

With the President confiding in so few persons, it may be a considerable time before anyone will know with full authority what processes of reasoning and feeling took him to his dramatic decision. Until then, only speculation can fill the gap.

Whatever weariness and trauma he may have felt as the result of the pounding given him by clamoring critics of his Vietnam policies, it is also plain that he has never felt at home in the politics of the presidency, did little to master it, and was discovering in these last weeks that the cost of this neglect was immense even among such committed supporters as those he had in large number in the ranks of labor.

At this moment of greatest personal trial, he was getting lip service loyalty from many quarters, but heartfelt backing almost nowhere in the nation.

April 1, 1968

Editor, The Freeman

People frequently ask me rather pessimistically, "What is the younger generation coming to?"

I found one thrilling answer to this question on Saturday when I spent an hour or two visiting the Scouting Spectacular at the armory. Truly an American phenomenon, this event was a powerful example of what free men and women are doing in service to youth.

Display after display, event after event, gave evidence of thousands of hours spent by volunteer workers with Explorer posts, Scout troops and Cub packs. Scouts and Cubs swarmed over the great drill-hall doing a hundred and one things that some dedicated leader had taught them and encouraged them to do.

Herein lies America's greatness, and the security of her future. As long as these leaders, both men and women, week after week, indoors and out, in sunshine and rain or snow, work to build character, self-reliance, the development of a cooperative as well as a competitive spirit; as long as parents join hands with other parents in home and neighborhood cooperation so that boys may grow into strong purposeful manhood, America is not lost.

A Scout salute to every volunteer from commissioner to junior leader and den chief for a job well done.

Sincerely yours,
David C. Gaise, D.D.

Urban Renewal

Editor, The Freeman:

I consider the present situation of the Downtown urban renewal area a disgrace to Kingston and we should think twice before we also devastate the Uptown area.

In order to attract builders to the Downtown area, the city should turn the blighted place into a large, grassy park. With federal and state aid a park setting would finally do the trick.

Also, allowing Hess and Comany to construct an apartment complex Uptown would tend to create an abundance of apartments and thus keep out any intended new and very necessary buildings in the Downtown urban renewal area. It is odd that the aldermen would allow this to happen as it did, especially when more than 100 residents of the 12th Ward opposed it and since it will eventually cost the taxpayers of the city more than $200,000. It will cost $140,000 for additional sewage facilities and $60,000 for a new road. Since Hes is planning to construct only half his complex at first, with his own men and materials, his meager $12,500 in taxes won't pay for beans.

If we're going to go for higher taxes, why is it kept quiet? Is anyone going to do anything about it? Just like no one does anything about the other great tragedy in Kingston, the lack of proper recreational facilities for young and old, can we really expect the mess Downtown to be corrected?

And let's not forget that higher city taxes mean higher rents as well for all those people whose aldermen don't mind going to meetings every night to push a measure through. It'd be nice if they cared as much for other things such as devastation and recreation.

CHICAGO — (NEA) — For Chicago, today's thunder is tomorrow's storm.

Ominous warnings are rumbling through this city as Americans wonder what will happen in Chicago before and during the Democratic national convention in August.

According to rumors, power lines to the International Amphitheater, site of the convention, will be bombed. Threats have been made by black power advocates that the city will be blacked out during the convention and that hotels will be dynamited.

Police, who are not taking these warnings lightly, are even running down an underground report that 10 pounds of the mind-bending drug LSD will be dumped into Lake Michigan's water intake "to send the whole city on a trip."

The increasing threat of massive violence hangs menacingly over the city.

What happens will have a profound effect upon the future of this country. At stake is one of the most American of traditions — the peculiar ritual of choosing a political party's candidate for president.

If this process is disrupted or permitted only by the weight of armed force, the very breath of democracy will have been choked.

Tested Troubled Waters

This reporter spent weeks testing the troubled waters. Blunt talks were held with antiwar protesters, bitter black militants, street gang leaders. Their views and their threats were matched against intelligence gained by government and police agents.

The conclusion is inescapable. The fuse has been lit. Whether it will be snuffed out before the Democrats nominate their standard bearer can not be answered. But these conclusions can be drawn at this writing:

Up to a million persons are expected to descend upon Chicago to demonstrate in one way or another against the foreign and domestic policies of the Johnson administration.

Efforts will be made before the August convention to "heat up" the city to the point that delegates will be at least apprehensive about coming to Chicago. The aim is to keep them away.

Chicago's black ghettos are at an explosive point and street gang members, who helped keep the peace last summer, have passed the word that they won't be "bought off" this summer. A riot could doom the convention.

Antiwar protesters are hard at work organizing a national coalition of more than 200 peace groups to spearhead the convention demonstrations.

Coalition leaders, it was learned, are studying four possible approaches for August '68. One would be aimed at all-out disruption of the convention but it has few adherents.

Electoral Alternative

Another plan is an electoral alternative which would call for the coalition to set up a counterconvention to create a peace ticket.

Some planners believe peace groups should stay out of Chicago in August. They charge President Johnson and the Democratic party would "welcome a bloodbath" in Chicago.

Their reasoning is that law and order will be the major domestic issue in the presidential campaign and that if Democratic Mayor Richard J. Daley uses force to put down protesters at a Democratic convention, this will prove that the Democrats will not stand for crime and disorder in the streets.

The approach which, insiders say, has the best possibility of acceptance would feature "disciplined, co-ordinated demonstrations."

Dencentralized demonstrations would be held across the city during the convention under this plan. On the first day of the convention, protests would focus on the crisis of the cities and dozens of demonstrations would be held at welfare offices, schools, urban renewal offices and similar locations.

The convention's second day would be marked by scattered protests against the war. They would be held at induction centers, draft boards, and at the federal building.

Massive 'Funeral' March

Some 50,000 persons would participate in these actions but, on the day the candidate is nominated, a massive "funeral" march on the amphitheater would be held. Some half-million persons would join the procession to be climaxed by the "burial of the Democratic party."

"We will be trying to conduct peaceful protests at all times," a top planner told this reporter. "But, of course, we will not have complete control over the throngs."

He admitted the possibility of violence if counterdemonstrators "start something." But this is not his biggest worry.

"What really concerns us is that there may be paid provocateurs infiltrating our group, hired to start trouble," he said.

If this happens, it will be nothing new. During concerted civil rights marches in Chicago two summers ago, march leaders had to pull a loudmouthed agitator out of line.

He turned out to be a policeman.

Government Works on Family Budgets

By ROBERT M. LEWIN
Chicago Daily News Foreign Service

CHICAGO — The changing living habits of Americans and rising living costs have put the government to work on new family budgets.

Thomas J. McArdle, regional director of the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, said today that the government is preparing estimates of the cost of three new budgets:

Above the moderate standard for a family of four; below the standard for the four; and for a retired couple.

The government recently said that $9,191 a year was needed for a family of four for a moderate living standard in Urban areas; $9,376 in Metropolitan areas, and $8,366 in smaller cities.

The standard family for those budgets were a husband, age 38, who was an experienced worker with 15 years of marriage; a wife who has no outside job; a son, 13, and a daughter, 8.

In 1963, a poverty line of $3,000 a year income was figured out, but the government denied it had anything to do with it.

The AFL-CIO long has scoffed at the $3,000 figure and forecasts that $4,000 to $5,000 will be the new poverty level.

At the new minimum wage of $1.60 an hour, a workers income at 40 hours a week would be $3,328 a year.

Rudolph Oswald, an economist in the AFL-CIO's research department, charged that the city worker's family budget of $9,376 omits some "common and necessary costs."

He noted that the average factory worker earns about $114 a week, or about $5,900 a year.

He also noted that only about half of American families—in which head of the family works full time in his prime working life, between 35 and 44—have an income of $9,000 or more a year.

Oswald said that the government's budget provides for the husband's purchase of a year-round suit once every four years. It also provides for the purchase of a two-year-old used car every four years, he added.

Oswald complained that the budget contained nothing for carrying charges, when more workers are buying more on instalments. He also said that the budget allows nothing for savings and for the college education of the children.

The government's budget listed 22.6 per cent for food; 26.8 per cent for housing costs and furniture, television and radio sets, and appliances; 10½ per cent for clothes and personal care; 5 1/10 per cent for medical-dental care; 2.9 per cent for Social Security and 11 per cent for other taxes, among the major expenses.

Rudolph Oswald, an economist in the AFL-CIO's research department, charged that the city worker's family budget of $9,376 omits some "common and necessary costs."

He noted that the average factory worker earns about $114 a week, or about $5,900 a year.

He also noted that only about half of American families—in which head of the family works full time in his prime working life, between 35 and 44—have an income of $9,000 or more a year.

Oswald said that the government's budget provides for the husband's purchase of a year-round suit once every four years. It also provides for the purchase of a two-year-old used car every four years, he added.

Oswald complained that the budget contained nothing for carrying charges, when more workers are buying more on instalments. He also said that the budget allows nothing for savings and for the college education of the children.

The government's budget listed 22.6 per cent for food; 26.8 per cent for housing costs and furniture, television and radio sets, and appliances; 10½ per cent for clothes and personal care; 5 1/10 per cent for medical-dental care; 2.9 per cent for Social Security and 11 per cent for other taxes, among the major expenses.

Vol Discrimination Bill in Assembly

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A bill that would limit the power of the State Commission on Human Rights in the investigation of alleged discrimination by volunteer fire departments has been sent to the Assembly.

The bill, which would prohibit the commission from examining fire department records prior to Jan. 1, 1960, gained Senate approval Tuesday. Its passage in the lower house appears dim.

The Senate also approved a bill designed to encourage private colleges to continue services so that they can compete with state-financed schools.

Sen. Leon E. Giuffreda, R-Suffolk, sponsor of the bill dealing with volunteer fire departments, said the commission should be barred from impugning the integrity of former members who had long since left the departments.

Sen. Ivan Warner, D-Bronx, a Negro, argued against the bill because, he said, it was necessary to show a pattern of discrimination before the commission could require volunteer departments to admit Negro members.

Another Negro, Sen. Basil Paterson, D-Manhattan, cited a case this week in which the Glen Cove, L.I., fire department was ordered to admit a Negro applicant who said he had tried to join the department in 1957.

Under this bill, Paterson said, the commission would have been unable to determine that the applicant had previously applied.

The education measure would create a Regional College Cooperative Services Board to facilitate development programs between five or more private colleges.

Under the terms of the bill, representatives from private colleges would meet with the State Commissioner of Education to determine whether a need exists for such cooperations in a specific geographical area.

Once a board was formed, it would draw up plans for joint use of faculty, libraries, laboratories and other facilities.

The Senate postponed action on a bill that would define the procedure for donation of a person's body for life-saving purposes. Included in the bill were heart transplant procedures and the use of organs for other purposes.

Objections to the bill were raised on moral and religious grounds, with opponents contending that the legislation contained no safeguards for the deceased.

Also posponed was action on a measure that would reduce the time to begin child abandonment proceedings from a year to six months. The Social Services Department sought the islation to speed up adoption proceedings.

The Senae passed a measure that would permit a municipality to ban gasoline and diesel powered motor vehicles from the streets during severe air pollution emergencies.

Plan Open House

The West Hurley Library will hold open house Saturday 1 to 5 p. m. Members of the board will be on hand to answer questions. The public may attend. The library is on Route 28, next to Salvucci's Restaurant.

Ellenville Board's Appointments

The Ellenville Village Board, holding its monthly meeting recently, reappointed a number of village officials, and set a date for its budget hearing.

Reappointed were Police Justice Joseph Friedman, Village Attorney James Murray, Clerk and Tax Collector Lillian Finklestein, Village Engineer Aaron Horowitz, Assessor Lillian Finklestein and Dog Warden Dale Brackman.

Mayor Eugene Glusker appointed Trustee Walter Grey as deputy mayor and filled the trustee's slot with Robert Dowling.

The budget hearing was slated for April 11 at 8 p. m. at the village offices.

Youth Reported On Roof

Details were sketchy at Freeman press time concerning an incident at 22 Post Street around 10 a. m. today. The Freeman received a report that a 14-year-old youth was on the roof of the building and apparently had intentions to jump.

The building was surrounded by city police from the uniformed and detective division and the youth was taken into custody at 11:34 a. m.

Police would release no details on the case pending an investigation. It was reported that the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Joseph Ostermann from St. Peter's Church was on the scene.

License Application

WASHINGTON (AP) — WENE, Inc. has applied for a license to operate an FM station in Endicott, N.Y., the Federal Communications Commission said Tuesday.

The station would operate on 105.5 megacycles.

ter," said Maj. Gen. John J. Tollson of New Bern, N.C., commander of the cavalry division who has assumed control of the operation called Pegasus. "There should be enough here to keep us busy."

Major Battle Uncertain

It was too soon to tell if a major battle would erupt when the relief force strikes the main North Vietnamese positions.

Informed sources reported that it was presumed a big air and sea search was under way for the patrol plane in the Gulf of Siam.

The siding was 12 miles northeast of Thanh Hoa and about 225 miles above the demilitarized zone. Navy pilots also attacked the Bai Thuong airfield 22 miles northwest of Thanh Hoa and about 10 miles south of the northern limit.

Deeper Penetration

Both raids penetrated deeper than the northernmost attack Monday, the first day of the bombing limits, when U.S. planes flew within 15 miles of the northern boundary to hit a supply base near Thanh Hoa.

Navy planes from carriers in the Tonkin Gulf hit that target again Tuesday, along with a motor maintenance compound two miles south of Thanh Hoa, the U.S. Command said.

The President in his speech Sunday night said the bombing would be confined to the "area north of the demilitarized zone" where the enemy supply buildup threatens forward allied bases but gave no geographic limits. Disclosure of the raid Monday near Thanh Hoa brought charges in Washington that the President had implied a much smaller area of possible targets, and the Pentagon announced the northern boundary for air and naval attacks is the 20th parallel of latitude—about 225 miles above the demilitarized zone, 70 miles south of Hanoi and 60 miles south of Haiphong.

This exempts North Vietnam's chief industrial area centered on Hanoi and Haiphong, the fertile Red River Delta, the country's chief port, Haiphong, and the two rail lines from Red China. The area still open to U.S. attack contains about a fourth of North Vietnam's area, the chief supply lines to Communist forces in South Vietnam, about half North Vietnam's farm land, and about 10 per cent of the population.

Hanoi Claims Plane

North Vietnam claimed an American F4 Phantom was shot down Tuesday over Thanh Hoa Province. The U.S. Command did not mention any losses.

Air Force pilots for the second successive day raided truck parks and storage areas around the Mu Gia Pass, 75 miles north of the DMZ and the main mountain gateway to the Ho Chi Minh infiltration trail through Laos. They reported destroying or damaging 23 trucks, setting 17 fires and touching off more than 11 secondary explosions.

No major ground fighting was reported but enemy gunners bombarded two U.S. Marine and two South Korean outposts south of Da Nang in what appeared to be coordinated rocket and mortar attacks. Casualties and damage were reported light.

The Viet Cong also lobbed mortars on a U.S. 1st Division position 30 miles north of Saigon, wounding 13 infantrymen, and the Army's Camp Radcliffe near An Khe, 250 miles north of Saigon, causing light casualties.

Too Early to Tell

A senior U.S. officer said he had no immediate explanation for the absence of major ground clashes in the last three days, but noted: "This has happened many times before."

He said it was too early to tell whether the enemy was de-escalating in response to Johnson's announcement of the bombing curtailment as a "first step to de-escalate" on the American side.

In the psychological war, U.S. officials said they planned to continue dropping propaganda leaflets in the regions of North Vietnam which are off limits for bombs. About 167 million leaflets have been dropped over the North so far this year, they said.

Senate Votes for More Taxes, Wants Less Federal Spending

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted for hiking taxes while holding down federal spending but election-year consideration and a parliamentary squabble with the House casts doubts on the final congressional verdict.

The Senate voted 57 to 31 Tuesday for a bill combining three major provisions:

—The 10 per cent surcharge on income taxes proposed by President Johnson, which has been blocked in the House Ways and Means Committee since last summer.

—A $6 billion reduction in federal spending.

—Extension of federal excise taxes on cars and telephone service.

Backers of the tax hike-spending cut proposal voiced confidence the Senate's strong endorsement of the measure boosted prospects for an eventual tax increase and some House members agreed with that analysis.

But the Senate vote also demonstrated that most Congress members up for re-election this November may not be enthusiastic about voting for a tax increase.

19 Against

Of the 28 senators expected to seek re-election this year, 19 voted against Tuesday's package proposal.

This problem is likely to be accentuated in the House, where all 435 members face re-election.

House and Senate conferees charged with forging a bill acceptable to both chambers scheduled their first meeting for late today.

Advance word from the House conferees was they would look favorably on few if any of the 18 provisions approved by the Senate.

The House traditionally has been jealous of its constitutional prerogative to originate tax measures in its Ways and Means Committee. Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate Finance Committee, manager of the original excise-tax bill, said he saw little chance the House would accept the package amendments.

Long, who opposed the package plan, voiced belief Johnson's Sunday night speech, urging passage of a tax hike and expressing willingness to accept a spending cut, swung enough votes to win Senate approval. Long said Johnson's announcement he would not seek re-election also won him Senate sympathy.

Sen. George A. Smathers, D-Fla., a co-sponsor of the package, agreed there was slight chance it would be accepted in the conference.

But Smathers, who will be a conferee, said he would insist that House leaders make some statement about greater friendliness toward a tax boost before he would agree to have the amendment dropped.

Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., the other co-sponsor, told a reporter he would be unwilling to settle for such a statement.

"Either we get a tax increase on this bill or I don't think we will ge it," he said.

"If we wait for the House to act later, it will be close to the election, and it will never pass."

The package plan also calls for a $10 billion slash in new appropriations for the next year and a 315,000 rollback in the number of federal employes.

Other major amendments would:

—Repeal a freeze provision on federal matching funds for aid to Families with Dependent Children included in the 1967 Social Security act.

—Impose quotas on textile product imports, chiefly man-made fibers and woolens.

—End the tax exemption privilege on industrial development bonds effective next Jan. 1.

—Deny countries with outstanding debts to the United States the right to redeem their dollars in gold.

Washington Forest Provides Rugged Survival Test for Airmen

Editor's Note: American servicemen must learn how to survive under harsh conditions. The Air Force provides part of that training in a "survival camp" in the wilderness of northeastern Washington, where AP newsman Robert Mottram recently spent two days.

By ROBERT H. MOTTRAM
Associated Press Writer

KANIKSU NATIONAL FOREST, Wash. (AP) — The call of a small bird drifted over the snow-covered Selkirk Mountains, and Lt. Col. Joffre P. Trembly leaned forward from his seat on a wet pine log.

"I just heard some food chirping," he said to his companions.

To these men it wasn't a joke. They were undergoing the rugged 18-day course at the U.S. Air Force's main survival school.

Classrooms First

The school has headquarters at Fairchild Air Force Base near Spokane, and sooner or later almost every air crewman in the Air Force is put to its survival test.

The school teaches techniques for survival in hostile environments anywhere in the world. The training is as tough as the Air Force can reasonably make it. The Air Force also operates specialized schools in Florida and Alaska.

Training starts with 12 days in the classroom at Fairchild, where students get lectures and demonstrations on such things as traps and snares, first aid and judo. Then they move to the rough forest country of northeastern Washington for six days in the field.

Toughening up begins immediately—with the issue of field rations. Six days later, the average student will have lost 14 pounds.

Each man gets about 1,750 calories in dehydrated food to sustain him in the field.

Individual rations consist of 2½ candy bar-size chunks of dried meat, a piece of fruitcake, one cereal bar, two cups of coffee, a cup of tea and a couple of match book-size packages of dry onions and chili powder. Rations also include about one-half pound of fresh beef, one-half pound of potatoes and a live rabbit. The rabbit is shared by seven to 10 men.

Anything else to fill the students' growling stomachs is caught or gathered in the forest —where food is found by its chirp.

Each survival school class is divided into elements of a few men. Typical is the element led by Lt. Col. Trembly, 42, of Biddeford, Maine. Trembly is element leader by virtue of his rank, and he rides herd on his fellow students under the supervision of instructors.

The six students in Trembly's element, aged 19 to 31, come from all parts of the country. Many are at the school in preparation for overseas assignment.

One of the first lessons is firecraft. Students learn that fire can be started with flint and steel in snow-covered woods. For tinder, an instructor scrapes lint from his trouser leg with a knife blade.

Many Uses for Chute

The parachute is almost a supermarket of survival gadgets. It is draped over poles to make a tent. It is hung from tepee poles to make a smokehouse. It is suspended by shroud lines from trees to hold rations. The shroud line is picked apart to make thread, and the chute material is sewn into clothing and is stuffed with pine bough tips to make sleeping bags.

Metal fasteners on the parachute harness are fashioned into fishhooks and needles. Ration cans become frying pans, their tops become signal mirrors.

Students learn to make snares and deadfalls to catch animals. They learn to save the skins for warmth and to save the blood and intestines for sausage. They learn to boil the meat to get every scrap from the bones, even to drop the animal's eyes into the pot.

Hunger—even in training—is very real. And the cold that drifts in at the 5,000-foot elevation at night also is real. It commands attention.

Long after nightfall, Col. Trembly's element has its second meal of the day—a palmful of beef fat, a few scraps of potato and a little onion boiled together. It doesn't go far among seven men.

After four days of training of this kind, Col. Trembly's hungry men begin a cross-country trek on snowshoes. Traveling in pairs at night, navigating by compass, they try to reach a series of checkpoints without being captured. Instructors play the part of the "enemy," capturing any student careless enough to venture onto a trail or a logging road.

The students are highly motivated.

More Drug Addicts Reported Last Year

By JAMES C. MUNN

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bureau of Narcotics says the nation's number of known drug addicts climbed last year to 62,045—half of them white, half nonwhite.

Henry L. Giordana, commissioner of narcotics, presented the statistics at a recent hearing of a House Appropriations subcommittee. His report was made public today.

The increasing use of marijuana, Giordana said, particularly by those under 25, is almost certain to lead to stronger, more dangerous drugs.

Nearly half of the total known addicts, he reported, lived in New York City.

And, he said, addiction shows no discrimination. Of the total 30,881 were white, 31,164 nonwhite. Most, 28,414, were in the 21-30 age bracket; 22,989 between 31 and 40; 8,425 over 40; 2,085 between 18 and 20; and 132 were 17 or younger.

He said New York State has 32,347 drug addicts compared to second-ranked California with 7,457. Illinois is next with 6,567, followed by New Jersey with 2,834. The 46 other states have 12,840 total.

The nine cities trailing New York in the number of known users are Chicago, 6,489; Los Angeles, 1,997; Detroit, 1,642; Baltimore, 1,348; Philadelphia, 1,296; Washington, D.C., 1,106; Newark, N.J., 1,004; San Diego, Calif., 587, and Buffalo, N.Y., 550

Washington Forest Provides Rugged Survival Test for Airmen

Editor's Note: American servicemen must learn how to survive under harsh conditions. The Air Force provides part of that training in a "survival camp" in the wilderness of northeastern Washington, where AP newsman Robert Mottram recently spent two days.

By ROBERT H. MOTTRAM
Associated Press Writer

KANIKSU NATIONAL FOREST, Wash. (AP) — The call of a small bird drifted over the snow-covered Selkirk Mountains, and Lt. Col. Joffre P. Trembly leaned forward from his seat on a wet pine log.

"I just heard some food chirping," he said to his companions.

To these men it wasn't a joke. They were undergoing the rugged 18-day course at the U.S. Air Force's main survival school.

Classrooms First

The school has headquarters at Fairchild Air Force Base near Spokane, and sooner or later almost every air crewman in the Air Force is put to its survival test.

The school teaches techniques for survival in hostile environments anywhere in the world. The training is as tough as the Air Force can reasonably make it. The Air Force also operates specialized schools in Florida and Alaska.

Training starts with 12 days in the classroom at Fairchild, where students get lectures and demonstrations on such things as traps and snares, first aid and judo. Then they move to the rough forest country of northeastern Washington for six days in the field.

Toughening up begins immediately—with the issue of field rations. Six days later, the average student will have lost 14 pounds.

Each man gets about 1,750 calories in dehydrated food to sustain him in the field.

Individual rations consist of 2½ candy bar-size chunks of dried meat, a piece of fruitcake, one cereal bar, two cups of coffee, a cup of tea and a couple of match book-size packages of dry onions and chili powder. Rations also include about one-half pound of fresh beef, one-half pound of potatoes and a live rabbit. The rabbit is shared by seven to 10 men.

Anything else to fill the students' growling stomachs is caught or gathered in the forest —where food is found by its chirp.

Each survival school class is divided into elements of a few men. Typical is the element led by Lt. Col. Trembly, 42, of Biddeford, Maine. Trembly is element leader by virtue of his rank, and he rides herd on his fellow students under the supervision of instructors.

The six students in Trembly's element, aged 19 to 31, come from all parts of the country. Many are at the school in preparation for overseas assignment.

One of the first lessons is firecraft. Students learn that fire can be started with flint and steel in snow-covered woods. For tinder, an instructor scrapes lint from his trouser leg with a knife blade.

Many Uses for Chute

The parachute is almost a supermarket of survival gadgets. It is draped over poles to make a tent. It is hung from tepee poles to make a smokehouse. It is suspended by shroud lines from trees to hold rations. The shroud line is picked apart to make thread, and the chute material is sewn into clothing and is stuffed with pine bough tips to make sleeping bags.

Metal fasteners on the parachute harness are fashioned into fishhooks and needles. Ration cans become frying pans, their tops become signal mirrors.

Students learn to make snares and deadfalls to catch animals. They learn to save the skins for warmth and to save the blood and intestines for sausage. They learn to boil the meat to get every scrap from the bones, even to drop the animal's eyes into the pot.

Hunger—even in training—is very real. And the cold that drifts in at the 5,000-foot elevation at night also is real. It commands attention.

Long after nightfall, Col. Trembly's element has its second meal of the day—a palmful of beef fat, a few scraps of potato and a little onion boiled together. It doesn't go far among seven men.

After four days of training of this kind, Col. Trembly's hungry men begin a cross-country trek on snowshoes. Traveling in pairs at night, navigating by compass, they try to reach a series of checkpoints without being captured. Instructors play the part of the "enemy," capturing any student careless enough to venture onto a trail or a logging road.

School Board to Present Budget, Vote on It, May 7

The Board of Education of the Saugerties Central School District, at a special meeting held on March 27, upon recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, accepted the resignations of Peter Schriber, mathematics teacher at the Junior High School, Robert Cinq-Mars, music teacher at the Junior Senior High School, and Mrs. Ruth E. Harrison, cook at the Mt. Marion School, all effective June 30.

The superintendent recommended and the board approved the appointment of William Robinson to the position of junior high science teacher, effective September. Robinson, who will receive his bachelor's degree at State University College, New Paltz, in June, has been a student teacher in Saugerties during a part of the 1967-68 school year.

Miss Roberta Hamel, a graduate of St. Joseph College, was approved as an elementary teacher for the coming school year. Miss Hamel, currently teaching at the Pirmasens School in Germany, also taught in Bristol, Conn., for two years.

Mrs. Alice Stinemire was accepted to fill the grade three position at Main Street School, beginning April 22, to the end of the current school year. She is a former Saugerties teacher, having taught at the Mt. Marion School for three years.

The Board of Education also appointed August J. Spader to the position of custodian at the Mt. Marion School, effective April 8. The board granted tenure to the following persons, effective July 1: Juanita Anthony, Paul Brazier, Clarence Bryden, Rosemarie Burns, Kathryn Carroll, Sue Goffredi, Edward Jabs, Patrcia Krein, Ronald Kunts, Dorothy Lacey, Robert Moser, Mary Jane Prescott, Barbara Stewart, and Joseph Trottier.

With Board President Arthur Simmons presiding, the board spent the greater part of the evening in discussing items of the 1968-69 school budget.

The annual meeting of the Saugerties Central School District will be held on Tuesday, May 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School auditorium. At that time the budget will be presented to the people and following the presentation it will be voted upon. On Wednesday, May 8, the polls will be open at the Main Street School gymnasium from 12 noon until 9 p.m. to fill the terms of Robert Cline, Charles Emerick, and Robert Herb, which will expire on June 30. Candidates for the three-year terms on the Saugerties Board of Education must file petitions with the school district clerk at the administration building, Hill Street, on or before April 23.

Dollars for Scholars Week April 29-May 6

The board of directors for the Saugerties Citizens' Scholarship Foundation met last week at Town Hall.

John Carnright, president, expressed the desire of the board to have funds available to provide scholarships for this year's high school graduating classes.

Harry Hoffman, campaign chairman, announced that the week of April 29 through May 6 will be designated "Dollars for Scholars Week,' and a door to door campaign will take place at this time.

The aim of the foundation is to raise one dollar from every citizen of the town.

Prison Sentence

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — An indeterminate prison sentence of up to 10 years has been levied against a farm laborer who admitted slaying another man with a shotgun blast at a party in an Elba home.

Percell Patterson, 30, of Barre, Orleans County, drew the sentence Monday in an appearance before Judge Glenn R. Morton of Genesee County Court. The term is to be served in Attica Prison.

Patterson was accused of murder in the death last Dec. 8 of William C. Armstrong, 27, of Batavia. He later pleaded guilty to second-degree manslaughter.

St. Paul's Welcomes Six New Members

Six new members were welcomed to St. Paul's Lutheran Church at West Camp during Sunday morning worship service conducted by the Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor.

They are Mrs. Anna Kohleman and son, Jack of Coxsackie; Mrs. Louis Pilatich of Catskill; Mrs. Harry Richter of Saugerties, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert West of West Camp. All were accepted by letter of transfer from other churches.

Miss Laura Brockway of Cementon sang the anthem solo to the accompaniment of Mrs. Roy J. Potts, organist.

Palm Sunday services next week will be held at 11 a.m. with junior church at 9:30. The church council will meet Sunday 7:30 p.m. in the parish hall.

Phyllis Goes Sleek

LONDON (AP) — American comedienne Phyllis Diller has to abandon her normal zany hair style for a bun in the film "The Adding Machine."

"Mine isn't a hairdo, it's a hair don't," Miss Diller said.

Youth Council Considers a Youth Center

The reactivated Saugerties Youth Council has under study two proposals to provide a youth center and activities for the young people of the community.

At the second session of the group Thursday night at the village clerk's office members of the council heard a proposal for the formation of a Saugerties Boys Club and affiliation with the national organization.

Gilbert Fredenburgh, director of Catskill Boys Club explained the functions of the boys club and what it means to the youth of the community. He pointed out that in addition to a full-time paid director volunteers from the community are needed to carry out the program. Fredenburgh also revealed how funds could be made available to start and continue the boys club program in a community.

Albert F. Hrdlicka, presented a drawing showing the possible structure of a new youth council organization. The new organization would set up a program which would include the construction of a youth center for activities after school and in the early evenings.

Hrdlicka also reported that the newly formed Saugerties Athletic Association has offered its cooperation in any program the youth council may propose. The possibility of scheduling a combined meeting to discuss the program was outlined.

Saugerties High School Coach Peter Kramer reported that a survey in the school covering all age groups indicated the greatest need was for a winter swimming program.

Vernon Joe Benjamin, youth council chairman and village recreation director said he would contact Town of Saugerties Planning Board to determine if a small portion of the former Beers farm purchased by the town from the Knaust Estate could be made available for a youth center site.

It was reported by Albert J. Cawein, a council member and vice chairman of the planning board that the recreation committee of the planning board has under consideration a proposal to construct a swimming pool at the new recreation site near Cantine Field.

Others attending the session were Mrs. Dixie Bond, council treasurer; Kevin Doyle, Edward Strohsahl, Howard Wittenbecher, and Mrs. Jean Haun, who served as acting secretary.

School Board to Present Budget, Vote on It, May 7

The Board of Education of the Saugerties Central School District, at a special meeting held on March 27, upon recommendation of the Superintendent of Schools, Dr. Dexter O. Arnold, accepted the resignations of Peter Schriber, mathematics teacher at the Junior High School, Robert Cinq-Mars, music teacher at the Junior Senior High School, and Mrs. Ruth E. Harrison, cook at the Mt. Marion School, all effective June 30.

The superintendent recommended and the board approved the appointment of William Robinson to the position of junior high science teacher, effective September. Robinson, who will receive his bachelor's degree at State University College, New Paltz, in June, has been a student teacher in Saugerties during a part of the 1967-68 school year.

Miss Roberta Hamel, a graduate of St. Joseph College, was approved as an elementary teacher for the coming school year. Miss Hamel, currently teaching at the Pirmasens School in Germany, also taught in Bristol, Conn., for two years.

Mrs. Alice Stinemire was accepted to fill the grade three position at Main Street School, beginning April 22, to the end of the current school year. She is a former Saugerties teacher, having taught at the Mt. Marion School for three years.

The Board of Education also appointed August J. Spader to the position of custodian at the Mt. Marion School, effective April 8. The board granted tenure to the following persons, effective July 1: Juanita Anthony, Paul Brazier, Clarence Bryden, Rosemarie Burns, Kathryn Carroll, Sue Goffredi, Edward Jabs, Patrcia Krein, Ronald Kunts, Dorothy Lacey, Robert Moser, Mary Jane Prescott, Barbara Stewart, and Joseph Trottier.

With Board President Arthur Simmons presiding, the board spent the greater part of the evening in discussing items of the 1968-69 school budget.

The annual meeting of the Saugerties Central School District will be held on Tuesday, May 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the High School auditorium. At that time the budget will be presented to the people and following the presentation it will be voted upon. On Wednesday, May 8, the polls will be open at the Main Street School gymnasium from 12 noon until 9 p.m. to fill the terms of Robert Cline, Charles Emerick, and Robert Herb, which will expire on June 30. Candidates for the three-year terms on the Saugerties Board of Education must file petitions with the school district clerk at the administration building, Hill Street, on or before April 23.

St. Paul's Welcomes Six New Members

Six new members were welcomed to St. Paul's Lutheran Church at West Camp during Sunday morning worship service conducted by the Rev. Alvin F. Messersmith, pastor.

They are Mrs. Anna Kohleman and son, Jack of Coxsackie; Mrs. Louis Pilatich of Catskill; Mrs. Harry Richter of Saugerties, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert West of West Camp. All were accepted by letter of transfer from other churches.

Miss Laura Brockway of Cementon sang the anthem solo to the accompaniment of Mrs. Roy J. Potts, organist.

Palm Sunday services next week will be held at 11 a.m. with junior church at 9:30. The church council will meet Sunday 7:30 p.m. in the parish hall.

Phyllis Goes Sleek

LONDON (AP) — American comedienne Phyllis Diller has to abandon her normal zany hair style for a bun in the film "The Adding Machine."

"Mine isn't a hairdo, it's a hair don't," Miss Diller said.

She has her first straight film part in the picture as a shrewish, dreary New York housewife. "The Adding Machine," being made at Shepperton Studios near London, is based on the Elmer Rice comedy first staged by the Theater Guild in New York.

Dollars for Scholars Week April 29-May 6

The board of directors for the Saugerties Citizens' Scholarship Foundation met last week at Town Hall.

John Carnright, president, expressed the desire of the board to have funds available to provide scholarships for this year's high school graduating classes.

Harry Hoffman, campaign chairman, announced that the week of April 29 through May 6 will be designated "Dollars for Scholars Week," and a door to door campaign will take place at this time.

The aim of the foundation is to raise one dollar from every citizen of the town.

Prison Sentence

BATAVIA, N.Y. (AP) — An indeterminate prison sentence of up to 10 years has been levied against a farm laborer who admitted slaying another man with a shotgun blast at a party in an Elba home.

Percell Patterson, 30, of Barre, Orleans County, drew the sentence Monday in an appearance before Judge Glenn R. Morton of Genesee County Court. The term is to be served in Attica Prison.

Patterson was accused of murder in the death last Dec. 8 of William C. Armstrong, 27, of Batavia. He later pleaded guilty to second-degree manslaughter.

Youth Council Considers a Youth Center

The reactivated Saugerties Youth Council has under study two proposals to provide a youth center and activities for the young people of the community.

At the second session of the group Thursday night at the village clerk's office members of the council heard a proposal for the formation of a Saugerties Boys Club and affiliation with the national organization.

Gilbert Fredenburgh, director of Catskill Boys Club explained the functions of the boys club and what it means to the youth of the community. He pointed out that in addition to a full-time paid director volunteers from the community are needed to carry out the program. Fredenburgh also revealed how funds could be made available to start and continue the boys club program in a community.

Albert F. Hrdlicka, presented a drawing showing the possible structure of a new youth council organization. The new organization would set up a program which would include the construction of a youth center for activities after school and in the early evenings.

Hrdlicka also reported that the newly formed Saugerties Athletic Association has offered its cooperation in any program the youth council may propose. The possibility of scheduling a combined meeting to discuss the program was outlined

Saugerties High School Coach Peter Kramer reported that a survey in the school covering all age groups indicated the greatest need was for a winter swimming program.

Vernon Joe Benjamin, youth council chairman and village recreation director said he would contact Town of Saugerties Planning Board to determine if a small portion of the former Beers farm purchased by the town from the Knaust Estate could be made available for a youth center site.

It was reported by Albert J. Cawein, a council member and vice chairman of the planning board that the recreation committee of the planning board has under consideration a proposal to construct a swimming pool at the new recreation site near Cantine Field.

Others attending the session were Mrs. Dixie Bond, council treasurer; Kevin Doyle, Edward Strohsahl, Howard Wittenbecher, and Mrs. Jean Haun, who served as acting secretary.

High Falls

High Falls — Rondout Valley Central High School was honored by having several of the members of the chorus and Orchestra selected as participants in the Ulster County Choral-Orchestra Festival which was held at the State University at New Paltz Saturday, March 23. Members from the High Falls area so honored were Barry Puetow, Barbara Jacob, Dennis Scanlon, Linda Sarr and Dale Mayberry.

A good number of public spirited persons of the area attended the meeting of the High Falls Civic Association Wednesday night in the Firehall at which time Kenneth Hasbrouck of New Paltz spoke. Hasbrouck gave some interesting background of the early settlers of Ulster County and especially the High Falls region. As the society approaches the 300th anniversary of the settling of High Falls, they are seeking all the information of this early time possible. It is gratifying to see the great amount of interest in the early history of the area taken by the younger and newer members of the community as well as by those whose roots have been here for a long time.

The Church school enjoyed a filmstrip on the work of the Reformed Church in the school in Annville, Ky., Sunday morning. This filmstrip was shown at a congregational meeting Friday night by the Rev. Mr. Clementz of Stone Ridge. the Rev. Mr. Clementz also spoke of his personal knowledge on this part of the work of the church.

Mrs. Roy Ransom and the Robert Hornbeck family from here with several relatives and friends from other places surprised Mrs. DeForest Bishop of Stone Ridge Thursday night, the occasion being her 93rd birthday. Mrs. Bishop is in relatively good health and maintains her interest in church affairs and other activites of the community.

Mrs. William Paetow attended a two-day seminar at the United Nations last Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Paetow went with a number of other members of the Kingston branch of the AAUW.

Dicky vanLaer has returned to his studies at Syracuse University after a short vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold vanLaer Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jansen spent the week-end in Pennsylvania with Mrs. Jansen's sister and family, the Raymond Pages.

Mrs. Paul Mayerink of the Board of North American Missions of the Reformed Church was entertained Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Elsa D. Hart. Mrs. Mayerink will be the guest speaker on Wednesday at the Spring Conference of the Women's Classical Union at the Mount Marion Reformed Church. Fifteen members of the High Falls Women's Guild have sent in their reservations for this luncheon meeting, according to the President of the Guild, Mrs. Myron Boice.

High Falls

High Falls — Rondout Valley Central High School was honored by having several of the members of the chorus and Orchestra selected as participants in the Ulster County Choral-Orchestra Festival which was held at the State University at New Paltz Saturday, March 23. Members from the High Falls area so honored were Barry Paetow, Barbara Jacob, Dennis Scanlon, Linda Sarr and Dale Mayberry.

A good number of public spirited persons of the area attended the meeting of the High Falls Civic Association Wednesday night in the Firehall at which time Kenneth Hasbrouck of New Paltz spoke. Hasbrouck gave some interesting background of the early settlers of Ulster County and especially the High Falls region. As the society approaches the 300th anniversary of the settling of High Falls, they are seeking all the information of this early time possible. It is gratifying to see the great amount of interest in the early history of the area taken by the younger and newer members of the community as well as by those whose roots have been here for a long time.

The Church school enjoyed a filmstrip on the work of the Reformed Church in the school in Annville, Ky., Sunday morning. This filmstrip was shown at congregational meeting Friday night by the Rev. Mr. Clementz of Stone Ridge. the Rev. Mr. Clementz also spoke of his personal knowledge on this part of the work of the church.

Mrs. Roy Ransom and the Robert Hornbeck family from here with several relatives and friends from other places surprised Mrs. DeForest Bishop of Stone Ridge Thursday night, the occasion being her birthday. Mrs. Bishop is in relatively good health and maintains her interest in church affairs and other activites of the community.

Mrs. William Paetow attended a two-day seminar at the United Nations last Wednesday and Thursday. Mrs. Paetow went with a number of other members of the Kingston branch of the AAUW.

Dicky vanLaer has returned to his studies at Syracuse University after a short vacation with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arnold vanLaer Jr.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jansen spent the week-end in Pennsylvania with Mrs. Jansen's sister and family, the Raymond Pages.

Mrs. Paul Mayerink of the Board of North American Missions of the Reformed Church was entertained Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Elsa D. Hart. Mrs. Mayerink will be the guest speaker on Wednesday at the Spring Conference of the Women's Classical Union at the Mount Marion Reformed Church. Fifteen members of the High Falls Women's Guild have sent in their reservations for this luncheon meeting, according to the President of the Guild, Mrs. Myron Boice.

Viet Leaders Arrested

Anti-Fraud Unit Troubled

By BARRY KRAMER

SAIGON (AP) — A youth group whose 32,000 members are supposed to expose fraud and corruption is having trouble. Its top leaders have been arrested for fraud and corruption.

The black-shirted Anticorruption Youth was founded in 1965 by Vice President Ngoyen Cao Ky when he was youth minister and premier. The organization is still under his wing, and he is reported greatly angered that the leaders fell into evil ways.

Those arrested March 15 were Dang Van Thu, national chief of the organization; Le Van Kha, inspector general of the group, who once was associated with a Buddhist group that tried to depose Ky when he was premier, and Le Van Thanh, head of Anticorruption Youth in Gia Dinh Province.

Ten other officers of the Gia Dinh section were arrested on charges of draft dodging. Another 600 members, accused of buying fraudulent draft exemption papers from the arrested men, have been called into the army.

The three top leaders are charged with misappropriation of government funds and the sale of fake draft exemption cards. The number of exemption cards involved is not known, but the price ran as high as 75,000 piasters, or $635. Also unclear is whether the draft exemptions were valid, which would mean complicity of government officials, or whether they were forgeries.

There are other charges against the youth group.

Early in January the Ministry of Youth was ordered by some unidentified official high in the government to pay Anticorruption Youth 6 million piasters for a one-month campaign to clear garbage from Saigon's streets.

The youth minister and officials of Anticorruption Youth say the organization received only a little over a million piasters, or about $8,500. But informed sources say the group spent less than 200,000 piasters for a few days cleanup.

"On the first day of the garbage collection campaign, there were 300 Anticorruption Youth out on the streets working," one official says. "The second day there were 70. On the third day there were 30 and after that we stopped counting."

Do Dien Nhi, the new head of the youth organization, says 1,000 members worked for three weeks cleaning the streets. He estimates that only 100,000 piasters were illegally diverted.

Early last year they gave 100 eight-passenger buses to the group. It was to rent the buses to drivers and turn the money over to the Vinaco Co., importers of the buses, as payment for them.

Much of the daily rent money was diverted.

Nhi says it was donated to men running for Parliament last autumn.

"Some of the candidates have paid the money back," Nhi said, "and I have paid Vinaco. We still owe Vinaco 1.5 million piasters."

Nhi said Vice President Ky had ordered the group to reorganize. "Mr. Ky is very angry," he said.

Houle Critical Of Ulster Board

Town of Ulster Democratic leader W. D. Houle has charged that, "Five men sitting in a row nodding to each other at the Town Board meetings is not good enough for modern Ulster."

He claimed that the board, under the supervisorship of Thaddeus Musialkiewicz, "lacks courage, interest, foresight, and ability," and that, "It does not lead — it follows."

The Democrat said, "Supervisor Musialkiewicz and the do-nothing town board try very hard not to offend anyone. They make promises to 'look into' 'investigate,' or 'take care of' anything brought to their attention. They never quite have the courage to act."

Houle asked, "Where is the trailer ordinance, the sewer district, the Spring Lake water district, the zoning ordinance, the blasting ordinance, the plans for the town hall, the police force, the town map, the master plan, and all the rest of the things that are being stalled and stalled and stalled?"

The Democratic leader declared, "We encourage all the citizens of the Town of Ulster to attend the next town board meeting and to see how the town drifts along from problem to crisis, to disaster.

"The people themselves will have to provide the leadership not being supplied by those elected for just that purpose."

Bombing Area Still Takes in 10 Pct. of People

SAIGON (AP) — President Johnson's order halting American bombing north of the 20th Parallel leaves 25 per cent of North Vietnam's area and about 10 per cent of its people still subject to attack.

More than 2 million of North Vietnam's estimated 20 million people live in the three and a half provinces still on the target map, an area that includes the southern panhandle and the densely populated plains around the cities of Thanh Hoa and Vinh.

These are the provinces of Quang Binh, Ha Ting, Nghe An and the southern half of Thanh Hoa.

The area contains the main transit points for North Vietnamese troops and supplies moving south. It also contains almost half of North Vietnam's cultivated land, since the inland mountain area north of Hanoi is barren and sparsely populated. Rice and vegetables are the main crops.

Thanh Hoa and Vinh, the capital of Nghe An Province, are badly battered industrial centers and staging points. The main north-south Highway 1 runs through both. So does the old French Hanoi-Saigon railroad, part of which is still used by the Communists to move troops and supplies despite three years of American bombing and naval bombardment.

An important network of inland canals also runs down the panhandle parallel to the coast.

From Thanh Hoa, military convoys move south along Highway 1 to the Ho Chi Minh trail through Laos. The city has phosphate and chromium mines, processing plants and four bomb-damaged electric power plants. A fifth plant, the 5,000-kilowatt Ban Thach hydroelectric station, is 20 miles northwest of the city, well within the northern limit of the air strike area.

Vinh, 75 miles south of Thanh Hoa, has phosphate plants, shipyards and a 10,000-kilowatt thermoelectric power plant.

County Girl Scouts Council Annual Meeting Set Apr. 23

The 1968 annual meeting of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, Inc. will take place on Tuesday, April 23 at the Reformed Church, New Paltz.

The evening's festivities will begin at 6:30 p.m. when those attending will be invited to view the many exhibits that will be on display. Each of the 13 neighborhoods of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, Inc. have been asked to submit a display of successful happenings in their area, or a crafts project or something for which their section of the county is best known. There will also be a special camping exhibit geared to day, troop and established camp as well as one on the Piper Project. This project was initiated as the result of real concern on the part of adults in Scouting for those girls who dropped out of Scouting after several years' membership and for those girls who never become Scouts because there is no troops for them. This project has just celebrated its first birthday in the Ulster County Council.

During the evening those attending will be introduced to the Senior Scouts from the Council who have been the recipients of National Opportunities. The girls are: Rita Senor, Kingston, selected for Drama Workshop; Charlyn Herdman, also Kingston, Music Workshop; Kathleen Fagan, Kingston, Aides to Handicapped Girls; Barbara Romano, Kingston, All-States Encampment; and Kathleen Hatt, Lake Katrine, an alternate to the Juliette Low session at Rockwood.

Following them will be the four selectees and two alternates for the Hendrick Hudson Roundup to be held in July at Camp Drum. The selectees are Sharon Brooks, Highland; Deborah Firmbach, Ulster Park; Kathleen Hatt, Lake Katrine, and Sheila Umhey, Mt. Tremper. The alternates are Cathee Fisher, Woodstock and Helen Turck, Bearsville. E. Robert Johnson, executive director of the Ulster County TB and Health Association, Inc. and a member of the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts, Inc., will be in charge of introducing these and other guests.

The secretary's report will be given by Mrs. Calvin Wygant Sr. of Marlboro and the treasurer's report by Leland Oathout of Woodstock. Mrs. Henry Thomas, of Hurley, chairman of the by-laws committee will review the proposed by-laws revision which will be voted upon by the assembled delegates. Mrs. Stanley Wyman, chairman of the nominating committee and a resident of Saugerties, will present the slate of officers and board members-at-large.

The meeting will close with a speech by Mrs. Paul E. Pfuetze of Poughkeepsie, entitled Youth and Today's Leaders. She has been most recently a member of the National Staff for Women in Community Service. She has also been a national consultant on Race and Poverty for Church Women United. As Dean of Women, Whittier College, Calif., she taught among others things, group leadership for clubs and agencies. Presently she is teaching behavioral studies at Dutchess Community College.

The Ulster County Council of Girl Scouts Inc., is a member agency of the Ulster County Community Chest.

Ulster Demos Have Own Troubles

By CHARLES BERMBOHL

Charges and challenges, have beset Ulster County Democratic Party with the following results:

● A conclave of four county chairmen in the 28th congressional district could not agree last night on a three-man slate to the Democratic national convention in August.

● James T. McCardle, Democratic candidate for state committeeman, has come out for the candidacy of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy for the Presidency, a move sure to cause counteraction by Congressman Joseph Y. Resnick and County Chairman Dr. Gerald P. Gorman.

Charges 'Gag Rule'

● Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic has charged Dr. Gorman with using the "chocking tactics of gag rule" in the unofical convention of March 23, and has challenged Gorman's right to run for the state assembly by announcing his own bid for the post.

Standing in the middle of the varied splits which are now affecting the party is Congressman Resnick and Dr. Gorman.

It was Resnick's bid for the U. S. Senate nomination and his attacks against Senator Kennedy and State Chairman John J. Burns which has caused a number of local Democrats, along with party chairman in other counties, to challenege the congressman in his bid for the senate and in his partisan political stands.

Dr. Gorman, who has backed the 28th congressional district representative all the way, was specifically criticized by Majestic and other party leaders for his actions at the March 23 convention.

Pro-LBJ Slate

In that meeting, a three-man slate of delegates was nominated for participants in the August national convention. It was known that the slate would be pledged to what was thought to be President Johnson's renomination bid.

The Coalition for a Democratic Alternative, pledged to Senator Eugene McCarthy (D-Minn.), had sent 18 out of 24 delegates from the Town of New Paltz to the convention in hopes of having its own slate considered by the delegates.

The CDA, along with a number of other Democrats, claimed that Gorman did not adequately inform the delegates of their right to further nominations from the floor and the Resnick-Gorman three-man slate was adopted, in Gorman's words, "unanimously."

The four party chairmen who met in the Greene County Village of Catskill last night were: Dr. Gorman, Larry Novak of Columbia, George Whalen of Dutchess, and James O'Connel of Greene.

According to Whalen, Gorman wanted a compromise slate in order to avoid a primary battle. The other chairmen were also informed that Congressman Resnick would replace the Ulster County chairman as a delegate.

The Dutchess County leader, whom Resnick has threatened to unseat because of his failure to support the congressman's bid for the Senate and also because of the pro-Kennedy stand, said that "primaries can resolve differences," and Gorman "had no concrete suggestions on how to avoid a primary."

Slate Upcoming

Whalen also declared that the three county chairmen "would come up with a slate in the next couple of days."

James McCardle, in his coming out for Kennedy, declared today that the next President "must be capable of determining the will of the people and have the courage to make decisions reflecting this feeling."

Accordingly, "I would like at this time to publicly re-affirm that support and urge all Democratic leaders in this county to support the candidacy of Robert F. Kennedy for President."

George Majestic said that he challenged Dr. Gorman "to represent any of our people in the 99th Assembly District when so early in his political career he began the gagging of his Democratic members who show an independent state of mind."

36 Chairmen Back Kennedy

Thirty-six of New York State's 62 Democratic county chairmen have formally endorsed the presidential candidacy of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, according to his New York City campaign headquarters.

On the other side of the fence, however, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnisk pledged to do "Everything I can to see that Senator Kennedy does not become the nominee of the Democratic Party."

Asked what he would do if President Johnson swung over and backed Kennedy for the nomination, Resnick replied: "If I ever see that happen, that's the day I retire from politics."

According to the Kennedy campaign headquarters, included in the endorsement total were three of New York City's five county leaders. Absent were Assemblyman Frank G. Rossetti in Manhattan and Stanley Steingut in Brooklyn.

Steingut who has been helping the Kennedy cause, said Kings County Democratic leaders had met but had left commitments up to the delegates.

Resnick claimed that his party's designation of Nassau County Executive Eugene Nickerson for the U. S. Senate bid was reminiscent of "the days of Boss Tweed," and he called Nickerson "an instant candidate."

Smoldering Dump

City firemen responded to a telephone alarm last night at 10:49 to find a smoldering dump behind 436 Washington Avenue. The caller said the roof of the building was on fire.

Trucks One and Two and Engines One and Two responded from the Kingston Fire Department along with volunteers from Wicks Engine Compnay and Excelsior and Wiltwyck Hose.

Firemen were under the direction of Deputy Chief Harry Sills. Recall for most of the firemen was 11:05. City firemen returned at 12:40 this morning.

Successful Investing....

Stocks Seem Out For Recent Widow

Q—My husband's sudden death has left me bewildered. I hardly know how to make the decisions necessary for my own future. My total assets are my house worth $30,000 and $30,000 from my husband's life insurance. My banker told me to put the cash in the bank because I can't afford to lose a dollar. Should I take this advice or that of a close friend who is urging me to put $10,000 into stocks in the hope of doubling my money? Fortunately, I have two fine sons planning to give me $1,000 a year.—D. B.

A—You have my deepest sympathy on the death of your husband and on your financial predicament. Your banker's advice is unquestionably the safest course to follow. If you should try to make money in the market, you're most likely to lose it than double it. I suggest that you exchange your house for a more modest one and bank the difference. When your sons' contribution is added to your bank interest you should have enough income to live in modest comfort in your own home.

Q—We are a married couple in our 50s. We have $3,000 in savings and another $3,000 coming from my only insurance policy when this is paid up three months hence. How should we invest this? We have never owned stocks.—S. Y.

A—Please pardon my saying so, but you are not yet in a position to buy stocks. As a prerequisite, you need really adequate life insurance to take care of your wife should you predecease her. Too often we think only of the face value of a life insurance policy. A $50,000 policy sounds big—but in terms of secure income it means about $2,500 annually. So first ask your insurance company how best to use your maturing policy for your wife's protection and then take on as much more as you can afford. After that's done, you can think about stocks.

Will Advance Federal Funds For Ex-GIs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Some $270,000 will be advanced to former servicemen who have been deprived of their weekly unemployment insurance benefits, Gov. Rockfeller said Tuesday.

The governor said that federal funds have not been available for the benefits, with the result that some eligible ex-servicemen have not received them for almost three weeks.

The benefit program is federally financed but administered by the state. It provides for weekly payments to veterans unable o find jobs.

About 2,130 ex-servicemen have registered for the benefits in New York State.

Conservatives Pick Buckley For Senate Run

NEW YORK (AP) — The Conservative Party's State Committee has designated James L. Buckley—elder brother of William F. Buckley Jr., 1965 Conservative mayoral candidate here—as its candidate for U.S. senator.

James Buckley received the unanimous designation from 40 state committeemen Tuesday night.

He had been an enrolled Republican in Sharon, Conn., until Tuesday afternoon, when he registered here to vote. He said he enrolled in Manhattan as a Conservative.

Whalen also declared that the three county chairmen "would come up with a slate in the next couple of days."

James McCardle, in his coming out for Kennedy, declared today that the next President "must be capable of determining the will of the people and have the courage to make decisions reflecting this feeling."

Accordingly, "I would like at this time to publicly re-affirm that support and urge all Democratic leaders in this county to support the candidacy of Robert F. Kennedy for President."

George Majestic said that he challenged Dr. Gorman "to represent any of our people in the 99th Assembly District when so early in his political career he began the gagging of his Democratic members who show an independent state of mind."

36 Chairmen Back Kennedy

Thirty-six of New York State's 62 Democratic county chairmen have formally endorsed the presidential candidacy of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, according to his New York City campaign headquarters.

On the other side of the fence, howeyer, Congressman Joseph Y. Resnisk pledged to do "Everything I can to see that Senator Kennedy does not become the nominee of the Democratic Party."

Asked what he would do if President Johnson swung over and backed Kennedy for the nomination, Resnick replied: "If I ever see that happen, that's the day I retire from politics."

According to the Kennedy campaign headquarters, included in the endorsement total were three of New York City's five county leaders. Absent were Assemblyman Frank G. Rossetti in Manhattan and Stanley Steingut in Brooklyn.

Steingut who has been helping the Kennedy cause, said Kings County Democratic leaders had met but had left commitments up to the delegates.

Resnick claimed that his party's designation of Nassau County Executive Eugene Nickerson for the U. S. Senate bid was reminiscent of "the days of Boss Tweed," and he called Nickerson "an instant candidate."

Smoldering Dump

City firemen responded to a telephone alarm last night at 10:49 to find a smoldering dump behind 436 Washington Avenue. The caller said the roof of the building was on fire.

Trucks One and Two and Engines One and Two responded from the Kingston Fire Department along with volunteers from Wicks Engine Compnay and Excelsior and Wiltwyck Hose.

Firemen were under the direction of Deputy Chief Harry Sills. Recall for most of the firemen was 11:05. City firemen returned at 12:40 this morning.

Stocks Seem Out For Recent Widow

Q—My husband's sudden death has left me bewildered. I hardly know how to make the decisions necessary for my own future. My total assets are my house worth $30,000 and $30,000 from my husband's life insurance. My banker told me to put the cash in the bank because I can't afford to lose a dollar. Should I take this advice or that of a close friend who is urging me to put $10,000 into stocks in the hope of doubling my money? Fortunately, I have two fine sons planning to give me $1,000 a year.—D. B.

A—You have my deepest sympathy on the death of your husband and on your financial predicament. Your banker's advice is unquestionably the safest course to follow. If you should try to make money in the market, you're most likely to lose it than double it. I suggest that you exchange your house for a more modest one and bank the difference. When your sons' contribution is added to your bank interest you should have enough income to live in modest comfort in your own home.

Q—We are a married couple in our 50s. We have $3,000 in savings and another $3,000 coming from my only insurance policy when this is paid up three months hence. How should we invest this? We have never owned stocks.—S. Y.

A—Please pardon my saying so, but you are not yet in a position to buy stocks. As a prerequisite, you need really adequate life insurance to take care of your wife should you predecease her. Too often we think only of the face value of a life insurance policy. A $50,000 policy sounds big—but in terms of secure income it means about $2,500 annually. So first ask your insurance company how best to use your maturing policy for your wife's protection and then take on as much more as you can afford. After that's done, you can think about stocks.

Will Advance Federal Funds For Ex-GIs

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Some $270,000 will be advanced to former servicemen who have been deprived of their weekly unemployment insurance benefits, Gov. Rockfeller said Tuesday.

The governor said that federal funds have not been available for the benefits, with the result that some eligible servicemen have not received them for almost three weeks.

The benefit program is federally financed but administered by the state. It provides for weekly payments to veterans unable o find jobs.

About 2,130 ex-servicemen have registered for the benefits in New York State.

Conservatives Pick Buckley For Senate Run

NEW YORK (AP) — The Conservative Party's State Committee has designated James L. Buckley—elder brother of William F. Buckley Jr., 1965 Conservative mayoral candidate here—as its candidate for U.S. senator.

James Buckley received the unanimous designation from 40 state committeemen Tuesday night.

He had been an enrolled Republican in Sharon, Conn., until Tuesday afternoon, when he registered here to vote. He said he enrolled in Manhattan as a Conservative.

District II takes in the six

PAUL DeLISIO

Jayceee chapters of Woodstock, Saugerties, Kingston, New Paltz, Hudson, and Coxsackie. It is one of 34 such districts in 10 divisions comprising 12,000 New York Jaycees.

District II with almost 250 Jaycees, is presently one of the strongest districts in the state with three of its six chapters ranked in the top 10 of the state as of January.

For the past two years and again this July these six chapters will jointly host the New York State Sports Spectacular. This major state competition coordinates state championships in golf, tennis, and track and field, and brings over 300 junior competitors to Kingston. The current district president is John Spratt.

DeLisio has been a Jaycee at Woodstock for the past two and one-half years, acting as a director last year and presently serving as local president.

He has received the "Key Man" award from last year's state president while being named SPOKE and Speak-up winner for the district to compete in both events at last year's state competition. He was also named Woodstock's "Jaycee of the Year" in 1967.

Currently the Woodstock Jaycees qualify as a "Blue Chip Chapter," and rank third of 225 chapters in New York State.

DeLisio also conducts a successful insurance business locally, as a representative for the New York Life Insurance Company, having qualified for production club three times in his two and one-half years with the company. This year he qualified for the National Association of Life Underwriters National Achievement Award.

He is chairman of the Woodstock-West Hurley Community Chest Drive for 1968, a member of the Woodstock Recreation Committee, a lecturer at St. Joan of Arc Church, and a Republican committeeman. He is married to the former Sue Jurgensen of Woodstock and has two boys, Jeffery and Todd.

The election for district president will take place in New Paltz April 26 at the Division II meeting.

Has 23rd Baby

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (AP) — Mrs. Maria Beckham had her 23rd baby, and declared stoutly, "This is my last."

Baby Rosie, 7 pounds, 12 ounces, made Mrs. Beckham undisputed winner of the New Zealand baby stakes. A few weeks ago Mrs. Tina Tengu had her 21st child which was thought to be the New Zealand record.

At 45 Mrs. Beckham has amassed a family ranging in age from Robert, 27, down to Rosie. There are 21 grandchildren, but seven of her children have died.

Mrs. Beckham and her husband, who is unemployed and partly crippled with arthritis, live in the far north of the North Island. Their only income is from government family and other benefits, a total of 142 New Zealand dollars ($159 U.S.) a month.

Building Date

The observance marks the 100th anniversary of the building of the present church structure. The property was purchased from the Delaware and Hudson Canal Company in 1867 and the building was consecrated in 1868 by Bishop James of the New York Area Methodist Church.

The congregation had its beginnings in 1833 when meetings were held in the homes of various members. Public services were held in the schoolhouse which stood on the rocky bluff at the foot of Wurts Street where the Rondout Creek Bridge now stands.

Initial Cast

The first Trinity Methodist Church was built in 1841 at the cost of $1,300 on West Union Street. The congregation grew with the booming days of Rondout and by 1863 it was necessary to seek a more suitable church building.

The search led to the present site and building. A narthex given in memory of Mrs. Alva Staples in 1961 was the first construction at the church in this century It consists of three rooms in the rear of the sanctuary, finished in oak paneling.

Government Posts

Dr. Fleming, son of the late Surrogate Judge and Mrs. Harry H. Flemming, has been active for many years as a Methodist Layman.

He has served in a variety of high government posts in the administrations of Roosevelt, Truman and Eisenhower and was Secretary of Health. Education and Welfare during the latter administration.

A former president of Ohio Wesleyan University and director of the School of Public Affairs at American University, Dr. Flemming earned degrees at both universities as well as his LLD degree at George Washington University. He was awarded an honorary degree of Doctor of Science by Albany Medical College in 1959.

New IBM Manager Impressed With City

Boyish Grin

Intent

Quiet Confidence

By LYNN MULVANEY

Back in the days when any kind of a recruiter was welcome on campus—Army, Navy, Dow or IBM, a young student, Frank Delaney, had a couple of hunches.

One of them interrupted his college studies for three years, taking him to China and India with the U. S. Army. The other later took him to IBM.

The IBM hunch, that the company would go into electronics and computing, was made at a time when as an electrical engineering student at the University of Connecticut, he had never even heard of data processing.

It was not only a correct assumption but apparently a happy hunch for today, 20 years later, Delaney has been promoted to general manager of IBM, Kingston.

The promotion means much—much in the way of responsibility, for production, for finance, for personnel, engineering, legal and community relations.

It also means moving — for the sixth time in recent years, in this instance from Westport, Conn.

Kingston? "The whole family is excited about coming.

"Me?, I'm impressed because I find the friendliness level is high," he says enthusiastically.

Enthusiasm comes easy for Delaney, and at times seems self-infectious, taking him rapidly from one thought to another: "I like to cut grass," he says with an eager boyish grin, and one gets the immediate impression that he has made intimate acquaintance with every blade.

Likes People

"I like to dig holes so my wife, Helen, can plant all the flowers she loves so much . . . I like model railroads . . . I like fighting fires (I was a volunteer fireman for eight years) . . . I like people. Why there isn't a place I can go (IBM is everywhere) that I don't know a hundred people. It's great! I'm never a stranger."

Mostly though, the slender shirt-sleeved executive narrows his life to three main endeavors: his work at IBM, his work around the house and just simply enjoying his family. Speaking with the pride of a truly proud papa, Delaney's eyes dart to the family portrait near his desk as he tells of Andy, a junior at his dad's alma mater; Tim, a high school senior who will finish out the school year at Westport; Kathleen, 15, and Tom, 14.

"Kathleen is such a young lady," he says wonderingly, as though still tasting his first realization of it.

Perhaps it is because, he himself, epitomizes youth. He thinks young and urges others to do the same. "Today," he comments, "the men in IBM's quarter century club, why they're young too."

The philosophy is understandable too especially in view of the fast moving tempo of IBM's progress. What was so new and exciting only a few years ago can easily become ancient history with the push of a button.

In fact, one of the company's 1955 projects with which Delaney was personally involved, was recently placed in the Smithsonian Institute. It's food for thought on the pace of progress, he suggests.

His first four years at IBM in which he "learned, trained and did field work' were a "most exciting time" a time when data and computing history was made.

Many Travels

The subsequest years in which he delved into the mechanical as well as the electrical, in which he traveled from Maine to Texas and later to Europe were equally important and, progressive, for each new step was a step up as well as a step forward.

From the time when he could solve a computing problem over the phone (they were simple enough back in 1952) to the 1960's when he worked for three years on the next generation of computors, Delaney emphasizes the self-education that must be perpetrated constantly in order to keep up, go ahead. He speaks of his every IBM era as an "educational one."

Of his steps up the managerial mountain, Delaney climbed along with a party of others including Kingston's former IBM manager, George Tamke, with whom he worked in Poughkeepsie a number of years ago.

Great Experience

"The experience has been great for me," Delaney says. "I began to get involved in the community, too. As assistant general manager at Rochester, Minn., I became involved with Junior Achievement, the hospital, the Chamber, the United Fund . . . they are important to people.

"And, when one is managing a large complex, one has to also be concerned with the effects of a large number of employes on the community in which it is located."

Therefore, he says, he can't really go anywhere without people identifying him with IBM and he, of course, wants to reflect the highest standards for himself and his company.

For Frank Delaney, it shouldn't be difficult. A two-word motto, perched on one of his desks, tells why.

It says, "Be Best."

Starting All Over

LONDON (AP) — British-born actress Joanna Pettet is re-learning the Queen's English for her role in the comedy "The Best House in London," now being made in Britain.

Joanna's problem is that she was brought up in Canada and has recently made her home in the United States. Now she has to iron out the American and Canadian accent and talk like an English girl again.

"It hasn't been easy picking up the English inflections again," she said.

Rural Area Granted Water System Loan

A $4,500 insured loan to a group of seven rural families in Ulster County, to develop a rural water system has been approved by the Farmers Home Administration, reports Barthly L. Beach, the agency's State Director.

The loan will enable the United Housing Water Association to secure a water source and install a distribution system.

The group, with the assistance of their engineer and attorney, will complete the system.

Under the assured loan program, the Farmers Home Administration makes and services the loan and guarantees repayment of the money borrowed along with interest.

The loan is to be repaid over a period of 40 years.

Frank Broadhead, Ellenville, is president of the association.

Rural water system loans are available to organizations operating on a nonprofit basis such as nonprofit corporations and water supply districts. Small rural towns and other political subdivisions are also eligible.

See Few Cabinet Men Resigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although few if any Cabinet resignations are foreseen, administration sources voice concern that many second-tier and third-tier officials will quit Washington in the nine remaining "lame duck" months of President Johnson's term.

Only 1 of the 11 Cabinet officers, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, has old and obvious political ties that might draw him from Johnson's official family now that Johnson has declared himself out of 1968 politics.

As for the others, White House aides say they suspect there may be fewer resignations in the months ahead than in those just past.

Since late November Johnson has had to find new secretaries of defense, commerce, and health, education and welfare—as well as a new budget director and a new economic council chairman.

But if the lame-duck days of Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower are any guide, many bureaucrats in the echelons just below the Cabinet level will be scrambling for job security—in private industry or in safer political havens.

Cabinet officers seldom need to wonder where their next lucrative connection is coming from. But it is a bread-and-butter problem for most assistant secretaries, bureau heads and division chiefs. Below that, the winds of political change are not generally felt, even if a new party comes into office.

Truman suffered many defections in 1948, when even his subordinates figured he was a loser. Finding replacements became increasingly difficult, his associates admitted, until he confounded the forecasters with a stunning victory.

Similar problems may beset Johnson. But at the Cabinet level, some hitherto restive officers may be better content to remain, now that an end is in sight.

Postmaster General O'Brien, once a leader of President John F. Kennedy's famed inner circle called the "Irish Mafia," has given no clues to his plans. Many have assumed, however, that he might feel duty-bound to lend his political skills to the late president's younger brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Ancient Mine Found

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — A 28,000-year-old iron mine containing some 23,000 stone tools has been discovered in Swaziland, says a report by two University of Witwatersrand professors in the latest issue of Nature magazine. Carbon dating techniques confirmed the mine's age.

Electricity May Replace Famous St. Bernard Dog

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — An electrical device for locating persons trapped under an avalanche may soon send the St. Bernard dog and his brandy keg into retirement.

Developed by Dr. John G. Lawton of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, the device uses a pocket-sized sending-receiving unit and a 19-inch loop antenna that can be sewn into a parka or ski jacket.

The device, called "Skadi" after a Scandinavian snow goddess, works this way:

A party entering an avalanche area wear their Skadis with the antenna plugged into the "send" circuit.

In the event of an avalanche, those members of the party unharmed by the snowslide switch the antenna to the "receive" circuit.

The receiving Skadis home in on the "beep-beep-beep" signal from the devices of the buried persons. As the searchers draw near the victims, the beep gets louder, allowing them to pinpoint a buried man within inches.

During recent tests in the Colorado rockies, an eight-man search party using Skadis found two dummies, buried in the snow, within nine minutes. A conventional search party of 80 men, using the old method of prodding the snow with long poles, took more than two hours to find three buried dummies.

"It took nine minutes on the first test because the rescuers had to climb uphill. The climb took seven minutes of the nine needed to find the dummies," Lawton says.

"The Skadi works on nickel-cadmium batteries that give 200 hours of sending time or 1,500 hours of receiving time. They were designed to withstand the battering encountered in an avalanche.

Lawton developed his own simple, and convincing, test of the Skadi's ruggedness. He buried one under a foot of snow and ran a bulldozer over it. The "beep-beep-beep" never faltered.

He thinks his device will work as well for miners and skin-divers, as for skiers, mountain climbers and hikers.

"We can replace the loop antenna with a one-foot metal rod and put the Skadi in a waterproff case. Miners and divers would probably find this more convenient," he says.

The Skadi is not yet available to the public.

Lawton says the laboratory, which does not engage in manufacturing, was considering licensing an independent manufacturer to produce Skadis at a reasonable cost.

Film Commissioned

A documentary film of the famous stone houses in Kingston has been commissioned by several prominent area citizens interested in preserving a record of the colonial period structures. Local film maker Tom Johnson, a staff news editor with WKNY radio, will be making the film. According to Johnson "These survivors in stone are the only remains standing today after the burning of 1777 and are gradually disappearing from the American scene."

See Few Cabinet Men Resigning

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although few if any Cabinet resignations are foreseen, administration sources voice concern that many second-tier and third-tier officials will quit Washington in the nine remaining "lame duck" months of President Johnson's term.

Only 1 of the 11 Cabinet officers, Postmaster General Lawrence F. O'Brien, has old and obvious political ties that might draw him from Johnson's official family now that Johnson has declared himself out of 1968 politics.

As for the others, White House aides say they suspect there may be fewer resignations in the months ahead than in those just past.

Since late November Johnson has had to find new secretaries of defense, commerce, and health, education and welfare—as well as a new budget director and a new economic council chairman.

But if the lame-duck days of Presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower are any guide, many bureaucrats in the echelons just below the Cabinet level will be scrambling for job security—in private industry or in safer political havens.

Cabinet officers seldom need to wonder where their next lucrative connection is coming from. But it is a bread-and-butter problem for most assistant secretaries, bureau heads and division chiefs. Below that, the winds of political change are not generally felt, even if a new party comes into office.

Truman suffered many defections in 1948, when even his subordinates figured he was a loser. Finding replacements became increasingly difficult, his associates admitted, until he confounded the forecasters with a stunning victory.

Similar problems may beset Johnson. But at the Cabinet level, some hitherto restive officers may be better content to remain, now that an end is in sight.

Postmaster General O'Brien, once a leader of President John F. Kennedy's famed inner circle called the "Irish Mafia," has given no clues to his plans. Many have assumed, however, that he might feel duty-bound to lend his political skills to the late president's younger brother, Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y.

Ancient Mine Found

JOHANNESBURG (AP) — A 28,000-year-old iron mine containing some 23,000 stone tools has been discovered in Swaziland, says a report by two University of Witwatersrand professors in the latest issue of Nature magazine. Carbon dating techniques confirmed the mine's age.

Electricity May Replace Famous St. Bernard Dog

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — An electrical device for locating persons trapped under an avalanche may soon send the St. Bernard dog and his brandy keg into retirement.

Developed by Dr. John G. Lawton of the Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory, the device uses a pocket-sized sending-receiving unit and a 19-inch loop antenna that can be sewn into a parka or ski jacket.

The device, called "Skadi" after a Scandinavian snow goddess, works this way:

A party entering an avalanche area wear their Skadis with the antenna plugged into the "send" circuit

In the event of an avalanche, those members of the party unharmed by the snowslide switch the antenna to the "receive" circuit.

The receiving Skadis home in on the "beep-beep-beep" signal from the devices of the buried persons. As the searchers draw near the victims, the beep gets louder, allowing them to pinpoint a buried man within inches.

During recent tests in the Colorado rockies, an eight-man search party using Skadis found two dummies, buried in the snow, within nine minutes. A conventional search party of 80 men, using the old method of prodding the snow with long poles, took more than two hours to find three buried dummies.

"It took nine minutes on the first test because the rescuers had to climb uphill. The climb took seven minutes of the nine needed to find the dummies," Lawton says.

"The Skadi works on nickel-cadmium batteries that give 200 hours of sending time or 1,500 hours of receiving time. They were designed to withstand the battering encountered in an avalanche.

Lawton developed his own simple, and convincing, test of the Skadi's ruggedness. He buried one under a foot of snow and ran a bulldozer over it. The "beep-beep-beep" never faltered.

He thinks his device will work as well for miners and skin-divers, as for skiers, mountain climbers and hikers.

"We can replace the loop antenna with a one-foot metal rod and put the Skadi in a waterproff case. Miners and divers would probably find this more convenient," he says.

The Skadi is not yet available to the public.

Lawton says the laboratory, which does not engage in manufacturing, was considering licensing an independent manufacturer to produce Skadis at a reasonable cost.

Film Commissioned

A documentary film of the famous stone houses in Kingston has been commissioned by several prominent area citizens interested in preserving a record of the colonial period structures. Local film maker Tom Johnson, a staff news editor with WKNY radio, will be making the film. According to Johnson "These survivors in stone are the only remains standing today after the burning of 1777 and are gradually disappearing from the American scene."

The Kingston School District Consolidated Board of Education, in conjunction with the Roland Augustine Agency, Inc., announces the district has received an insurance check for $8,403.05. Ira M. Shaw (R), associate superintendent for business management, and Mrs. Edna Morgan, school district treasurer, accept the check from Roland Augustine (L), insurance consultant. School offfficials said the check credit resulted from efficiency of their operations and the safety measures introduced in the last school year and proper maintenance of a physical plant. The Board thanked all staff members for their efforts in aiding the district. (Freeman photo by Kruh).

National Disunity Extends To Country's Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — The national disunity which President Johnson cited as the controlling factor in his withdrawal from the 1968 campaign extended far into the structure of his own Democratic party.

An Associated Press survey, carried out just ahead of the President's dramatic announcement, showed some 400—perhaps more—nominating convention votes that could be counted as at least probably anti-Johnson.

And there were eight audible rumblings or defections from Johnson by influential figures in states with enough national convention votes to knock Johnson forces down dangerously close to the 1,312 required for nomination.

Some of those trouble sounds were only faint murmurs, but there was definitely no prospect of a real convention landslide.

Johnson, in announcing his decision, did not discuss such political mathematics.

But it is likely that in measuring his problems, he employed his well-used political yardstick.

The AP survey that produced the widespread showing of actual or potential Johnson opposition was not pinned to the chief executive's withdrawal. It was an ougrowth of a simple head count, before Johnson's Sunday announcement, of Democratic state chairmen. It showed a virtual solid front for Johnson among the chairmen.

The next question was how much control the chairmen would have over their convention delegations and the more detailed study represented an effort to find out. Results were still trickling in after Johnson's withdrawal.

The big burden Johnson appeared destined to carry into the Chicago convention in August showed up in four states with a total of 480 convention votes—California with 172, Iowa with 46, Massachusetts with 72 and New York with 190.

California was rated definitely lost to Johnson. Jesse M. Unruh, the state's most powerful Democrat, is heading the drive for Sen. Robert F. Kennedy of New York and several people picked for a Johnson stand-in delegate slate were trying to get off the list.

Rep. John J. McFall, a member of the stand-in slate led by California Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch, said the group was headed for a beating.

New York was in uproar. Kennedy had in his corner leaders from such key areas as Brooklyn, Manhattan, Queens, the Bronx, the populous suburbs in Nassau and Westchester counties, and Erie, the biggest upstate county.

Members of the New York congressional delegation were predicting most Democrats in that group would go Kennedy. Guesses on the New York delegate strength Kennedy would garner ranged as high as 140. There was little reported effort for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy of Minnesota, the other Democratic aspirant.

Massachusetts, with 72 convention votes, was definitely McCarthy's since he was the only Democrat on the ballot in the April 30 primary. State law requires the delegation to vote for him on the first ballot at the national convention.

5 Pct. Penalty Due After 15th On City Taxes

Kingston residents who did not pay the first half of their real property taxes by March 26 are now subject to a two per cent penalty until April 15. After that there will be a five per cent penalty plus $1 for the notice of delinquency.

Second half taxes are due May 31 and anyone paying their taxes in full before that date can deduct one half of one per cent.

From May 31 to June 20 there will be a two per cent penalty for non-payment and five per cent thereafter.

Taxes are payable either by mail or at the city treasurer's office, second floor, city hall.

Medicare Advice

Many claims for reimbursement of doctor bills under medicare are delayed because the beneficiary's name cannot be deciphered and claim numbers are either not given or incorrectly given, according to George J. Habernig, district manager of the Kingston social security office.

Habernig urges anyone who is in doubt about the completion of his medicare claim for reimbursement to contact the district office for assistance. Proper completion of the form and attached doctor bills will speed payment of the claim. Office hours are from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Friday and until 7 p.m. Thursday.

Mayors, Rocky Meet Again On Disorders

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The mayors of five cities met for the second day today with Gov. Rockefeller and several high state officials to discuss methods of preventing civil disorders.

A spokesman would not disclose the details of Tuesday's meeting, but said the group planned to announce some recommendations at the close of today's session.

The spokesman described Tuesday's meeting as a "general exchange of views on what is being done and what can be done," but added that "there was no speculation on the likelihood of disturbances this summer."

The mayors attending the meeting were from Albany, Buffalo, Syracuse, Rochester and Newburgh. The city of Yonkers sent a representative.

Newburgh, the spokesman said, was invited because the city has a "sophisticated" plan for dealing with disturbances, and because the viewpoint of the smaller cities would be represented.

Other state officials at the meeting were Richard J. Bartlett, chairman of the State Crime Control Council; Milton J. Luger, director of the State Youth Division; William E. Kirwan, superintendent of State Police, and J. Edward Conway, state Human Rights commissioner.

Kingston State Police said George Weber, 52, of Hickory Drive, Glenford, was backing the fire apparatus with the red lights flashing, when a car driven by John Peacock 3rd, of Yerry Hill Road, Woodstock, was in collision with the truck.

Sergeant Donald Paulson said no injuries were reported, but Trooper E. A. Zeboris summoned Peacock for following a fire apparatus too closely. The summons is returnable later before Hurley Town Justice Alton Boyce.

Sent to Institution

OSWEGO, N.Y. (AP) — A 29-year-old man accused of two murders, including that of a state trooper, has been ordered confined to a mental instituion until he is able to understand the charges against him.

County Judge Don H. Stacy made the ruling Tuesday in the case of Maurice P. Lillis of Syracuse. Stacy said the state mental hygiene commissioner should designate the instituion.

A grand jury indiced Lillis in February in the slaying of Trooper William G. Doyle, 27, who was shot last December while pursuing a stolen automobile near Parish, east of here.

Lillis also is charged with killing Raymond F. Bailey, 34, of Altmar, who had escaped with Lillis from Marcy State Hospital two days before Doyle was shot.

Lillis and Bailey later hid in a house near here. Lillis surrendered Dec. 16 and told police he shot Bailey because Bailey planned to kill a man and hold a family as hostages, authorities said.

The bridegroom's father, spiritual leader of Congregation Ahavath Israel, performed the wedding ceremony, assisted by Rabbi Seymour Siegel of the Jewish Theological Seminary, Rabbi Samuel H. Dresner, Cantor Morton Shames, the Rev. Herman Abramson of Temple Beth El, Springfield, Mass., and Rabbi Mark Press, cousin of the bridegroom, New York.

The bride wore an A-line gown designed in deluma peau-de-soie, fashioned with Rochelle lace basque bodice enriched with seed pearls, sabrine neckline and long tapered sleeves. She wore an elbow length bubble veil of imported silk illusion arranged to deluma cluster trimmed with seed pearls, and carried a prayer book with white jewel roses, stephanotis and white orchid center with trailing English ivy and pearl accents.

The bride was attended by the bridegroom's sisters, Mrs. Leroy Paller and Miss Judith Schectman. Mrs. Paller, matron of honor, wore a nile green crepe gown with an empire waist. The bodice was outlined with embroidered lace. Miss Schectman, maid of honor, wore a gold sakki silk mandarin gown with a Venice cowl collar. It featured lace accents on the back watteau panel. 'Pictures in the Hallway' to Be Staged Friday

"Pictures in the Hallway," the hit Broadway play based on the life of Irish author-playwright Sean O'Casey, will be staged at Orange County Community College, Middletown, on Friday, at 8:30 p.m.

Director Paul Shyre, who fashioned the play from the Irish wit's six-volume autobiography, will read the cast of professional actors in the OCCC Lyceum Series program in the college's Orange Hall theater. Reserved seats are available at the office of the dean of students at OCCC.

"Pictures in the Hallway," which is presented as a stylized reading with actors working from high-backed stools, depicts O'Casey in his youth, from about 15 to 20 years of age. It shows his beginnings as a writer, his first exposure to the opposite sex, and his first brush with the Irish rebellion. The main theme is that of a boy becoming a man.

O'Casey, shown at the turn of the century, is becoming aware of his destiny in the harsh world of Dublin as he discovers Shakespeare, discovers his country's struggle, and ultimately discovers himself.

The Irish revolution which forms the backdrop of "Pictures in the Hallway" engaged the loyalty and enthusiasm of every Irish patriot. In 1916, while England was at war with Germany, a small group of Irish nationalists staged an uprising in Dublin during Easter week. After capturing the post office, the grim defenders held on for one week until the overwhelming might of British arms rushed them.

The execution of the leaders of the uprising by the British sparked a five-year struggle which led to the establishment of the Irish Free State. O'Casey took part in this struggle; he belonged to the Irish Republican Brotherhood, a revolutionary organization, and he both drilled with arms and wrote pamphlets to support the cause. This involvement provided a major influence in the work of O'Casey and served as a large source of material for his life's work.

BARGAIN HUNTING

This spring, meat supplies will be large, yet some choices will offer shoppers more meat for the money than others, says Louise M. Kakargo, Extension Home Economist.

Shoppers will find plenty of red meat at the markets, but only beef and pork will be more plentiful this sprinfg than earlier. Marketings of fed beef are expected to increase from the winter's levels and about equal last spring's high. This means good supplies of top quality, high grade beef for consumers. Spring prices may decline a little from those during winter, but are expected to be above last spring. Despite large supplies, prices will probably be higher for beef because demand is strong. Americans want to eat beef more than any other red meat. Then too, beef will have keen competition from larger supplies of pork and some types of poultry.

Veal and lamb, on the other hand, will continue to be in smaller supply than a year earlier. Prices have been decidedly higher than a year ago for these two meats and are expected to continue to increase.

One of the best ways to find a meat bargain is to buy what is on sale. Markets usually advertise their sales in the local newspaper or on large signs in the store windows. Savings can be considerable when you buy meat on special sale. For example, take loin lamb chops, one of the costliest and most luxurious of all meat cuts. Leading retailers were generally selling them for $1.69 to $1.79 a pound in early March, according to the New York State Department of Agriculture and Markets. But the special sale price was $1.29 a pound, a saving of 40 to 50 cents a pound.

When your favorite cuts of meat are on sale, it pays to buy some extra packages if you have a freezer. Stocking the freezer with meat on sale assures you of getting cuts you want and at prices that are low enough to help the freezer pay its way.

Despite high prices, leg of lamb is an economical meat choice, particularly when you buy the whole leg. Considering the bone and fat waste, leg of lamb yields about three-ounce servings of cooked lean meat per pound purchased. At current prices in one metropolitan supermarket, leg of lamb was retailing for 89 cents a pound or about 30 cents a serving.

If your family is large or you plan to use the leg in several meals, you may get a better buy on a whole leg than on its parts. At one local market, the whole leg retailed for 89 cents a pound while the shank half sold for 95 cents a pound. When you buy the whole leg, particularly the larger legs that weight seven to nine pounds, you can plan an preparing several different meals from it.

Ask the butcher to cut the leg of lamb into three parts for you. The first part would be steaks cut from the sirloin side of the leg. Broil these steaks as you would lamb chops for one meal. The second part would be the center portion of the leg to make a fine roast that is easy to carve. Cut the meat from the shank or third part of the leg into cubes for use in such dishes as shish kebabs, lamb curry, or lamb stew. You will find that it is easy to cut meat from the shank into uniform, boneless, meaty pieces. When you divide a whole leg in this way, you can freeze the unused sections for future meals.

Contributes $2000 to Building Fund

$2,000 FOR ST. JOSEPH'S building fund was donated recently by members of St. Joseph's Holy Name Society which brings the total amount paid to date to $3,500 towards the original $5,000 pledge. This gift, presented to the Rt. Rev. Msgr. John J. O'Reilly, was realized from the recent St. Patrick's Day celebration and from contributions by parishoners and friends towards the Centennial Sweepstakes Award night. Pictured above are (L-R) the Rev. James V. Keating of St. Joseph's; John Bently, vice president of the Holy Name; John Porsch, treasurer; and Frank Argulewicz, president. (Freeman photo by Haines).

St. Joseph's Holy Name Society recently made a $2000 donation towards their $5000 pledge for the building fund. Part of the donation had been received from the parish-sponsored Centenial Sweepstakes Award night. Grand award winner was the John Heitzman family; five second awards were given to: Don Lackaye, Michael Carpino, Earle Tongue, James Scully and Miss Mary Campbell.

It is the goal of the society to complete the original building fund commitment during this year which marks the 100th anniversary of the parish.

Other plans for the group, headed by George Moore, are to establish a scholarship at the new John A. Coleman High School in memory of the deceased members of the society.

Due to the regular monthly meeting night being on Easter Sunday, an alternate meeting will be held Sunday, April 21, at 8 p.m. in the new school hall. Plans for the annual parish picnic, sponsored by the society, in August will be made at this meeting. All men of the parish are invited.

Mr. and Mrs. Potter have four children, John, Mrs. Paul Natale, Susan, Joann; and two grandchildren, John and Kristin. They were married April 1, 1943 by the Rev. F. M. Classic: Michael's Potted Shrimp

One hundred years ago, no housewife in Britain would be without her favorite recipe for Potted Shrimp. Throughout the years it has become a classic in English cuisine. Originally, the idea behind potting food was to preserve food temporarily as there were no refrigerators a century ago, and the butter seal used in potting kept the airborne microbes at bay for a week or so. Refrigeration has made this sealing unnecessary, of course, but Potted Shrimp is still very much a favorite in British households. Easy to make, it is customarily served as an appetizer. In England, tiny shrimp are used, but there is no reason why the recipe cannot be used with large sizes. Here is the nostalgic recipe of an Englishman now living in the United States. He recommends using the smallest cooked shrimp and suggests substituting glass custard cups if the traditional small earthenware pots aren't available. Potted Shrimp is served in the small pots, garnished with a slice of lemon and accompanied by buttered, thinly sliced brown bread with crusts removed.

MICHAEL'S POTTED SHRIMP

1 cup cooked or canned small shrimp
5 ounces butter
Pinch of grated nutmeg
Dash of Tabasco

Clean shrimp if necessary. Melt 3 ounces of the butter in shallow saucepan, add shrimp and just heat through. Add nutmeg and Tabasco. Turn into cups or small pots. Melt remaining 2 ounces of butter and pour over shrimp. Let cool, then place in refrigerator until served. Makes 4 appetizing

Congo Women Really 'Use Their Heads'

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP) — If you think a book balanced on the head improves posture, try a 50-gallon oil drum.

Or a bed, complete with mattress and bedding.

Or, with a friend's help, a dugout log canoe.

Here, when a woman has a load to carry, she uses her head. Sometimes it's incredible: 2½ cases of beer, massive bundles of fish or firewood, not to mention the items listed above.

The custom, of course, is not peculiar to the Congo but the Congolese must hold some records.

Women here keep a delicate balance so that slim, top-heavy bottles stay put at a steady trot. One woman carries a wide basin of water on her head, a bucket in each hand, a baby on her back, and squats to gossip on her way home without jostling a drop.

Babies are folded into traditional wrap-around dresses on the back to leave hands free. It's a less-than-enviable position during an occasional accident, like a toppled basket of oranges.

Spills aren't that rare either. Though most women start learning to blance loads of tottering age, it's still a tough trick.

Men, the men here say, find headfreight close to impossible. But not entirely. One man was seen walking with two mattresses perched on his head, the edges just inches off the ground.

One American diplomat and old Congo hand reports his 3-year-old daughter's first impulse when handed an object is to balance it on her head. Successfully.

When she got her first doll, she immediaately wrapped it unto her back with a handkerchief.

The usual loads are baskets, bowls and light bundles of just about anything. Other no-strain cargoes include children's tricycles, bales of vegetation and anything else you'd care to name.

But the heavy stuff takes teamwork and careful treading. Friends hold the load aloft while the carrier stoops like a weightlifter about to try squats.

With the load placed on her bowed head, the woman eases upward, straightening her neck and rolling her head back slightly to settle the weight in a comfortable (a relative term) position.

Once erect, she glides slowly, moving from the hips. She's condemned to keep whatever it is aloft unti she finds another cluster of friends to remove the load. Shedding the freight requires the same process as hoisting it, but in reverse.

186 YEARS are represented here by Miss Florence France, 90, and her sister, Mrs. John Dohnken, 96, who celebrated her birthday Sunday, March 31. A large group of relatives, friends and neighbors gathered at the home of Mrs. Eugene Hung of Zena, daughter of Mrs. Dohnken, and with whom she resides. Miss France, her only living sister, who lives at the Home for the Aged, was able to celebrate the event with Mrs. Dohnken. Guests attended from Binghamton, New York City and Woodstock area. Mrs. Dohnken, a former Kingstonian, having lived in the Ponckhockie section for more than 50 years, is the oldest member of the Congregational Church. In addition to Mrs. Hung, she has another daughter, Mrs. Charles McGinnis Sr. of Kingston, and a son, Harry of Selkirk. Mrs. Dohnken enjoys crocheting, reading, watching television and the company of her friends. (Freeman photo by Haines).

Ferraro Has It Made at Third--- Could Dawson Award Follow?

By CHARLES J. TIANO
Sports Editor

Mike Ferraro has it made at third base for the New York Yankees.

Barring a total collapse in the next few days, he will become Kingston's first major leaguer in nearly 40 years.

He will be at third base in Yankee Stadium next Tuesday when the Bronx Bombers open their 1968 American League campaign against the California Angels.

This is a foregone conclusion shared by all the metropolitan area writers who regularly cover the Yankess. Even Joe Trimble of the New York Daily News, no Mike Ferraro watcher, conceded victory to the Kingston lad in the dual with Bobby Cox.

But the crowning achievement is Mike's incredible spring saga would be winning the coveted James Dawson Award voted annually to the outstanding rookie in the Yankee spring training season.

All The Credentials

Mike has all the credentials for this significant award—a robust .409 batting average and a brilliant record on defense.

Mike's chief opposition is expected to come from two catchers—former roommate Frank Fernandez of Staten Island and Elisio Rodriquez another catcher.

Andy Kosco, the Yankees' spring sensation is not eligible, having spent parts of two seasons with the Minnesota Twins.

A revealing story by Maury Allen of the New York Post spotlights the tremendous odds overcome by Ferraro in his climb to the top.

Allen, now a strong Ferraro booster after earlier skepticism, reports that the Yankees purchased Bobby Cox, a 26-year-old rookie from their Richmond farm club last November. They had been disappointed with Charlie Smith's performance and figured Ferraro just wasn't ready.

Only Mike Refused

Only Mike Ferraro refused to believe it, Allen reported.

The Post baseball writer puts it bluntly: When Manager Ralph Houk said Cox and Ferraro would alternate each day, it was a put on. It was Cox's job (with Smith hors de combat with a knee injury). He had the experience, was ready for the bigs and had an impressive dossier.

"Ferraro only had the guts," says Allen.

"When the Yankees lend-leased him to the Dodger farm at Spokane, it was a sure sign he wasn't too highly regarded," Allen wrote.

But it could have been the turning point in Mike's bid for a major league post. He found Pacific Coast League baseball a tonic after a dismal showing at Syracuse. He batted .292, knocked in 53 runs and earned another call to spring training.

Had Chance in 1967

"Last spring (1967)," Houk told Allen, "he (Ferraro) had a real shot at third base. We weren't that set on Smith. Mike just played himself off the team."

Ferraro had a bad arm which he concealed from his manager. He couldn't throw, he didn't hit and besides that, he couldn't field.

This spring it has been different.

"I read all those stories all winter how Cox was going to be the third baseman," said Mike. "I decided I was going to be the third baseman."

Ferraro has moved his batting average to a rousing .409 with 18 hits in 44 at bats. Cox is mired down around .194.

"I don't know how you can keep him out of the lineup," said Houk. "He hasn't done anything wrong."

"He can also make contact on the hit and run," continued Houk, who needs a batter who will put the bat on the ball in his go-go attack.

Fort Lauderdale Tip

A tip our of Fort Lauderdale via a person close to the Yankee organization confirms it all —Ferraro's luggage has been shipped to the Yankee Stadium. They don't send minor league paraphernalia to the House That Ruth Built.

And there'll he'll be next Tuesday afternoon—in a Yankee pinstripe at third base — hallowed ground once occupied by the likes of Jumpin' Joe Dugan, Red Rolfe, Billy Johnson, Gil MacDougald and Clete Boyer, to name a few.

Kingston Teams Vie in Finals Of Troy Tourney

It will be an all-Kingston finals in the Troy YMCA basketball tournament tonight, when Pete's Panthers play the Road Runners for all the marbles.

The all-local confrontation was set up as the result of the Panthers' forfeit win over Unis Grill of North Adams, Mass. and the Runners' 94-72 romp over BCHS.

Panthers were deprived of a legitimate and decisive victory when the Unis Grill coach pulled his team off the floor three minutes into the third period in protest against a referee's ruling.

The Panthers led 69-42 at that point. Wes Thompson had 16 points and Mike Hoffman 14. Other scoring: Gary Matthews 6, Gary Flowers 4, Steve Beverly 4, Mark Toney 12, Gene Ballou 3, Jon Yaple 10.

The sharpshooting of Rocky Johnson and Gerald Barber sparked the impressive Road Runner victory. Johnson potted 31 points and Barber canned 28, running his three-game total to 104 points. John Royal added 16.

The Runners pulled away after a slim 18-17 margin at the quarter to lead 41-30 at the half.

The score:

Roadrunners (94)	FG	FP	T	BCHS (72)	FG	FP	T

Graham Sees Frazier Next Heavy Champion

By CHARLES TIANO
Sports Editor

A boxing great from out of the past paid a surprise visit to the Freeman sports department, en route to a speaking engagement at the Saugerties Lions Club.

Billy Graham, never a world champion, but one of the all-time middleweight greats, is still trim and natty and bears few scars of seven timultuous ring battles with two renowned champions — Kid Gavilan and Carmen Basilio.

He likes Joe Frazier in the current heavyweight eliminations but figures Jerry Quarry can get by Jimmy Ellis in the World Boxing Association tournament.

"I think Quarry has a chance against Frazier," said Graham, now a public relations ambassador for National Distilleries. "He can take you out with one punch and you can't count him out until it's over."

Oversized Armstrong

The man who fought Gavilan three times and tangled with Basilio on four occasions has higher regard for Frazier.

"He's an oversized Henry Armstrong," says Graham, "a perpetual motion guy, pretty rare among heavyweights."

"Quarry's best chance against Frazier is to nail him early," Graham warns. "The longer it goes, the lesser his chances."

How would Quarry or Frazier stack up against exiled champion Cassius Clay?

Graham hesitated for a moment—and anxious not to demean a fellow boxer—let both down easily.

"Clay is in a class by himself among the current heavyweights," he said. That answered the question.

He also was non-committal about Nino Benvenuti and Emile Griffith, refusing to compare them with the greats of his time. Again the refusal to elaborate was eloquent comment on his feelings.

Lost Squeakers

Back in the Golden Era of post-war boxing, Graham was a teremendous performer. He was never able to dethrone either Basilio or Gavilan but lost highly disputed decisions to both.

In 1950-52, Graham met Gavilan, the elegant "Hawk" from Cuba, four times. He decisioned the Kid in their first meeting in 10 rounds, then dropped a 10-rounder and two 15-rounders, all extremely close, the last bout for the world welterweight title in a classic brawl in pre-Castro Havana.

Graham broken even in three clashes with Basilio, whipping him in 10 rounds in 1952. In 1953, Basilio decisioned him in 12 rounds for the New York State welterweight on June 6. They tangled again on July 25 that year, with Basilio retaining his title in a hotly disputed draw. Most ringsider observers gave Graham the edge in this one.

Beat Giardello

The boxer turned salesman split in two meetings with Joey Giardello, the Philadelphia strongboy, beating him in 12 and losing a 10-rounder.

Other "name" boxers whipped by Graham included Paddy Young and Art Aragon. He drew with Rocky Castellani.

Graham, whose father was born in the Creek Locks area, likes his new mode of living. And he thinks boxing is on the way back.

Conigliaro's Future–Dark

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles will be without another of their 1966 pennant heroes when the 1968 baseball season begins Monday and last year's champion Boston Red Sox are not doing much better.

The Red Sox, already without pitching injured ace Jim Lonborg for at least the first month of the season, sent slugging Tony Conigliaro flying to Boston Tuesday to undergo further eye examinations.

"There's no doubt that I have a problem,' the 23-year-old outfielder was quoted by teammate Carl Yastrzemski in a story written for the Boston Evening Globe. "I have to admit my eyes are nowhere near perfect.'

Conigliaro admitted he has difficulty focusing on pitches in daylight. He suffered blurred vision when he was hit near the left eye by a pitch last August, and missed the rest of the 1967 season and the World Series. He had 20 homers, 67 runs batted in and a .287 batting average at the time.

Hitting Only .167

This spring, he is hitting only .167 and has struck out frequently.

Baltimore's worries are not as acute as the pitching rich Orioles sent Wally Bunker to join Jim Palmer in the minor leagues to work out pitching problems.

Bunker, also 23, won 19 games in 1964 and 10 games and a World Series game in 1966 before tendonitis limited him to a 3-7 record last year.

Palmer, another Series winner who was 15-10 that year, also has been bothered by arm trouble and was sent down earlier this spring, and Stu Miller, the star of the bullpen, was sold Monday.

Other pitchers, like Bo Belinsky, had a good day.

Belinsky got his wish from the Houston Astros and was sold to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League where he hopes to pitch and open a dude ranch.

Pitchers Sparkle

On the mound, Woody Fryman, Mike McCormick, Earl Wilson, Milt Pappas and Jerry Stephenson sparkled.

Fryman, acquired by Philadelphia from Pittsburgh in the Jim Bunning trade last winter, turned in a three-hitter for seven innings and struck out 11 as the Phillies blanked Minnesota 1-0 on Tony Taylor's sixth-inning homer.

McCormick, who won 22 games, the Cy Young Award and the comeback award in the National League in 1967, stopped Cleveland without a run for six innings in San Francisco's 6-1 triumph over the Indians.

Wilson, another 22-game winner last season, gave up six hits and one run in seven innings, pitching Detroit over the Chicago White Sox 5-1.

Cincinnati got a one-hitter for five innings from Pappas and the Reds went on to a 4-2 decision over Houston.

Hansen Raps Homer

Ron Hansen hammered a two-out ninth inning homer to break a tie and hand Washington a 5-4 victory over Boston, despite Stephenson's efforts. Stephenson stopped the Senators on two hits and one unearned run for seven innings before Washington scored four runs in the last two innings against relievers.

Jim Hardin, John O'Donoghue and Pete Richert stopped the New York Yankees on five hits in Baltimore's 2-1 12-inning triumph on Elrod Hendricks' sacrifice fly.

Bobby Tolan stole home with the winning run off Don Shaw in the eighth inning to give St. Louis a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets.

Don Drysdale was touched for four runs in seven innings, but Los Angeles bombed Ken Holtzman and Rich Nye for a 5-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Three hits, two errors and a sacrifice fly got Pittsburgh three runs and a 3-2 victory over Oakland.

Playoffs Set

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pipers announced Tuesday they will host the Minnesota Muskies for the first two games of their American Basketball Association semifinal playoffs, then go to Minnesota for two more.

Hand Picks Cardinals

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis has the pitching, power and balance to win the National League pennant again but it won't be any 10½-game romp this time.

If there is any complacency in the camp of the defending world champions it didn't show in Florida where Orlando Cepeda and Lou Brock were bombing the fences. Manager Red Schoendienst's toughest problem was cutting his pitching staff.

Cincinnati looks tough if it can escape the injuries that ruined them last season. San Francisco should be close to the big money on an expected super year by Juan Marichal. Pittsburgh, the team that had everything but finished sixth, has added a pitching ace in Jim Bunning.

Leo Durocher's Chicago Cubs rate as contenders after making believers of the cynics last summer. Both the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves can make trouble if they play up to their potential. Philadelphia has to sweat it out with Richie Allen's damaged right hand. Houston appears to have enough to keep the New York Mets in last place.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. St. Louis
2. Cincinnati
3. San Francisco
4. Pittsburgh
5. Chicago
6. Los Angeles
7. Atlanta
8. Philadelphia
9. Houston
10. New York

The Cards are up to here in solid pitching with Bob Gibson showing the way to a staff that includes Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton, and the others who did the job last season.

John Edwards will give Tim McCarver a chance to take a rest and Dick Schofield provides shortstop insurance behind Dal Maxvill.

A batting order that includes Brock, Cepeda, McCarver, Curt Flood, Mike Shannon, Roger Maris and Julian Javier packs enough punch to carry an ordinary staff and the Cards' staff is not ordinary.

Injuries, of course, can ruin any club. Any serious problems with Cepeda's knee or Flood's arm could bring them back to the pack.

The Reds might have made a good run at it last season if the injuries hadn't chopped down the club in midseason. Dave Bristol has a group of versatile players who think they can win. A staff that includes Jim Maloney, Mel Queen, Milt Pappas and Gary Nolan (assuming he is sound) can make it close.

Much depends on a Marichal comeback and a return to form by Willie Mays if the Giants are to win. Mike McCormick must back up his fine year with another good season and the Hal Lanier-Ron Hunt combo must click in the middle of the infield. The Giants do have that home run power and good pitching.

The Pirates lead the league in hitting every year but the pitching lets them down. The addition of Bunning makes them a formidable factor. Any line-up that includes Roberto Clemente has to be a threat.

The Cubs went far with a kid pitching staff last season and count on the same group, plus a full season from Ken Holtzman, to take them all the way. Ron Santo, Ernie Banks and Billy Williams must carry the big load and Adolfo Phillips must continue to improve.

Yonkers Ups Purse Money, Adds $5 Grand Each Evening

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Yonkers Raceway announced Tuesday it will raise its purses for overnight harness races about $5,000 nightly, effective April 15.

The track said this was in line with the recent state legislation raising the parimutuel take from 15 to 16 per cent.

Purse increases will range from $300 for races in the lowest class to $2,500 for races involving quality horses.

The track said the total will amount to about $750,000 in additional purses during the two Yonkers meetings this year.

Under the new bill, harness tracks received a boost of one-half of one per cent of the parimutuel cut. The track said it was putting 50 per cent of its share into additional purses.

Harness horsemen have protested the new legislation, complaing it discriminates against harness horsemen in favor of the thoroughbred horse owners.

The bill awarded an extra one per cent, half of it earmarked for purses for the next three years, to the New York Racing Association. The NYRA conducts major thoroughbred racing in the state on a nonprofit basis.

The harness horsemen also complained that the new bill does not specify that any part of the increase should go into purses.

They have threatened court action and a possible boycott of harness racing tracks.

Lost Squeakers

Back in the Golden Era of post-war boxing, Graham was a teremendous performer. He was never able to dethrone either Basilio or Gavilan but lost highly disputed decisions to both.

In 1950-52, Graham met Gavilan, the elegant "Hawk" from Cuba, four times. He decisioned the Kid in their first meeting in 10 rounds, then dropped a 10-rounder and two 15-rounders, all extremely close, the last bout for the world welterweight title in a classic brawl in pre-Castro Havana.

Graham broken even in three clashes with Basilio, whipping him in 10 rounds in 1952. In 1953, Basilio decisioned him in 12 rounds for the New York State welterweight on June 6. They tangled again on July 25 that year, with Basilio retaining his title in a hotly disputed draw. Most ringsider observers gave Graham the edge in this one.

Beat Giardello

The boxer turned salesman split in two meetings with Joey Giardello, the Philadelphia strongboy, beating him in 12 and losing a 10-rounder.

Other "name" boxers whipped by Graham included Paddy Young and Art Aragon. He drew with Rocky Castellani.

Graham, whose father was born in the Creek Locks area, likes his new mode of living. And he thinks boxing is on the way back.

Conigliaro's Future–Dark

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Baltimore Orioles will be without another of their 1966 pennant heroes when the 1968 baseball season begins Monday and last year's champion Boston Red Sox are not doing much better.

The Red Sox, already without pitching injured ace Jim Lonborg for at least the first month of the season, sent slugging Tony Conigliaro flying to Boston Tuesday to undergo further eye examinations.

"There's no doubt that I have a problem,' the 23-year-old outfielder was quoted by teammate Carl Yastrzemski in a story written for the Boston Evening Globe. "I have to admit my eyes are nowhere near perfect.'

Conigliaro admitted he has difficulty focusing on pitches in daylight. He suffered blurred vision when he was hit near the left eye by a pitch last August, and missed the rest of the 1967 season and the World Series. He had 20 homers, 67 runs batted in and a .287 batting average at the time.

Hitting Only .167

This spring, he is hitting only .167 and has struck out frequently.

Baltimore's worries are not as acute as the pitching rich Orioles sent Wally Bunker to join Jim Palmer in the minor leagues to work out pitching problems.

Bunker, also 23, won 19 games in 1964 and 10 games and a World Series game in 1966 before tendonitis limited him to a 3-7 record last year.

Palmer, another Series winner who was 15-10 that year, also has been bothered by arm trouble and was sent down earlier this spring, and Stu Miller, the star of the bullpen, was sold Monday.

Other pitchers, like Bo Belinsky, had a good day.

Belinsky got his wish from the Houston Astros and was sold to Hawaii of the Pacific Coast League where he hopes to pitch and open a dude ranch.

Pitchers Sparkle

On the mound, Woody Fryman, Mike McCormick, Earl Wilson, Milt Pappas and Jerry Stephenson sparkled.

Fryman, acquired by Philadelphia from Pittsburgh in the Jim Bunning trade last winter, turned in a three-hitter for seven innings and struck out 11 as the Phillies blanked Minnesota 1-0 on Tony Taylor's sixth-inning homer.

McCormick, who won 22 games, the Cy Young Award and the comeback award in the National League in 1967, stopped Cleveland without a run for six innings in San Francisco's 6-1 triumph over the Indians.

Wilson, another 22-game winner last season, gave up six hits and one run in seven innings, pitching Detroit over the Chicago White Sox 5-1.

Cincinnati got a one-hitter for five innings from Pappas and the Reds went on to a 4-2 decision over Houston.

Hansen Raps Homer

Ron Hansen hammered a two-out ninth inning homer to break a tie and hand Washington a 5-4 victory over Boston, despite Stephenson's efforts. Stephenson stopped the Senators on two hits and one unearned run for seven innings before Washington scored four runs in the last two innings against relievers.

Jim Hardin, John O'Donoghue and Pete Richert stopped the New York Yankees on five hits in Baltimore's 2-1 12-inning triumph on Elrod Hendricks' sacrifice fly.

Bobby Tolan stole home with the winning run off Don Shaw in the eighth inning to give St. Louis a 3-2 victory over the New York Mets.

Don Drysdale was touched for four runs in seven innings, but Los Angeles bombed Ken Holtzman and Rich Nye for a 5-4 decision over the Chicago Cubs.

Three hits, two errors and a sacrifice fly got Pittsburgh three runs and a 3-2 victory over Oakland.

Playoffs Set

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pipers announced Tuesday they will host the Minnesota Muskies for the first two games of their American Basketball Association semifinal playoffs, then go to Minnesota for two more.

Hand Picks Cardinals

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — St. Louis has the pitching, power and balance to win the National League pennant again but it won't be any 10½-game romp this time.

If there is any complacency in the camp of the defending world champions it didn't show in Florida where Orlando Cepeda and Lou Brock were bombing the fences, Manager Red Schoendienst's toughest problem was cutting his pitching staff.

Cincinnati looks tough if it can escape the injuries that ruined them last season. San Francisco should be close to the big money on an expected super year by Juan Marichal. Pittsburgh, the team that had everything but finished sixth, has added a pitching ace in Jim Bunning.

Leo Durocher's Chicago Cubs rate as contenders after making believers of the cynics last summer. Both the Los Angeles Dodgers and Atlanta Braves can make trouble if they play up to their potential. Philadelphia has to sweat it out with Richie Allen's damaged right hand. Houston appears to have enough to keep the New York Mets in last place.

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. St. Louis
2. Cincinnati
3. San Francisco
4. Pittsburgh
5. Chicago
6. Los Angeles
7. Atlanta
8. Philadelphia
9. Houston
10. New York

The Cards are up to here in solid pitching with Bob Gibson showing the way to a staff that includes Nelson Briles, Steve Carlton, and the others who did the job last season.

John Edwards will give Tim McCarver a chance to take a rest and Dick Schofield provides shortstop insurance behind Dal Maxvill.

A batting order that includes Brock, Cepeda, McCarver, Curt Flood, Mike Shannon, Roger Maris and Julian Javier packs enough punch to carry an ordinary staff and the Cards' staff is not ordinary.

Injuries, of course, can ruin any club. Any serious problems with Cepeda's knee or Flood's arm could bring them back to the pack.

The Reds might have made a good run at it last season if the injuries hadn't chopped down the club in midseason. Dave Bristol has a group of versatile players who think they can win. A staff that includes Jim Maloney, Mel Queen, Milt Pappas and Gary Nolan (assuming he is sound) can make it close.

Much depends on a Marichal comeback and a return to form by Willie Mays if the Giants are to win. Mike McCormick must back up his fine year with another good season and the Hal Lanier-Ron Hunt combo must click in the middle of the infield. The Giants do have that home run power and good pitching.

The Pirates lead the league in hitting every year but the pitching lets them down. The addition of Bunning makes them a formidable factor. Any line-up that includes Roberto Clemente has to be a threat.

The Cubs went far with a kid pitching staff last season and count on the same group, plus a full season from Ken Holtzman, to take them all the way. Ron Santo, Ernie Banks and Billy Williams must carry the big load and Adolfo Phillips must continue to improve.

Yonkers Ups Purse Money, Adds $5 Grand Each Evening

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — Yonkers Raceway announced Tuesday it will raise its purses for overnight harness races about $5,000 nightly, effective April 15.

The track said this was in line with the recent state legislation raising the parimutuel take from 15 to 16 per cent.

Purse increases will range from $300 for races in the lowest class to $2,500 for races involving quality horses.

The track said the total will amount to about $750,000 in additional purses during the two Yonkers meetings this year.

Under the new bill, harness tracks received a boost of one-half of one per cent of the parimutuel cut. The track said it was putting 50 per cent of its share into additional purses.

Harness horsemen have protested the new legislation, complaing it discriminates against harness horsemen in favor of the thoroughbred horse owners.

The bill awarded an extra one per cent, half of it earmarked for purses for the next three years, to the New York Racing Association. The NYRA conducts major thoroughbred racing in the state on a nonprofit basis.

The harness horsemen also complained that the new bill does not specify that any part of the increase should go into purses.

They have threatened court action and a possible boycott of harness racing tracks.

Fish Fever Reported Rampant in Ulster

That 24-hour virus which struck the area starting at midnight Sunday has been diagnosed as nothing but 'fishing fever.' Judging from the number of fishermen seen in local streams it was a mild but persistent form and nothing to get alarmed about.

Brief showers and even snow flurries in some sections failed to dampen the enthusiasm of the hardy souls and it must be said that early returns show a fair to good opener.

Several limit catches were reported and some excellent rainbows were in evidence.

A RUNDOWN ON SOME OF THE CATCHES:

Sonny Barnes, the old pro, together with John DeCicco broke fast from the barrier at midnight Sunday and by 2 a. m. had 19 pike at the dividing weir in the Ashokan reservoir. DeCicco bagged a prize rainbow which scaled over five pounds and another that measured 19 inches.

Spada's Sport Shop reported brisk business and the usual late rush on fishing licenses. They also reported a catch of 10 beautiful trout from the Stony Clove section by Brad Wilson and a 20-inch brown for Bill Loffler, local fireman.

John Patarzewski and his party managed 13 trout from the Peck Hollow stream.

From the J&G Tackle Shop: Pete Petit with a limit of 10 from Woodland Valley and Chet Peck with 8 rainbows from the main stream.

Van Bramer and Perks Service Station at Saugerties: A 16-inch brown trout from the Plattekill by Lamont Van Wezemaal of Ulster Park.

Carroll's Bait Box: A limit catch for Jack Sheeley, Jr. and Frank Sheeley and Jack McFadden, who braved the cold and snow flurries of the Schoharie.

HENRY FOLKERT of the popular Folkert Sporting Goods store at Phoenicia reported "the best business in the past five years"; also some excellent reports or creel limits.

John Olson of Newburgh checked in a 20-inch rainbow from above the portals, taken on garden tackle. H. I. Smith of Montclair, N. J., a 16-inch brown; Mickey Dunphy, a 10-limit on salmon eggs and Danny Smith a full creel from Woodland on worms. Most fish, said Mr. Folkerts, was taken by 9 a. m. before the wind raised havoc with the anglers.

Em Mayes, despite damaged waders put 10 fine fish on the supper table, all taken by noon from Stony Clove.

By next week, we predict some whoppers to hit this column.

LIKE THE OLD GRAY MARE, the smelt run in the Eddyville area is not what it used to be. Despite an unusual early runoff of snow and ice, the succulent smelt are not to be found in any great numbers.

According to Jack Landi, who operates a boat livery adjacent to the Eddyville bridge, the hardy souls who line the banks and rocky shorelines near the falls, a catch of 30 or 40 is about tops for an evenings dip. Gone are the days when a few scaps with the net would produce a bushel or more.

The fish that migrate to this area for spawning average about 3 inches in length, much smaller than those found in Lake Champlain and Canadian waters and found on many local fish market counters.

Most smelt fishing is done at night when the tide is high, although Charles Ruschak of St. Remy did manage a handful for a recent afternoon's labor. Frankie Emberson and Jim Kennedy, using their scap boat, are managing a few but we can assure you that hoisting a boom net all night gets mighty tiresome. More so when you are just straining the water.

Condolences to Em and Olga Mayes on the loss of their fine bird dog, Belle. We doubt if there are too many bird dogs that could equal her. Finely trained and most obedient she was a dog we had the pleasure of sharing some fine hunting behind her. Like rare vintage wine, dogs like these are hard to come by.

OLD RIP SEZ: Are those proposed gun laws aimed at reducing crime or are they another way of getting more money out of the sportsman's wallet? We wonder.

Sawyer Tennis Team Seeks Improvement

Saugerties Tennis coach John Welton is hoping to improve last year's 1-13 mark.

With four lettermen returning from last year's squad, Coach Welton sees a reasonable hope for improvement, especially since last year was the first that the Sawyers fielded a tennis team.

Senior Tim Suenram, junior Karl Sjursen, sophomores Frank Barone and Gary O'Leary and freshman Carl Ferrono are all out for the first time. The boys have been working out in the gym for two weeks and have spent three afternoons on the courts.

Although the tennis team has lost its first two men from last year, Steve Martello and Reed Fuller, the co-captains, coach Welton is not dismayed. "We're in much better shape than we were last year," he declared. The Sawyers chalked up one win over Beacon last year. Coach Welton said, "Arlington and Roosevelt figure to be strong again in the DCSL. There's a lot of interest in tennis down in that area."

Saugerties plays its first match April 25 at Roosevelt.

The bird owned by Pat Armato took first place in the Kingston-Ulster County Racing Pigeon Club's 125 mile race from Trenton, N. J., at the average of 1471.35 yards per minute.

Under clear skies and a southeast wind, 268 birds representing 23 lofts were released at 7 a.m. Sunday in the first contest of the season. The winning pigeon notched a speed of about 45 mph, one of the fastest times ever recorded in a K.U.C. race.

Warriors Gain Finals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Underdog San Francisco has become the fourth member of the National Basketball Association playoff cast with a 111-106 victory over the St. Louis Hawks.

"It's the greatest upset in NBA history," said a happy Bill Sharman Tuesday night after his Warriors disposed of the Hawks, four games to two, with fine outside shooting in every game of the Western Division semifinals.

"We truly didn't expect to be here," said Clyde Lee, who tipped in the Warriors' final basket after the Hawks had pulled to within 109-106.

The Warriors, plagued by injuries—the biggest to star Nate Thurmond—ended in third place in the regular season behind the Hawks and second-place Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, winner over Chicago in their semifinal series, entertains the Warriors Friday night in the first game of the Western Division final playoffs. The teams were 4-4 against each other during the season.

Boston and Philadelphia open their fight for the Eastern Division crown Friday night in Philadelphia.

Rudy LaRusso led the Warriors with 30 points, but it was Bobby Warlick who put the game away. He scored seven of his 20 points in the final four minutes. Jeff Mullins also collected 20.

San Francisco led 57-47 at halftime and stretched it to 73-57 early in the third quarter. Len Wilkens hit a field goal that brought the Hawks to 98-96 in the fourth period, but that was the closest they came.

"It was the biggest disappointment of my life," said Hawk Coach Richie Guerin, "after we played so well during the regular season."

He credited the Warriors' outside shooting as being the biggest factor, but Sharman said it was rebounding.

The Warriors were outrebounded 58-47 but in the two losses to the Hawks, were outrebounded by more than 20.

Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 35, followed by Wilkens with 29.

Draft Utah's Halimon By Philadelphia 76ers

NEW YORK (AP) — Shaler Halimon, 6-foot-5 star of Utah State, has been drafted by the Philadelphia 76ers, champions of the National Basketball Association.

This was disclosed today by a spokesman for the 76ers in advance of the formal announcement from NBA headquarters in New York.

A spokesman for the NBA said the official first-round draft choices by all teams would be announced late today.

Franklin Mieuli, owner of the San Francisco Warriors, said he would draft Ron Williams, 6-3 West Virginia star "if he's available."

Bob Kauffman, 6-8 Little All-American from Guilford, N.C. College, has been drafted and signed by the Seattle SuperSonics, the Seattle Times said.

Calls Press Conference

Don Richman, Seattle general manager, would neither confirm nor deny the report, but called a press conference for today.

With the exception of the San Diego Rockets, who signed Houston's All-American Elvin Hayes last week for an estimated $400,000, none of the other NBA clubs made known their first-round draft picks. The selections were made in a telephonic draft by Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the league.

There were unconfirmed reports that the Baltimore Bullets had chosen All-American Westley Unseld of Louisville and that the Boston Celtics had picked Don Chaney of Houston. The New York Knicks were understood to like Jo Jo White of Kansas.

Miller Inducted

Some of the leading collegiate stars likely to be drafted include All-American Larry Miller of North Carolina, Don May of Dayton, the Most Valuable Player in the recent National Invitation Tournament, Bill Hosket of Ohio State, Mike Lewis of Duke, Sam Williams of Iowa, and Tom Boerwinkle of Tennessee.

Among the small college players eligible are John Ray Goldfrey of Abilene Christian, Henry Logan of Western Carolina, Jerry McGreal of Illinois State, Larry Newbold of Long Island, Dallas Thornton of Kentucky Wesleyan and Otto Moore of Pan-American.

Meantime, it was announced the final divisional playoffs will start Friday night. In the Eastern Division it will be Boston at Philadelphia. In the West, it will be San Francisco at Los Angeles.

Record 17-Second KO For Buffalo Heavyweight

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Light heavyweight Jimmy Ralston scored what might be the quickest knockout in modern boxing history Tuesday night in flooring Herman (Scatterhawk) Dixon of Miami in 17 seconds.

Ralston of Buffalo was a kayo victim of Dixon in two rounds in Miami two years ago.

Dixon opened the first-round here in Memorial Auditorium with a short left lead then moved with his right. Ralston shot his left hook over Dixon's arm and crashed a solid punch on Dixon's jaw. And it was all over.

Dixon was on the canvas for five minutes but was fully recovered when he reached the dressing room. "I still don't know what happened," he said. "I don't even know what he hit me with."

The quickest knockout listed in the Ring Record Book was between Tom Dow and Ned Kieley in 1868 at Leavenworth, Kan. Dow was credited with winning in seven seconds. That could not have included a mandatory 8-count, however.

The quickest modern era knockout listed in the 1968 book was at Maestag, Wales, Sept. 2, 1957 when Teddy Barker of England stopped Bob Roberts of Nigeria in exactly 10 seconds.

Sonny Barnes, the old pro, together with John DeCicco broke fast from the barrier at midnight Sunday and by 2 a. m. had 19 pike at the dividing weir in the Ashokan reservoir. DeCicco bagged a prize rainbow which scaled over five pounds and another that measured 19 inches.

Spada's Sport Shop reported brisk business and the usual late rush on fishing licenses. They also reported a catch of 10 beautiful trout from the Stony Clove section by Brad Wilson and a 20-inch brown for Bill Loffler, local fireman.

John Patarzewski and his party managed 13 trout from the Peck Hollow stream.

From the J&G Tackle Shop: Pete Petit with a limit of 10 from Woodland Valley and Chet Peck with 8 rainbows from the main stream.

Van Bramer and Perks Service Station at Saugerties: A 16-inch brown trout from the Plattekill by Lamont Van Wezemaal of Ulster Park.

Carroll's Bait Box: A limit catch for Jack Sheeley, Jr. and Frank Sheeley and Jack McFadden, who braved the cold and snow flurries of the Schoharie.

HENRY FOLKERT of the popular Folkert Sporting Goods store at Phoenicia reported "the best business in the past five years"; also some excellent reports or creel limits.

John Olson of Newburgh checked in a 20-inch rainbow from above the portals, taken on garden tackle. H. I. Smith of Montclair, N. J., a 16-inch brown; Mickey Dunphy, a 10-limit on salmon eggs and Danny Smith a full creel from Woodland on worms. Most fish, said Mr. Folkerts, was taken by 9 a. m. before the wind raised havoc with the anglers.

Em Mayes, despite damaged waders put 10 fine fish on the supper table, all taken by noon from Stony Clove.

By next week, we predict some whoppers to hit this column.

LIKE THE OLD GRAY MARE, the smelt run in the Eddyville area is not what it used to be. Despite an unusual early runoff of snow and ice, the succulent smelt are not to be found in any great numbers.

According to Jack Landi, who operates a boat livery adjacent to the Eddyville bridge, the hardy souls who line the banks and rocky shorelines near the falls, a catch of 30 or 40 is about tops for an evenings dip. Gone are the days when a few scaps with the net would produce a bushel or more.

The fish that migrate to this area for spawning average about 3 inches in length, much smaller than those found in Lake Champlain and Canadian waters and found on many local fish market counters.

Most smelt fishing is done at night when the tide is high, although Charles Ruschak of St. Remy did manage a handful for a recent afternoon's labor. Frankie Emberson and Jim Kennedy, using their scap boat, are managing a few but we can assure you that hoisting a boom net all night gets mighty tiresome. More so when you are just straining the water.

Condolences to Em and Olga Mayes on the loss of their fine bird dog, Belle. We doubt if there are too many bird dogs that could equal her. Finely trained and most obedient she was a dog we had the pleasure of sharing some fine hunting behind her. Like rare vintage wine, dogs like these are hard to come by.

OLD RIP SEZ: Are those proposed gun laws aimed at reducing crime or are they another way of getting more money out of the sportsman's wallet? We wonder.

Sawyer Tennis Team Seeks Improvement

Saugerties Tennis coach John Welton is hoping to improve last year's 1-13 mark.

With four lettermen returning from last year's squad, Coach Welton sees a reasonable hope for improvement, especially since last year was the first that the Sawyers fielded a tennis team.

Senior Tim Suenram, junior Karl Sjursen, sophomores Frank Barone and Gary O'Leary and freshman Carl Ferrono are all out for the first time. The boys have been working out in the gym for two weeks and have spent three afternoons on the courts.

Although the tennis team has lost its first two men from last year, Steve Martello and Reed Fuller, the co-captains, coach Welton is not dismayed. "We're in much better shape than we were last year," he declared. The Sawyers chalked up one win over Beacon last year. Coach Welton said, "Arlington and Roosevelt figure to be strong again in the DCSL. There's a lot of interest in tennis down in that area."

Saugerties plays its first match April 25 at Roosevelt.

Warriors Gain Finals

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Underdog San Francisco has become the fourth member of the National Basketball Association playoff cast with a 111-106 victory over the St. Louis Hawks.

"It's the greatest upset in NBA history," said a happy Bill Sharman Tuesday night after his Warriors disposed of the Hawks, four games to two, with fine outside shooting in every game of the Western Division semifinals.

"We truly didn't expect to be here," said Clyde Lee, who tipped in the Warriors' final basket after the Hawks had pulled to within 109-106.

The Warriors, plagued by injuries—the biggest to star Nate Thurmond—ended in third place in the regular season behind the Hawks and second-place Los Angeles.

Los Angeles, winner over Chicago in their semifinal series, entertains the Warriors Friday night in the first game of the Western Division final playoffs. The teams were 4-4 against each other during the season.

Boston and Philadelphia open their fight for the Eastern Division crown Friday night in Philadelphia.

Rudy LaRusso led the Warriors with 30 points, but it was Bobby Warlick who put the game away. He scored seven of his 20 points in the final four minutes. Jeff Mullins also collected 20.

San Francisco led 57-47 at halftime and stretched it to 73-57 early in the third quarter. Len Wilkens hit a field goal that brought the Hawks to 98-96 in the fourth period, but that was the closest they came.

"It was the biggest disappointment of my life," said Hawk Coach Richie Guerin, "after we played so well during the regular season."

He credited the Warriors' outside shooting as being the biggest factor, but Sharman said it was rebounding.

The Warriors were outrebounded 58-47 but in the two losses to the Hawks, were outrebounded by more than 20.

Lou Hudson led the Hawks with 35, followed by Wilkens with 29.

Draft Utah's Halimon By Philadelphia 76ers

NEW YORK (AP) — Shaler Halimon, 6-foot-5 star of Utah State, has been drafted by the Philadelphia 76ers, champions of the National Basketball Association.

This was disclosed today by a spokesman for the 76ers in advance of the formal announcement from NBA headquarters in New York.

A spokesman for the NBA said the official first-round draft choices by all teams would be announced late today.

Franklin Mieuli, owner of the San Francisco Warriors, said he would draft Ron Williams, 6-3 West Virginia star "if he's available."

Bob Kauffman, 6-8 Little All-American from Guilford, N.C. College, has been drafted and signed by the Seattle SuperSonics, the Seattle Times said.

Calls Press Conference

Don Richman, Seattle general manager, would neither confirm nor deny the report, but called a press conference for today.

With the exception of the San Diego Rockets, who signed Houston's All-American Elvin Hayes last week for an estimated $400,000, none of the other NBA clubs made known their first-round draft picks. The selections were made in a telephonic draft by Walter Kennedy, commissioner of the league.

There were unconfirmed reports that the Baltimore Bullets had chosen All-American Westley Unseld of Louisville and that the Boston Celtics had picked Don Chaney of Houston. The New York Knicks were understood to like Jo Jo White of Kansas.

Miller Inducted

Some of the leading collegiate stars likely to be drafted include All-American Larry Miller of North Carolina, Don May of Dayton, the Most Valuable Player in the recent National Invitation Tournament, Bill Hosket of Ohio State, Mike Lewis of Duke, Sam Williams of Iowa, and Tom Boerwinkle of Tennessee.

Among the small college players eligible are John Ray Goldfrey of Abilene Christian, Henry Logan of Western Carolina, Jerry McGreal of Illinois State, Larry Newbold of Long Island, Dallas Thornton of Kentucky Wesleyan and Otto Moore of Pan-American.

Meantime, it was announced the final divisional playoffs will start Friday night. In the Eastern Division it will be Boston at Philadelphia. In the West, it will be San Francisco at Los Angeles.

Record 17-Second KO For Buffalo Heavyweight

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Light heavyweight Jimmy Ralston scored what might be the quickest knockout in modern boxing history Tuesday night in flooring Herman (Scatterhawk) Dixon of Miami in 17 seconds.

Ralston of Buffalo was a kayo victim of Dixon in two rounds in Miami two years ago.

Dixon opened the first-round here in Memorial Auditorium with a short left lead then moved with his right. Ralston shot his left hook over Dixon's arm and crashed a solid punch on Dixon's jaw. And it was all over.

Dixon was on the canvas for five minutes but was fully recovered when he reached the dressing room. "I still don't know what happened," he said. "I don't even know what he hit me with."

The quickest knockout listed in the Ring Record Book was between Tom Dow and Ned Kieley in 1868 at Leavenworth, Kan. Dow was credited with winning in seven seconds. That could not have included a mandatory 8-count, however.

The quickest modern era knockout listed in the 1968 book was at Maestag, Wales, Sept. 2, 1957 when Teddy Barker of England stopped Bob Roberts of Nigeria in exactly 10 seconds.

Aero Lake, Pine Plains Post Wins, Make Finals

Aero Lake Airport, getting off to a late start for the second game in a row, quickly regrouped its forces and rolled to an easy 101-76 win over Guernsey's Realtors in the semi-finals of the Hudson Valley Basketball Tournament.

Aero Lake now enters the finals of the tourney Thursday against the Pine Plains Bombardiers, breeze winners over Felicello's Pipers, 109-77.

The tourney, sponsored by the Poughkeepsie YMCA, has the consolation game at 7:15 between Guernsey's and Felicello's, with the championship slated to begin at 8:30. Both will be held at the IBM Country Club.

Aero Lake fell behind, 12-2 in the opening minutes as Hank Brown and Joe Molinaro got hot quickly.

After a brief timeout, Aero Lake quickly reorganized and began to chip away at the lead. With Charlie Brown and Walt Ward, a newcomer to the Airmen's lineup, showing the way, Aero Lake moved out front, 24-22, at the close of the first period.

Romp in Second

Aero Lake turned the contest into a romp in the second period as Brown and Ward continued to pour it on. Ward wound up with 17 in the half and Brown 16. The score read Aero Lake 52, Guernsey's 35 at the halftime break.

The Airmen continued the domination in the second half, building the lead to 25 points, 75-50, at one point.

Guernsey's was hampered by serious foul trouble. The entire starting unit was out of the game before the 2:30 mark in the final period as 35 personals and a pair of technicals were called on the Realtors.

Ward wound up high for the game with 35. Charlie Brown was second high for A-L with 23 while Hank Brown of the Realtors equaled Charlie Brown's 23. Molinaro chipped in 18 for the losers.

In the nightcap, the Bombardiers lived up to their name, but only after a shaky first quarter. Felicello's, off to a quick start, opened a slim, 26-25, first quarter lead.

In the opening minutes of the second, Felicello's took a 28-25 edge, but the Bombardiers ripped off seven straight to make it, 32-28, and were never headed after that.

Laden with professional talent from the Eastern Basketball League, Pine Plains was up by four, 51-47 at intermission.

"Be / • ressive"

During the break, Larese instructed his 6-foot-8 center, Tom Hemans (EBL's Wilkes-Barre center) to be more aggressive on the boards.

Hemans responded and set up a continuous fast break that broke the game wide open in the third period. Hemans' passing downcourt to Bill Telasky and Roger Bleau gave the Bombardiers a quick jump and enabled them to outscore the Pipers, 30-9 in the third.

Telasky had 21 of his game total of 25 in the second half—with 18 coming on layups or short jumpers off the fast break.

Jim Fralev and Ralph Cook, Pipers who combined for 35 in the first half, were held to 14 between them in the second as the Bombardier's zone defense cut them off from the basketball.

Joe Uhl and Tony Citarella did not make an appearance for the Bombardiers. Neither showed up.

At Five Upstate Harness Tracks

Strike Threat Is Real-Greenberg

By MIKE HELFNER
(Freeman Sports Staff)

Leon Greenberg, administrative vice president of Monticello Raceway, finds himself in a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde role over the very real strike threat hanging over the upstate harness racing scene.

Greenberg, who is representing the raceway's interests—also finds himself in a position of having to help the horsemen, drivers and owners — to keep Monticello open.

Greenberg's race track is the only upstate plant not to have an enclosed grandstand or clubhouse. For some years, the management at Monticello has wanted to enclose the upper portion of the track, but was unable to come up with the necessary funds.

The track sought help from the state, but got nothing. Finally, the New York State Legislature passed into law a bill, with an effective date last Monday, that would allow Monticello, and other tracks, money for capital improvements.

Enclose Regardless

Some months ago, long before this bill was proposed, the Board of Directors at Monticello decided that they had to enclose the track, and were willing to go into debt to do it—with or without the state's help.

Now comes the bill that would save Monticello from going into debt—but the end result would close the track—enclosed grandstand and clubhouse or not.

The bill, as passed by the legislature and signed into law by Governor Rockefeller reads: that the amount of money deducted from each $1 wagered shall increase from 15 per cent to 16 per cent.

The additional per cent shall be divided. The state shall receive one-half the added revenue and the tracks shall retain the rest. Thoroughbred tracks must use this additional half per cent for increased purses. Harness racing tracks can do what they please.

$ for Improvements

Certainly Monticello would love to use the additional funds to build the enclosures, but if the money does not go for increased purses—as the case of the thoroughbred horsemen—then drivers and horsemen would boycott Monticello and all other tracks that could not make racing profitable or attractive.

The National Association of Harness Drivers, a relatively unknown group until now, has come to the fore and said that unless the bill is amended or changed . . . to where the harness drivers get the same increased purse guarantees as thoroughbred people, then they would boycott New York State tracks.

LEON GREENBERG

The Dual Position

So Greenberg finds himself in the position of wanting to use the money to add to the track—and at the same time—trying to satisfy horsemen's demands (of which he is in full agreement) in order to keep the track in operation.

Greenberg believes that unless the situation is remedied, Monticello and the four other upstate tracks will be boycotted by horse owners and drivers. "We are going to have a strike," he declared.

"I don't want to cut my own throat or the track's throat on this," he added ,"but my advice to these people, in order for them to get what they need to survive, is to strike," he said.

"I was at Sunday's meeting with the 500 or so assembled horsemen, drivers, breeders, etc., and I have never seen a group of people so irate. The state's 'blindness' in this matter has created a climate of distrust, dislike, and in general, disagreement and total dissatisfaction. These people, and they feel rightfully so, have been discriminated against," he declared once again.

All Against State

The NAHD, its counsel, famed attorney F. Lee Bailey, the breeding industry, Monticello and the other upstate race tracks and horsemen racing in New York, are siding against the state.

No group or individual wants a strike. They all want an amicable solution without having to go on a strike for satisfaction. Bailey and the NAHD is seeking legal action that will bring about an amendment to the bill. At the same time, Greenberg feels that once Governor Rockefeller is aprised of the situation, a solution will be forthcoming.

Greenberg, hoping to avert a strike said, "the problem stems from a few shortsighted legislators who would rather balance the budget than take into consideration the needs of its citizens. However, I feel that the only hope is if Governor Rockefeller could find the time to study the situation—looking at the bill in fairness to all—then there would be an immediate and quick remedy. Unfortunately, there are so many demands on his time, that he can't get to it immediately. I have confidence in him and his ability to see the inequity in this bill, and that when the facts are presented an end will come to this situation. Equity and fairness will prevail."

Greenberg made a major point with this statement: "In other states, the tracks and state work hand in hand, with the tracks supporting the state with revenue, and the states supporting the tracks and industry with an adequate return on investment in the way of improvements, better purses and better racing.

"In New York, it seems the reverse — or just one way — where the tracks support the state through revenue, but the states does nothing in return. The administration is using the industry primarily as a means of revenue for the state—at the same time disregarding the revenue for anyone else involved—be it tracks, horsemen or patrons."

NHL Announces Playoff Skeds

NEW YORK (AP) — A television problem solved, the National Hockey League has released its 1968 playoff schedule.

All four quarter-final series open Thursday night with Chicago at New York and Boston at Montreal in the East Division and St. Louis at Philadelphia and Minnesota at Los Angeles in the West.

Three of the series continue Saturday and the fourth—Chicago at New York—will pick up on Sunday with a national television audience looking on.

The TV-game had delayed a final decision on playoff dates. NHL teams have a home city blackout option on games shown nationally but the Columbia Broadcasting System, which airs the NHL Game of the Week, was hesitant at closing out the New York area and its high sales potential.

The Rangers, who had sold tickets for a closed circuit telecast of their two sold-out home games, finally agreed to waive the blackout, and Sunday's game will be shown locally. Tickets to the closed circuit telecast will be refunded.

After the first two games, all four series shift sites for the next two games and then rotate cities for the remaining games in the best-of-7 playoffs.

Those Eliminations 'Ridiculous' - - - Louis

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion, said Tuesday that the elimination tournament to determine a successor to dethroned champion Cassius Clay "is ridiculous."

The 53-year-old Brown Bomber, who rose from the slums of Detroit to win the heavyweight title, held his first news conference since undergoing surgery last Thursday. His gall bladder, containing five gall stones, and his appendix were removed.

Looking a bit weary but fit, Louis spoke from a wheelchair at the new $3 million Kirwood Hospital on Detroit's northwest side.

"As far as I'm concerned, Clay is still champion, at least until he goes to jail or retires," he said. "I think he made an awful mistake by not going into the Army. He threw away a brilliant career."

Clay was dethroned when a jury found him guilty of a draft dodging charge. Louis spent four years in the Army during World War II. Using his old boxing instinct, which enabled him to win 26 title fights, Louis ducked the question on whether he could have beaten Clay with both men in their prime.

"It would of been a good match," he said. "I don't know who would have won. I think Clay is good enough to fight anybody."

Turning to a proposed Negro boycott of the Olympics, Louis said it would be "a serious mistake if they decided not to represent America at the Olympic Games."

"Maybe they don't have equal opportunity in America, but they're gaining it every day," he added, saying: "And that's something you should realize. Things are improving.

"If they were going backwards, it would be different."

Celts, 76ers To Play Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — The Eastern Division final playoffs of the National Basketball Association between Philadelphia and Boston will begin Friday night in Philadelphia, instead of Sunday as previously announced.

The second game will be played Sunday afternoon in Boston and will be nationally televised. It was originally scheduled for Wednesday, April 10.

The league said Tuesday it had presumed that Boston Garden on Sunday was to be the scene of a National Hockey League playoff game.

The third game between the 76ers and the Celtics will be played in Philadelphia on April 10 and the fourth game in Boston Sunday afternoon, April 14.

The three final games, if necessary, have not yet been scehduled.

The 76ers beat New York and Boston eliminated Detroit in the divisional semifinals, each in six game series.

Loud Silence Means Track Feud Simmers

Bulletin

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Track and Field Federation and the NCAA have rejected the decision of the Sports Arbitration Board for settling the long dispute with the Amateur Athleic Union over control of major amateur sports.

This was announced today by Marcus Plant of the University of Michigan, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association's silence in advance of today's scheduled announcement of its response to a Senate-supported proposal of peace with the Amateur Athletic Union has spurred speculation the track war may continue.

The NCAA and its protege, the U.S. Track and Field Federation, called a news conference for late today without delivering any advance reply to Senate sponsors of the suggested track settlement.

The long and bitter track feud has given birth to fears the rivalry could peril tryouts for the U.S. Olympic team.

The Senate is virtually certain to be asked to step in and write a settlement into law if the NCAA spurns the compromise shaped by an arbitration panel two months ago.

The AAU already has accepted the recommendations. So has the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The NCAA president, Prof. Marcus L. Plant of the University of Michigan, and the USTFF head, the Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley of Los Altos, Calif., both criticized the panel's report when it was issued Feb. 1.

They were to conduct today's news conference.

The arbitration board, created by the Senate, said the AAU should sanction all international and open domestic track meets while the NCAA could conduct meets limited to fulltime students.

The board said the USTFF could sponsor open domestic meets if they were sanctioned by the AAU, and added the approval would be considered automatic if the competition met AAU requirements. Father Crowley said in February the USTFF would proceed without AAU approval.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, declared the provisions of the compromise tentatively in effect two weeks ago while waiting the NCAA-AAU reply, originally due Feb. 10.

Mr. Joseph, hairstylist for men, thanks all his friends and customers for their get-well wishes during his recent illness. (He returned to work Tuesday, April 2).

Aero Lake, Pine Plains Post Wins, Make Finals

Aero Lake Airport, getting off to a late start for the second game in a row, quickly regrouped its forces and rolled to an easy 101-76 win over Guernsey's Realtors in the semi-finals of the Hudson Valley Basketball Tournament.

Aero Lake now enters the finals of the tourney Thursday against the Pine Plains Bombardiers, breeze winners over Felicello's Pipers, 109-77.

The tourney, sponsored by the Poughkeepsie YMCA, has the consolation game at 7:15 between Guernsey's and Felicello's, with the championship slated to begin at 8:30. Both will be held at the IBM Country Club.

Aero Lake fell behind, 12-2 in the opening minutes as Hank Brown and Joe Molinaro got hot quickly.

After a brief timeout, Aero Lake quickly reorganized and began to chip away at the lead. With Charlie Brown and Walt Ward, a newcomer to the Airmen's lineup, showing the way, Aero Lake moved out front, 24-22, at the close of the first period.

Romp in Second

Aero Lake turned the contest into a romp in the second period as Brown and Ward continued to pour it on. Ward wound up with 17 in the half and Brown 16. The score read Aero Lake 52, Guernsey's 35 at the halftime break.

The Airmen continued the domination in the second half, building the lead to 25 points, 75-50, at one point.

Guernsey's was hampered by serious foul trouble. The entire starting unit was out of the game before the 2:30 mark in the final period as 35 personals and a pair of technicals were called on the Realtors.

Ward wound up high for the game with 35. Charlie Brown was second high for A-L with 23 while Hank Brown of the Realtors equaled Charlie Brown's 23. Molinaro chipped in 18 for the losers.

In the nightcap, the Bombardiers lived up to their name, but only after a shaky first quarter. Felicello's, off to a quick start, opened a slim, 26-25, first quarter lead.

In the opening minutes of the second, Felicello's took a 28-25 edge, but the Bombardiers ripped off seven straight to make it, 32-28, and were never headed after that.

Laden with professional talent from the Eastern Basketball League, Pine Plains was up by four, 51-47 at intermission.

"Be / e ressive"

During the break, Larese instructed his 6-foot-8 center, Tom Hemans (EBL's Wilkes-Barre center) to be more aggressive on the boards.

Hemans responded and set up a continuous fast break that broke the game wide open in the third period. Hemans' passing downcourt to Bill Telasky and Roger Bleau gave the Bombardiers a quick jump and enabled them to outscore the Pipers, 30-9 in the third.

Telasky had 21 of his game total of 25 in the second half—with 18 coming on layups or short jumpers off the fast break.

Jim Fraley and Ralph Cook, Pipers who combined for 35 in the first half, were held to 14 between them in the second as the Bombardier's zone defense cut them off from the basketball.

Joe Uhl and Tony Citarella did not make an appearance for the Bombardiers. Neither showed up.

At Five Upstate Harness Tracks

Strike Threat Is Real-Greenberg

By MIKE HELFNER
(Freeman Sports Staff)

Leon Greenberg, administrative vice president of Monticello Raceway, finds himself in a Dr. Jekyll-Mr. Hyde role over the very real strike threat hanging over the upstate harness racing scene.

Greenberg, who is representing the raceway's interests—also finds himself in a position of having to help the horsemen, drivers and owners — to keep Monticello open.

Greenberg's race track is the only upstate plant not to have an enclosed grandstand or clubhouse. For some years, the management at Monticello has wanted to enclose the upper portion of the track, but was unable to come up with the necessary funds.

The track sought help from the state, but got nothing. Finally, the New York State Legislature passed into law a bill, with an effective date last Monday, that would allow Monticello, and other tracks, money for capital improvements.

Enclose Regardless

Some months ago, long before this bill was proposed, the Board of Directors at Monticello decided that they had to enclose the track, and were willing to go into debt to do it—with or without the state's help.

Now comes the bill that would save Monticello from going into debt—but the end result would close the track—enclosed grandstand and clubhouse or not.

The bill, as passed by the legislature and signed into law by Governor Rockefeller reads: that the amount of money deducted from each $1 wagered shall increase from 15 per cent to 16 per cent.

The additional per cent shall be divided. The state shall receive one-half the added revenue and the tracks shall retain the rest. Thoroughbred tracks must use this additional half per cent for increased purses. Harness racing tracks can do what they please.

$ for Improvements

Certainly Monticello would love to use the additional funds to build the enclosures, but if the money does not go for increased purses—as the case of the thoroughbred horsemen—then drivers and horsemen would boycott Monticello and all other tracks that could not make racing profitable or attractive.

The National Association of Harness Drivers, a relatively unknown group until now, has come to the fore and said that unless the bill is amended or changed . . . to where the harness drivers get the same increased purse guarantees as thoroughbred people, then they would boycott New York State tracks.

LEON GREENBERG

The Dual Position

So Greenberg finds himself in the position of wanting to use the money to add to the track—and at the same time—trying to satisfy horsemen's demands (of which he is in full agreement) in order to keep the track in operation.

Greenberg believes that unless the situation is remedied, Monticello and the four other upstate tracks will be boycotted by horse owners and drivers. "We are going to have a strike," he declared.

"I don't want to cut my own throat or the track's throat on this," he added ,"but my advice to these people, in order for them to get what they need to survive, is to strike," he said.

"I was at Sunday's meeting with the 500 or so assembled horsemen, drivers, breeders, etc., and I have never seen a group of people so irate. The state's 'blindness' in this matter has created a climate of distrust, dislike, and in general, disagreement and total dissatisfaction. These people, and they feel rightfully so, have been discriminated against," he declared once again.

All Against State

The NAHD, its counsel, famed attorney F. Lee Bailey, the breeding industry, Monticello and the other upstate race tracks and horsemen racing in New York, are siding against the state.

No group or individual wants a strike. They all want an amicable solution without having to go on a strike for satisfaction. Bailey and the NAHD is seeking legal action that will bring about an amendment to the bill. At the same time, Greenberg feels that once Governor Rockefeller is aprised of the situation, a solution will be forthcoming.

Greenberg, hoping to avert a strike said, "the problem stems from a few shortsighted legislators who would rather balance the budget than take into consideration the needs of its citizens. However, I feel that the only hope is if Governor Rockefeller could find the time to study the situation—looking at the bill in fairness to all—then there would be an immediate and quick remedy. Unfortunately, there are so many demands on his time, that he can't get to it immediately. I have confidence in him and his ability to see the inequity in this bill, and that when the facts are presented an end will come to this situation. Equity and fairness will prevail."

Greenberg made a major point with this statement: "In other states, the tracks and state work hand in hand, with the tracks supporting the state with revenue, and the states supporting the tracks and industry with an adequate return on investment in the way of improvements, better purses and better racing.

"In New York, it seems the reverse — or just one way — where the tracks support the state through revenue, but the states does nothing in return. The administration is using the industry primarily as a means of revenue for the state—at the same time disregarding the revenue for anyone else involved—be it tracks, horsemen or patrons."

NHL Announces Playoff Skeds

NEW YORK (AP) — A television problem solved, the National Hockey League has released its 1968 playoff schedule.

All four quarter-final series open Thursday night with Chicago at New York and Boston at Montreal in the East Division and St. Louis at Philadelphia and Minnesota at Los Angeles in the West.

Three of the series continue Saturday and the fourth—Chicago at New York—will pick up on Sunday with a national television audience looking on.

The TV-game had delayed a final decision on playoff dates. NHL teams have a home city blackout option on games shown nationally but the Columbia Broadcasting System, which airs the NHL Game of the Week, was hesitant at closing out the New York area and its high sales potential.

The Rangers, who had sold tickets for a closed circuit telecast of their two sold-out home games, finally agreed to waive the blackout, and Sunday's game will be shown locally. Tickets to the closed circuit telecast will be refunded.

After the first two games, all four series shift sites for the next two games and then rotate cities for the remaining games in the best-of-7 playoffs.

LOUIS LOSES TWO — Former world heavyweight champion Joe Louis, 52, gives a victory sign as he is wheeled to a news conference in Detroit's Kirkwood General Hospital following removal of a gall bladder and appendix. Louis held the boxing title from 1937 to 1949 (UPI TELEPHOTO).

Those Eliminations 'Ridiculous' - - - Louis

DETROIT (AP) — Joe Louis, former world heavyweight boxing champion, said Tuesday that the elimination tournament to determine a successor to dethroned champion Cassius Clay "is ridiculous."

The 53-year-old Brown Bomber, who rose from the slums of Detroit to win the heavyweight title, held his first news conference since undergoing surgery last Thursday. His gall bladder, containing five gall stones, and his appendix were removed.

Looking a bit weary but fit, Louis spoke from a wheelchair at the new $3 million Kirwood Hospital on Detroit's northwest side.

"As far as I'm concerned, Clay is still champion, at least until he goes to jail or retires," he said. "I think he made an awful mistake by not going into the Army. He threw away a brilliant career."

Clay was dethroned when a jury found him guilty of a draft dodging charge. Louis spent four years in the Army during World War II. Using his old boxing instinct, which enabled him to win 26 title fights, Louis ducked the question on whether he could have beaten Clay with both men in their prime.

"It would of been a good match," he said. "I don't know who would have won. I think Clay is good enough to fight anybody."

Turning to a proposed Negro boycott of the Olympics, Louis said it would be "a serious mistake if they decided not to represent America at the Olympic Games."

"Maybe they don't have equal opportunity in America, but they're gaining it every day," he added, saying: "And that's something you should realize. Things are improving.

"If they were going backwards, it would be different."

Celts, 76ers To Play Friday

NEW YORK (AP) — The Eastern Division final playoffs of the National Basketball Association between Philadelphia and Boston will begin Friday night in Philadelphia, instead of Sunday as previously announced.

The second game will be played Sunday afternoon in Boston and will be nationally televised. It was originally scheduled for Wednesday, April 10.

The league said Tuesday it had presumed that Boston Garden on Sunday was to be the scene of a National Hockey League playoff game.

The third game between the 76ers and the Celtics will be played in Philadelphia on April 10 and the fourth game in Boston Sunday afternoon, April 14.

The three final games, if necessary, have not yet been scehduled.

The 76ers beat New York and Boston eliminated Detroit in the divisional semifinals, each in six game series.

Loud Silence Means Track Feud Simmers

Bulletin

NEW YORK (AP) — The United States Track and Field Federation and the NCAA have rejected the decision of the Sports Arbitration Board for settling the long dispute with the Amateur Athleic Union over control of major amateur sports.

This was announced today by Marcus Plant of the University of Michigan, president of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collegiate Athletic Association's silence in advance of today's scheduled announcement of its response to a Senate-supported proposal of peace with the Amateur Athletic Union has spurred speculation the track war may continue.

The NCAA and its protege, the U.S. Track and Field Federation, called a news conference for late today without delivering any advance reply to Senate sponsors of the suggested track settlement.

The long and bitter track feud has given birth to fears the rivalry could peril tryouts for the U.S. Olympic team.

The Senate is virtually certain to be asked to step in and write a settlement into law if the NCAA spurns the compromise shaped by an arbitration panel two months ago.

The AAU already has accepted the recommendations. So has the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics.

The NCAA president, Prof. Marcus L. Plant of the University of Michigan, and the USTFF head, the Rev. Wilfred H. Crowley of Los Altos, Calif., both criticized the panel's report when it was issued Feb. 1.

They were to conduct today's news conference.

The arbitration board, created by the Senate, said the AAU should sanction all international and open domestic track meets while the NCAA could conduct meets limited to fulltime students.

The board said the USTFF could sponsor open domestic meets if they were sanctioned by the AAU, and added the approval would be considered automatic if the competition met AAU requirements. Father Crowley said in February the USTFF would proceed without AAU approval.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., chairman of the Senate Commerce Committee, declared the provisions of the compromise tentatively in effect two weeks ago while waiting the NCAA-AAU reply, originally due Feb. 10.

"Fourteen Points"

Woodrow Wilson, in addressing Congress in 1918, named 14 principles as essential to peace. These proposals became famous as the "Fourteen Points."

Elvis Doubts Image Shift, 'Just Have to Mature Some'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is Elvis Presley asking for more criticism?

When the Memphis rock 'n' roll pioneer burst upon the scene 12 years ago, girls shrieked and swooned—and some editorials and sermons denounced his hip gyrations as "lewd and obscene." Cameramen were told to focus above his waist.

Presley explained: "When I sing, I just start jumping."

But that image of a swinging "Elvis the Pelvis" gradually faded into one of a clean-cut, clean-living youth. Helping the transition were Army service, religious recordings including his million-seller album "How Great Thou Art" and, perhaps paradoxically, his movies.

Never a Dirty Film

Says a Presley director: "He has never made a dirty picture." An MGM spokesman has said: "They never go to bed in a Presley picture."

But now, in his two latest films, they DO go to bed.

In "Stay Away, Joe," dialogue implies that Joan Blondell, 58, has been the-older-woman-in-his-life. She breaks up an on-the-bed romp—clothed—involving Elvis and pretty teenager Quentin Dean.

In "Live a Little, Love a Little," now being filmed, he has several "dammits" and a "how-the-hell" or two in his dialogue. He arises from a bed recently shared, the plot makes clear, with shapely Michele Carey.

Isn't all this inviting new blasts from the Far Righteous?

Elvis chuckled. "I dunno," he said. "I was wondeirng about that, too." Still he claimed: "I don't think I'm changing my image. I think you have to mature a little bit."

The studio production department forbids long interviews with the millionaire singer-actor because he's in 90 per cent of the scenes. From associates you seek clues to the continuing popularity that has brought phonograph-records sales of more than 100 million copies and stardom in, to date, 28 movies.

Norman Taurog, directing his ninth Presley film: "Elvis has matured. His outlook on life has changed. He enjoys his work, reads quite a bit and analyzes a script better than ever."

Producer Doug Laurence: "I don't know where this boy's capabilities end."

Very Sweet: Michele

Costar Michele Carey: "He's very sweet."

Presley emerges from his big trailer dressing-room. He's 33, tall, with moody face, polite manners, soft voice and a thick thatch of shiny black hair that erupts backward with no part. He wears a red turtleneck sweater, tight, cream-colored pants and black boots, smokes a thin cigar and carries a bottle of soft drink.

And what does the onetime truck driver himself think his appeal is?

"It beats me," says Elvis. "I've had a lot of loyal fans."

His records still sell well? "Yes, sir. I'm not exactly on top of the list, but I've been lucky." He "sirs" everybody and still calls his director "Mr. Taurog."

He'll "probably" return home to Memphis for about a month between this movie and his next. His wife Priscilla and 3-month-old daughter Lisa Marie are "fine."

Celestial Objects

Signals From Far Out

By FRANK CAREY

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — A government space scientist says it's remotely possible newly detected mysterious signals from outer space may represent "galactic navigational beacons" being employed by an advanced civilization to guide their manned spaceships along the Milky Way.

Another admittedly far-out possibility, says Dr. Kenneth Kellermann, is that the radio wave signals may represent communications signals between four inhabited planets, as well as attempts by each to contact still other planets such as the earth.

'Pulsars' Discussed

Kellermann, of the government's National Radio Astronomy Observatory at Green Bank, W.Va., described the concepts in an interview Tuesday while attending a meeting of the American Astronomical Society at the University of Virginia.

He did so after first declaring that while it's much more likely the strange radio signals are coming from uninhabited starlike objects, the alternative possibility that they may represent signals from intelligent beings has not yet been definitely ruled out.

The discussion concerned recently discovered "pulsars" — four celestial objects of some kind that have been detected by pulsating radio waves they are emitting.

British radio astronomers discovered them last summer but didn't report their findings to the scientific world until late in February. Since then, American scientists have also detected them.

Declaring the discovery has astounded astronomers throughout the world, Kellermann said most radio astronomers in the United States and abroad—including himself—believe the signals are probably coming from "neutron states."

The latter are previously postulated celestial objects presumed to be a form of wreckage from supernovae or exploding stars.

Some other scientists, he indicated, believe the signals may be coming from other types of dying stars known as "white dwarfs."

"But," he added, "it's probably fair to say that all of these scientists continue to think, in their own minds, of the possibility, however remote, that these signals may be artificial ones produced as a means of communication by some advanced civilization . . ."

In this connection, Kellermann disclosed tentative plans for a government-sponsored, unique doubleheader radio telescope experiment aimed at trying to help pinpoint more definitely the nature of the strange pulsating objects.

He stressed that the experiment is not expressly designed to answer the question whether an advanced civilization might be involved. But he said the results might have a bearing on the question.

Clothing Disclosure

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — Clothes may make the man, but they also make the woman—spend even more.

Of the $42.8 billion spent on wearing apparel last year, American women shelled out $24.4 billion, 40 per cent more than they spent in 1963, according to a survey by the Scovill Manufacturing Co.

The woman, age 18 to 24, living in an urban area, spent an average of $353 to clothe herself in 1967. Her older sister, age 25 to 64 spent only about $290. After 65, women apparently close down on clothes, for those in this age bracket spent 60 per cent less than the 18 to 24 year olds last year.

Perfect Gothic Cottage at Rhinebeck

The regular monthly meeting of the Rhinebeck Historical Society was held recently at Morton Memorial Library, Rhinecliff, with Mrs. Peter H. Troy presiding.

Sidney Griffin reported on the Junior Society and its activities and Robert Jones reported on the Junior Society American Flags, with or without pole sets.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. Arlene Bondas, public information officer on the staff of the Dutchess County Planning Department, showed slides selected by the County Planning Department in its recent survey which was conducted to find the most significant historical and architectural landmarks surviving in the county.

It was learned that the most perfect Gothic cottage in the United States—built in 1844, and of which world-renowned A. J. Davis was the architect—is located in the Village of Rhinebeck.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Strong, the present owners of the cottage, presented the Historical Society with a leatherbound book which was found on the property and which contains a list of taxes of 1870-1872, for the Union Free School District 5, including disbursements.

Mrs. Troy expressed the appreciation of the Historical Society for the gift and noted the society is anxious to accumulate material of this nature.

"Fourteen Points"

Woodrow Wilson, in addressing Congress in 1918, named 14 principles as essential to peace. These proposals became famous as the "Fourteen Points."

Elvis Doubts Image Shift, 'Just Have to Mature Some'

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Is Elvis Presley asking for more criticism?

When the Memphis rock 'n' roll pioneer burst upon the scene 12 years ago, girls shrieked and swooned—and some editorials and sermons denounced his hip gyrations as "lewd and obscene." Cameramen were told to focus above his waist.

Presley explained: "When I sing, I just start jumping."

But that image of a swinging "Elvis the Pelvis" gradually faded into one of a clean-cut, clean-living youth. Helping the transition were Army service, religious recordings including his million-seller album "How Great Thou Art" and, perhaps paradoxically, his movies.

Never a Dirty Film

Says a Presley director: "He has never made a dirty picture." An MGM spokesman has said: "They never go to bed in a Presley picture."

But now, in his two latest films, they DO go to bed.

In "Stay Away, Joe," dialogue implies that Joan Blondell, 58, has been the-older-woman-in-his-life. She breaks up an on-the-bed romp—clothed—involving Elvis and pretty teenager Quentin Dean.

In "Live a Little, Love a Little," now being filmed, he has several "dammits" and a "how-the-hell" or two in his dialogue. He arises from a bed recently shared, the plot makes clear, with shapely Michele Carey.

Isn't all this inviting new blasts from the Far Righteous?

Elvis chuckled. "I dunno," he said. "I was wondeirng about that, too." Still he claimed: "I don't think I'm changing my image. I think you have to mature a little bit."

The studio production department forbids long interviews with the millionaire singer-actor because he's in 90 per cent of the scenes. From associates you seek clues to the continuing popularity that has brought phonograph-records sales of more than 100 million copies and stardom in, to date, 28 movies.

Norman Taurog, directing his ninth Presley film: "Elvis has matured. His outlook on life has changed. He enjoys his work, reads quite a bit and analyzes a script better than ever."

Producer Doug Laurence: "I don't know where this boy's capabilities end."

Very Sweet: Michele

Costar Michele Carey: "He's very sweet."

Presley emerges from his big trailer dressing-room. He's 33, tall, with moody face, polite manners, soft voice and a thick thatch of shiny black hair that erupts backward with no part. He wears a red turtleneck sweater, tight, cream-colored pants and black boots, smokes a thin cigar and carries a bottle of soft drink.

And what does the onetime truck driver himself think his appeal is?

"It beats me," says Elvis. "I've had a lot of loyal fans."

His records still sell well? "Yes, sir, I'm not exactly on top of the list, but I've been lucky." He "sirs" everybody and still calls his director "Mr. Taurog."

He'll "probably" return home to Memphis for about a month between this movie and his next. His wife Priscilla and 3-month-old daughter Lisa Marie are "fine."

Celestial Objects

Signals From Far Out

By FRANK CAREY

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — A government space scientist says it's remotely possible newly detected mysterious signals from outer space may represent "galactic navigational beacons" being employed by an advanced civilization to guide their manned spaceships along the Milky Way.

Another admittedly far-out possibility, says Dr. Kenneth Kellermann, is that the radio wave signals may represent communications signals between four inhabited planets, as well as attempts by each to contact still other planets such as the earth.

'Pulsars' Discussed

Kellermann, of the government's National Radio Astronomy Observatory at Green Bank, W.Va., described the concepts in an interview Tuesday while attending a meeting of the American Astronomical Society at the University of Virginia.

He did so after first declaring that while it's much more likely the strange radio signals are coming from uninhabited star-like objects, the alternative possibility that they may represent signals from intelligent beings has not yet been definitely ruled out.

The discussion concerned recently discovered "pulsars" — four celestial objects of some kind that have been detected by pulsating radio waves they are emitting.

British radio astronomers discovered them last summer but didn't report their findings to the scientific world until late in February. Since then, American scientists have also detected them.

Declaring the discovery has astounded astronomers throughout the world, Kellermann said most radio astronomers in the United States and abroad—including himself—believe the signals are probably coming from "neutron states."

The latter are previously postulated celestial objects presumed to be a form of wreckage from supernovae or exploding stars.

Some other scientists, he indicated, believe the signals may be coming from other types of dying stars known as "white dwarfs."

"But," he added, "it's probably fair to say that all of these scientists continue to think, in their own minds, of the possibility, however remote, that these signals may be artificial ones produced as a means of communication by some advanced civilization . . ."

In this connection, Kellermann disclosed tentative plans for a government-sponsored, unique doubleheader radio telescope experiment aimed at trying to help pinpoint more definitely the nature of the strange pulsating objects.

He stressed that the experiment is not expressly designed to answer the question whether an advanced civilization might be involved. But he said the results might have a bearing on the question.

Clothing Disclosure

WATERBURY, Conn. (AP) — Clothes may make the man, but they also make the woman—spend even more.

Of the $42.8 billion spent on wearing apparel last year, American women shelled out $24.4 billion, 40 per cent more than they spent in 1963, according to a survey by the Scovill Manufacturing Co.

The woman, age 18 to 24, living in an urban area, spent an average of $353 to clothe herself in 1967. Her older sister, age 25 to 64 spent only about $290. After 65, women apparently close down on clothes, for those in this age bracket spent 60 per cent less than the 18 to 24 year olds last year.

Perfect Gothic Cottage at Rhinebeck

The regular monthly meeting of the Rhinebeck Historical Society was held recently at Morton Memorial Library, Rhinecliff, with Mrs. Peter H. Troy presiding.

Sidney Griffin reported on the Junior Society and its activities and Robert Jones reported on the Junior Society American Flags, with or without pole sets.

At the conclusion of the business meeting, Mrs. Arlene Bondas, public information officer on the staff of the Dutchess County Planning Department, showed slides selected by the County Planning Department in its recent survey which was conducted to find the most significant historical and architectural landmarks surviving in the county.

It was learned that the most perfect Gothic cottage in the United States—built in 1844, and of which world-renowned A. J. Davis was the architect—is located in the Village of Rhinebeck.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Strong, the present owners of the cottage, presented the Historical Society with a leatherbound book which was found on the property and which contains a list of taxes of 1870-1872, for the Union Free School District 5, including disbursements.

Mrs. Troy expressed the appreciation of the Historical Society for the gift and noted the society is anxious to accumulate material of this nature.

Dear Abby

Loneliness Can Be Cured

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is dead, and I am all alone in the world. Loneliness is like a cancer, only it's worse. It doesn't kill you, it just gnaws at the mind until concentration and constructive thinking are permanenly crippled.

When my husband was living, we visited lonely people and often took them for rides, to the movies, and out for a meal. But now that I am alone, no one visits me. And no one ever offers to take me anywhere. Married people don't care. They have each other. Sundays are torture. They're endless.

I am treated worse than a criminal. Perhaps if I were a criminal, some saintly person from a church group would call on me and try to save my "soul."

I attend church, but the church has paid no attention to me in my loneliness. I am not rich, neither am I poor. I am not beautiful, nor am I ugly. I'm too old to work steady at a job, and I'm too young to die.

I know there is no solution to my loneliness, but perhaps it will help to write it down. Thank you.

LONELY IN ATLANTA

DEAR LONELY: Your letter reveals an intelligent, sensitive woman, plagued by self-pity and preoccupied with her "loneliness." If you are able to walk, talk, hear and see, and are not dependent upon charity, you are better off than some.

A sure cure for the blues is to find someone less fortunate than yourself, and do something for that person. (You Won't have to look far.) There are lonely people to visit, blind folks to read to and write for. The only way to "get" is by giving. Try it, and if you are still inclined to agonize over your solitude, the pain could be self-inflicted.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: There is a handsome new teller at the bank where I deposit the company checks, and he has me so flustered I hardly know what I'm doing.

This morning after I made my deposit, he touched my hand when he gave me my receipt, and I nearly fainted. He has the most beautiful smile, Abby, and he seems to light up when he sees me coming. One of the girls who works at the bank said he asked her if I was engaged or going with somebody, so he must be interested in me. How can I let him know I would like to know him better without being too forward?

DEPOSITOR

DEAR DEPOSITOR: Just keep making those deposits, and watch the interest grow.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: It was with a great deal of interest that I read the letter in your column from the teen-aged girl who bemoaned the age-old tradition that gives the male the privilege of asking the girl for a date instead of vice versa.

As a high school teacher for the last 19 years I have had an opportunity to observe the situation from close range. I have taken polls and discovered that approximately 10 per cent of my girl students know that it is the GIRL'S place to speak to the boy first. Boys tell me tha 99 out of 100 girls will walk past them in the halls without so much as a "hi." No boy would consider the girl "forward" were she to speak first. The girl who is friendly enough to say "hi" first is usually the one who comes to mind when he wants a date for that special occasion.

CONFIDENTIAL TO J. L.: Keep quiet. No man wants an honest opinion of a horse after he's bought it.

Everybody has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply write to Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal., 90069 and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

HATE TO WRITE LETTERS? SEND $1 TO ABBY, BOX 69700, LOS ANGELES, CAL., 90069, FOR ABBY'S BOOKLET, "HOW TO WRITE LETTERS FOR ALL OCCASIONS."

Horoscope — By SYDNEY OMARR

It's In The Stars —

("The wise man controls his destiny . . . astrology points the way.")

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 4, 1968

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Adjustment at home, attention to security and property matters cantinue in spotlight focus on long rather than short-range projects. Key is balance, patience and maturity.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Deal with neighbors. Put across ideas in charming manner. Sense of humor gains more than heavyhanded methods. Realize this and take advantage of it. Word to wise should be sufficient.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Power and authority appear to be on your side. Key is to know it — act as if you are aware. Means display confidence. Then you gain in material fashion; you make money.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Your appeal is wide—your influence spreads to various areas. Cycle continues high. Push forward. Make new contacts. Take initiative. Be independent. Highlight Originality.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Accent on what happens behind your back. If you are forthright, allies are attracted. If fearful, there is exodus from your position, point of view. Act accordingly. Throw off any fear.

Kings Squeezed Automatically

By Oswald and James Jacoby

If you think our bidding department has suddenly gone crazy, the answer is that North's four-club bid and South's four-diamond reply show the Gerber convention in operation.

In the Gerber convention, four clubs asks for aces in the same general manner that Blackwood does. It is used by many players in direct response to a no-trump opening so that four no-trump may be used as a nonforcing slam invitation.

South's four-diamond call showed no aces or four aces, and it wasn't any bother for North to tell which it was. North could now count 12 tricks. He could have bid five clubs to ask for kings, but there was no reason to do so. They were playing standard no-trump openings and, since that limited South to an absolute maximum of 18 high-card points, he could not have four aces plus a king. Therefore, North settled for six no-trump and sat back happily to watch his partner play the pianola.

South was an expert in a hurry. He counted quickly to 12 and might well have just spread his hand and claimed six but, hurry or no hurry, South was an expert and all experts bear in mind that a no-trump overtrick is 30 points and that those 30 points add up if you get them continually.

Therefore, South did show his hand but he announced, "Seven if the squeeze develops; otherwise I'll just take six."

West was also an expert in a hurry. He looked at South's hand and said, "Seven."

If you don't see how South makes seven, you should be able to see it. It is an automatic squeeze that South must fall into if he runs off his club and diamond tricks. South will come down to ace-jack of hearts while North will hold the jack of spades and five of hearts and West won't be able to protect both suits. Of course, West could have opened the king of hearts and broken this squeeze, but West wasn't clairvoyant.

Dear Abby

Loneliness Can Be Cured

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
(© 1968 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.)

DEAR ABBY: My husband is dead, and I am all alone in the world. Loneliness is like a cancer, only it's worse. It doesn't kill you, it just gnaws at the mind until concentration and constructive thinking are permanenly crippled.

When my husband was living, we visited lonely people and often took them for rides, to the movies, and out for a meal. But now that I am alone, no one visits me. And no one ever offers to take me anywhere. Married people don't care. They have each other. Sundays are torture. They're endless.

I am treated worse than a criminal. Perhaps if I were a criminal, some saintly person from a church group would call on me and try to save my "soul."

I attend church, but the church has paid no attention to me in my loneliness. I am not rich, neither am I poor. I am not beautiful, nor am I ugly. I'm too old to work steady at a job, and I'm too young to die.

I know there is no solution to my loneliness, but perhaps it will help to write it down. Thank you.

LONELY IN ATLANTA

DEAR LONELY: Your letter reveals an intelligent, sensitive woman, plagued by self-pity and preoccupied with her "loneliness." If you are able to walk, talk, hear and see, and are not dependent upon charity, you are better off than some.

A sure cure for the blues is to find someone less fortunate than yourself, and do something for that person. (You Won't have to look far.) There are lonely people to visit, blind folks to read to and write for. The only way to "get" is by giving. Try it, and if you are still inclined to agonize over your solitude, the pain could be self-inflicted.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: There is a handsome new teller at the bank where I deposit the company checks, and he has me so flustered I hardly know what I'm doing.

This morning after I made my deposit, he touched my hand when he gave me my receipt, and I nearly fainted. He has the most beautiful smile, Abby, and he seems to light up when he sees me coming. One of the girls who works at the bank said he asked her if I was engaged or going with somebody, so he must be interested in me. How can I let him know I would like to know him better without being too forward?

DEPOSITOR

DEAR DEPOSITOR: Just keep making those deposits, and watch the interest grow.

• • •

DEAR ABBY: It was with a great deal of interest that I read the letter in your column from the teen-aged girl who bemoaned the age-old tradition that gives the male the privilege of asking the girl for a date instead of vice versa.

As a high school teacher for the last 19 years I have had an opportunity to observe the situation from close range. I have taken polls and discovered that approximately 10 per cent of my girl students know that it is the GIRL'S place to speak to the boy first. Boys tell me tha 99 out of 100 girls will walk past them in the halls without so much as a "hi." No boy would consider the girl "forward" were she to speak first. The girl who is friendly enough to say "hi" first is usually the one who comes to mind when he wants a date for that special occasion.

Petula's Special a Dandy

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Petula Clark, an English singer, may have been launched with "Downtown," her first big hit record in America, but in the course of a few years she has moved uptown fast.

Sleek and Bright

Her first television special on NBC Tuesday night was a sleek, bright production, an hour that wasted little time on inane between-numbers chatter and concenrated on music, especially songs that ranged in mood from gay to pensive. The show was filled with visual excitement—swirls of color, imaginative sets and costumes.

Miss Clark, in a series of eye-catching dresses from mini length to ballgown, moved with easy grace and informality through it all. She is an attractive performer.

Harry Belafonte contributed a number of songs in his usual dramatic, impeccable style. He appeared, incidentally, for the first time it seems, in a turtle-neck sweater instead of his trademark, an open-throated shirt.

An incident during the taping of the show, when Miss Clark touched Belafonte's arm, had caused a controversy between Belafonte and an employe of the sponsor who wanted the scene edited out. The gesture was so casual on TV that it would have gone unnoticed by most viewers except for the controversy.

It was, generally, a happy, tuneful and very pleasant hour.

Later CBS had the somewhat dubious distinction of being first to start reporting on the Wisconsin presidenial preference vote. It was too early since when the program started only 6 per cent of the votes were counted.

The primary had lost some of its excitement and gained in confusion after the withdrawal of Lyndon B. Johnson Sunday from the 1968 presidential race. Walter Cronkite did his best with a mass of statistics, projections and interpretation. The outcome was never in doubt. It had been a foregone conclusion that Democrat Eugene J. McCarthy and Republican Richard M. Nixon would win the greatest number of votes. The job was to analyze the size of the totals of the winners and the also-rans.

Analyst Eric Sevareid made the most frank observation of the half hour: "I'm not sure what is coming out of this (vote) except a television program."

RFK: Little to Say

There was an awkward, pause-filled interview with Sen. Robert F. Kennedy who had little to say. There was a recorded session with Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey who managed with good humor if without his usual grace, to avoid answering direct questions about his future plans.

When CBS planned the prime-time program the Wisconsin primary loomed as a more important test of strength than it turned out to be.

ABC and NBC, coming along 90 minues later when almost half the votes were counted, handled things in just about the same fashion.

The Peace Drive--Bonanza for Hanoi?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's new Vietnam peace offensive is badly entangled in a row over credibility that some officials predict may provide a propaganda bonanza for North Vietnam.

Administration officials concede Hanoi could make propaganda profit out of the disclosure that the portion of North Vietnam left open to air attack under Johnson's partial bombing ban is actually much bigger than it appeared to be in the President's Sunday night announcement.

Fulbright: Misled

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee charged he was "misled as to the significance" of Johnson's announcement and added:

"The stopping of the bombing is of no consequence and certainly not an inducement for the North to come to the conference table."

Boh Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, were critical of the bombing-area policy.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, defending the administration with fainter blame, pinned responsibility for any misunderstanding on the State Department. He said he knew first-hand that Johnson wanted to define the exact line beween the bomb-free area and the continuing attack area of North Vietnam.

"He was dissuaded by his diplomatic colleagues," Mansfield told the Senate, "presumably the State Department."

Mansfield did no say whether he considered Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Johnson's top diplomatic adviser, assistant secretary William P. Bundy, who handles Far East affairs, or some other official to have responsibility for the insistence on secrecy.

In his dramatic address to the nation Sunday night, Johnson said he had ordered air and naval attacks on North Vietnam stopped "except in the area north of the Demilitarized Zone where the continuing enemy build-up directly threatens allied forward positions and where movements of troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

The President also said "the area in which we are stopping our attacks includes almost 90 per cent of North Vietnam's population, and most of its territory."

The wording used by the President created the widespread impression that he was talking about bombing within a range of 40 or 50 miles north of the DMZ separating North and South Vietnam. There are heavy troop concentrations and considerable military activity on both sides of that area.

Dispaches from Saigon Tuesday disclosed American bombers operating under the new policy had carried out heavier than ordinary raids throughout the so-called North Vietnam panhandle and had particularly struck at Thanh Hoa, 210 miles north of the DMZ and just a few miles below the 20th parallel.

Some hours later the Defense Department finally confirmed that the bombing limit set by the President's order was indeed the 20th parallel. In an evident effort to soften the impact of his official word, the Defense Department claimed that 90 per cent of the attacks since the new policy went into effect Sunday night Washington time had been limited to within 60 miles of the DMZ.

Some State Department officials argued privaely that the 200-plus mile range of continued bombing along the narrow strip of North Vietnam's southern projection would not have any effect on the North Vienamese government's reaction to President Johnson's call for a favorable reply and a responsive move to scale down the war.

Fulbright disagreed sharply with this view, as anonymously expressed around the State Department.

"This is not going to be a significant inducement to bring about a ceasefire and conference," he said in his Senate speech.

"Most people in this country had a different impression of the size of the no-bombing area Sunday night."

Fulbright said he had called the President Sunday night to congratulate him on his bombing limitation and a call for peace talks, but added, "I was mistaken."

Mansfield said he spent three hours with President Johnson last Wednesday—while the policy decisions and formulation of the speech were underway. He said Johnson informed him that he would propose cessation of the bombing above the 20th parallel but continue bombing south of that line to protect U. S. forces along the DMZ and to try to block Communist supply trails into South Vietnam.

"He wanted to put in the 20th parallel," Mansfield told the Senate, referring to the President's speech. He then added he felt the State Department talked Johnson out of being so specific.

The diplomats' concern, Mansfield said, was that public establishment of a line would mean the exact identification of the area of North Vietnam safe from bombing. He said the diplomats thought it unwise to set up a sanctuary in that way.

Key Talk By HHH Thursday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO convention has been told to gather a large audience for an "important address" by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on Thursday.

The official--Mike Johnson, head of the 1.5-million member group's political action committee--said he was given no indication of what Humphrey would say.

In answer to questions by reporters, Johnson said, "We get the word from the White House that he's going to make an important address."

If Humphrey decided to run for the presidency, the state's AFL-CIO convention would be an excellent forum.

About 2,000 delegates are attending and today they passed a resolution asking President Johnson to reconsider his decision not to seek re-election.

"We believe the Johnson-Humphrey teamwork is, in the final analysis, the best hope for America and the world," the resolution said.

The Peace Drive--Bonanza for Hanoi?

UNVEILING — Officials (top photo) unveil new abstract figure grouping "Homage to the Pioneer" at Zeckendorf Park in Denver, Colo., Tuesday. The abstract was done by Denver artist Mrs. Susan Pogzeba and cost $25,000 to cast in bronze. (Bottom) Three women frown as the view the art work. (UPI TELEPHOTO).

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's new Vietnam peace offensive is badly entangled in a row over credibility that some officials predict may provide a propaganda bonanza for North Vietnam.

Administration officials concede Hanoi could make propaganda profit out of the disclosure that the portion of North Vietnam left open to air attack under Johnson's partial bombing ban is actually much bigger than it appeared to be in the President's Sunday night announcement.

Fulbright: Misled

Chairman J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee charged he was "misled as to the significance" of Johnson's announcement and added:

"The stopping of the bombing is of no consequence and certainly not an inducement for the North to come to the conference table."

Boh Sens. Robert F. Kennedy and Eugene J. McCarthy, candidates for the Democratic presidential nomination, were critical of the bombing-area policy.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, defending the administration with fainter blame, pinned responsibility for any misunderstanding on the State Department. He said he knew first-hand that Johnson wanted to define the exact line beween the bomb-free area and the continuing attack area of North Vietnam.

"He was dissuaded by his diplomatic colleagues," Mansfield told the Senate, "presumably the State Department."

Mansfield did no say whether he considered Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Johnson's top diplomatic adviser, assistant secretary William P. Bundy, who handles Far East affairs, or some other official to have responsibility for the insistence on secrecy.

In his dramatic address to the nation Sunday night, Johnson said he had ordered air and naval attacks on North Vietnam stopped "except in the area north of the Demilitarized Zone where the continuing enemy build-up directly threatens allied forward positions and where movements of troops and supplies are clearly related to that threat."

The President also said "the area in which we are stopping our attacks includes almost 90 per cent of North Vietnam's population, and most of its territory."

The wording used by the President created the widespread impression that he was talking about bombing within a range of 40 or 50 miles north of the DMZ separating North and South Vietnam. There are heavy troop concentrations and considerable military activity on both sides of that area.

Dispaches from Saigon Tuesday disclosed American bombers operating under the new policy had carried out heavier than ordinary raids throughout the so-called North Vietnam panhandle and had particularly struck at Thanh Hoa, 210 miles north of the DMZ and just a few miles below the 20th parallel.

Some hours later the Defense Department finally confirmed that the bombing limit set by the President's order was indeed the 20th parallel. In an evident effort to soften the impact of his official word, the Defense Department claimed that 90 per cent of the attacks since the new policy went into effect Sunday night Washington time had been limited to within 60 miles of the DMZ.

Some State Department officials argued privaely that the 200-plus mile range of continued bombing along the narrow strip of North Vietnam's southern projection would not have any effect on the North Vienamese government's reaction to President Johnson's call for a favorable reply and a responsive move to scale down the war.

Fulbright disagreed sharply with this view, as anonymously expressed around the State Department.

"This is not going to be a significant inducement to bring about a ceasefire and conference," he said in his Senate speech.

"Most people in this country had a different impression of the size of the no-bombing area Sunday night."

Fulbright said he had called the President Sunday night to congratulate him on his bombing limitation and a call for peace talks, but added, "I was mistaken."

Mansfield said he spent three hours with President Johnson last Wednesday—while the policy decisions and formulation of the speech were underway. He said Johnson informed him that he would propose cessation of the bombing above the 20th parallel but continue bombing south of that line to protect U. S. forces along the DMZ and to try to block Communist supply trails into South Vietnam.

"He wanted to put in the 20th parallel," Mansfield told the Senate, referring to the President's speech. He then added he felt the State Department talked Johnson out of being so specific.

The diplomats' concern, Mansfield said, was that public establishment of a line would mean the exact identification of the area of North Vietnam safe from bombing. He said the diplomats thought it unwise to set up a sanctuary in that way.

Key Talk By HHH Thursday

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pennsylvania AFL-CIO convention has been told to gather a large audience for an "important address" by Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey on Thursday.

The official--Mike Johnson, head of the 1.5-million member group's political action committee--said he was given no indication of what Humphrey would say.

In answer to questions by reporters, Johnson said, "We get the word from the White House that he's going to make an important address."

If Humphrey decided to run for the presidency, the state's AFL-CIO convention would be an excellent forum.

About 2,000 delegates are attending and today they passed a resolution asking President Johnson to reconsider his decision not to seek re-election.

"We believe the Johnson-Humphrey teamwork is, in the final analysis, the best hope for America and the world," the resolution said.
